COMMITTED AN ERROR.
 At the banquet of Engine Company No. 1, yesterday afternoon, one of the speakers is reported to have said, "the newspapers have always been against us, for if at any time we do any good work at a fire the paper gives us no credit for it, but if we make a mistake then they go for the department tooth and nail." If the speech is correctly reported, the speaker committed an error. The fact of the newspapers having at different times criticised matters in connection with the fire department should not be construed into enmity. Then to say that the papers give no credit for good work done by the department at a fire, does not comport with the record. Speaking for ourselves, we would refer to our back files, in which numerous instances will be found of credit given to the fire department for its doings. In fact, we always have been and still are ready to do what we can to help along the department.

OUR FIRE BRIGADE.
 Any reflective man who saw the firemen's parade yesterday must acknowledge that Honolulu has an exceptionally fine and well equipped volunteer fire brigade. The parade did not, by a long way, represent the full force of the different companies. Various causes, particularly being unable to leave their regular avocations, prevented the attendance of many members. But there was a sufficiently large body in the procession to show that the brigade is strong in numbers as well as complete in its equipments. Four steam engines, a wagon load of hook and ladder apparatus, and one hose reel with an interminable winding of hose attached, were in the procession. It should be remembered that the entire brigade, from the chief engineer down, is purely voluntary and serves without pay. This fact places the community under great obligation to the men who, on such terms, hold themselves in readiness at any hour of the day or night to extinguish a fire wherever it happens. The past record of the department is fraught with many and valuable public services, and we are quite sure that whenever occasion may occur in the future the record will be repeated. With the recently increased water supply, the fine body of men, the engines, and the apparatus which appeared on the streets yesterday may be relied upon to make short work of any blaze that may unfortunately break out.

HOW NOT TO REACH YOUNG MEN.
 EDITOR BULLETIN:—While so much has been said on the matter of "How to reach young men" permit me to say a few words on "How not to reach young men."
 I have already written to a gentleman of this community privately on the subject and although I must admit he has extended a cordial invitation to young men to call at his house, yet I on my part cannot help feeling that he deems my communication unworthy of any recognition whatever, (not that I am at all anxious to achieve public notoriety), and I naturally feel chagrined to call on any one who would not in any way acknowledge a communication. Regarding the subject "How not to reach young men," let me say this: If you see a strange young man in the community and judge by his appearance that he evidently drinks and is liable to frequent carousals, leave him alone; slight him and do all that you can to avoid him; you might disgrace yourself, in the estimation of some, if you are seen speaking to him; they might accuse you of being a boon companion. 'Tis said a man is judged by the company he keeps.
 Should you see a young man who gambles or who is an inveterate smoker, don't try to get acquainted with him and tell him of the consequent results of his evil habits. Shun him, or he might influence you to smoke. Suppose you are accosted by a strange young man who appeals to you for aid, tell him you are too busy to attend to him; he must go to some one else. Don't ask him where he is from, or if he has good credentials; let him go, he is only a waif; forget if you can that it is man's inhumanity to man that makes the million mourn. Should you meet him at the prayer meeting, and he from his demeanor gives evidence that he takes an interest in the meeting, don't take him by the hand when the meeting disperses and tell him you have a place for him in your pew. Just let him alone or by chance you might find in him the proper elements that go to make true manhood. Should a stranger appeal to you, saying, he has diligently sought employment and failed to get it, though he is willing to do any kind of work, that he has spent all his money and is hungry, don't take him home with you and give him food and good sound advice, but hand him a copy of some good book or tract and in that way make him ridicule religion and become possibly an Ingersolite or Free Thinker. Thanking you for your valuable space in your paper,

 Very Respectfully,
 KALEIDOSCOPE.

ABOUT THE YOUNG GIRLS.
 EDITOR BULLETIN:—The daily papers have been discussing about "our young men" of late. Now, in my opinion, the gentle sex should also be mentioned.
 Is it not upon the gentle sex that the happiness and elevation of man much depends? If our homes were always graced by true, noble, pure and wise women, making home attractive, would not our young men grow up respectable and respected, honorable and honored, and be a pride to their country? If the young man's home were his school, his sanctuary, his church, his library, his laboratory, how far it would go to make him a pure, a learned, a wise, a good man.
 The world's society is not the most edifying. How can we expect much reform? Our young women's education is attended to in a certain way; but it is often abused by them. A young miss graduates, returns home, and begins to mingle in society. Her manner, her conversation is commented on, and how often are friends disappointed! Instead of seeing, hearing, admiring an intelligent, sensible, refined young lady, you see too much of what empty society calls "style."
 Now, it is very well to be merry, witty, jocular, and sociable, mingling therewith refinement and pure simplicity; but it is not nice to be giggling, flirting, and saying nonsensical things, with a head full of the latest fashions, the latest style of hat or bonnet, and such light frivolities, thinking herself to be most admired and courted when she is most despised by the stronger sex. The young men who are often called dudes, fools, and simpletons are not generally slow to detect the follies of such girls.
 If young ladies took more interest in the cultivation of their minds, and displayed natural simplicity and modesty, how different our so-called society would be, and what an improving effect it would have upon our young men.

ANOTHER WIFE AND MOTHER.
A WIFE AND MOTHER'S REPLY.
 J. F. SMITH, Esq.—Sir: Many thanks for your kind encomiums on my letter expressed in yesterday's BULLETIN. I still fear a slight misunderstanding exists between us; it seems to be about the importance of reclaiming criminals at the outset, instead of waiting until vice has taken too deep a root. I beg to say that I think that the quicker whatever can be done, is done in that matter the better. I do not approve of the sickly sentiment which is wasted, so often on "red-handed murderers," but as I believe in the immortality of the soul, I wish to see them well attended by those who have the authority to do so.
 I entirely agree with you that there is no profit in bickerings and admit freely that everyone has a perfect right to his or her ideas; and so I join with you most heartily in kindly thoughts and feelings, which no creed will ever try to forbid.
 In reply to Juvenis, the question at issue is, Does the end justify the means? What should be the end proposed in attending church? The answer is obvious: To please God or aid in saving one's soul by so doing. This is a pure motive, but we may argue if we cannot have the purest of motives, a less pure one will suffice; but not in any case an unworthy one.
 Another question: Would it be allowable to pander to vanity, to make use of religion so advance in the estimation of the world? The answer is also obvious. And yet, what has the hero of "A Story" done but something very like this. He has been well and piously brought up, and we suppose went to church at first through a pure motive; but neither the grace of God nor divine truth could retain him there. As he was not made enough of, not of sufficient importance, he left. The foundation stone of his supposed virtues was not humility, so it crumbled and fell to the ground. Would any real benefit have accrued to him, had he continued a regular church member, through appealing to his latent pride or vanity? I seriously doubt it. I know of one case in this city similar in some respects to "a story." It was that of a singer who used to look around on Sunday on coming out of Church, for his meed of praise, which was generally pretty lavishly bestowed; but when by chance the customary "How sweetly you sang to-day Mr. So-and-So," happened to be overlooked, he became irate, and vowed he was not appreciated and was going to leave the church, which he did, for the church's benefit.

 A WIFE AND MOTHER.

"A DEBATING CLUB."
 EDITOR BULLETIN:—With the best of intentions, with most laudable purpose we may rack our brains, and write or rather try to write, newspaper articles about how to reach our young men, yet this is not to the point. Let us up and do.
 I hereby invite everybody who is sincerely interested in the welfare of our future young men to join me in starting a "Debating Club." Please address all your communications to the Post Office, care of Hawaiian Carriage Manufacturing Co. My plan is this: As soon as I have all the names obtainable, say 20 or 30, I will advertise some convenient place to assemble and to organize. I will not repeat the old chestnut of "come one, come all." Let me only say come all!
 I await your pleasure,
 Respectfully,
 J. F. SMITH.

P. S. This is "go as you please." Jew or gentile, free thinker or puritan, cold or hot water ducking against the man who is not satisfied with one wife but wants seven, in fact no religion. Drink or no drink, smoke or no smoke, our object is debate and only this. Come and make your propositions.
 J. F. S.

WANTS TO REACH THE YOUNG LADIES.
 EDITOR BULLETIN:—The well worn subject "How to reach our young men" has been pretty well ventilated in our daily papers, and I hope to the satisfaction of all interested in the subject.
 But how about our young women? I am a bachelor, and in my own opinion probably good looking; stand a little over five feet in my stockings; not morally wicked; have sown most of my wild oats; have a steady and lucrative employment, and a small account in Bishop & Co.'s bank. But the great difficulty I experience is to get acquainted with the young ladies. Bashfulness is my greatest trouble. I have attended a great many of the concerts and societies of the Y. M. C. A. and the Central Union Church, and have often remained after the meetings, hoping that some of the ladies would speak to me and enquire of my welfare, but all in vain. Others more forward seem to engross all their attentions, so that I return home to my quarters disappointed, but still hopeful that by your giving this subject publicity compassion will be taken on the
 BASHFUL YOUNG MEN.

ONE DAY BEHIND.
 Although the Philippine Islands lie near to the Asiatic coast, it was by Spaniards who sailed eastward from America that they were settled. Did they revise their calendar when they crossed the magic line, and strike out a day to keep themselves abreast of the times? No such thing; the Spanish days of that day were a proud and fiery folk, and if their calendar did not agree with the times, then so much the worse for the times.
 Anyhow, the fact remains that, when they arrived at the Manila or Philippine Islands, they still reckoned by the calendar which had been taken from Spain to America, and from America by them on their voyage. They were, of course, a day in arrears; but as there were not then any important settlements of civilization thereabout with whom the date could be compared, the error was not noticed; the reckoning took hold, and, in consequence, the inhabitants of Manila keep plodding along one day behind all their immediate neighbors.—Chamber's Journal.
