The prospects for the sugar crop for 1890 are good, and the yield is estimated at 13,000 tons. [S. F. Bulletin.]

BULLETIN WEEKLY SUMMARY.

The "Bulletin Weekly Summary" issued to-day is an exceedingly newsworthy number. It gives the result of the Presidential election, also full accounts of the brilliant ball given by the King to the British Admiral, and the reception of the Spalding baseball tourists. There is also a variety of local news such as can only be found in the columns of the BULLETIN. The S. G. Wilder leaves for San Francisco on Thursday and will carry a mail. Be sure and send a copy of the summary by her to your friends. Call early as there has been a large demand for them.

THE AUSTRALIAN TRADE.

A dispatch from Ottawa dated Nov. 12 says: As previously announced at a meeting of the Dominion Cabinet, on Saturday, it was decided to invite Australia and New Zealand to send delegates to Ottawa at an early date to consider trade matters and the proposed Pacific cable from New Zealand to British Columbia. The design is to divert travel and traffic from Australia, which now go entirely via San Francisco, to Vancouver, and thence over the Canadian Pacific, and open up a market for Canadian manufactures now possessed almost exclusively, so far as this continent is concerned, by the United States.

U. S. NAVAL NOTES.

Ensign J. B. Blish has been detached from the receiving ship Independence and ordered to the Vandalia, while Assistant Engineer J. M. Pickrell and W. M. McFarland of the Vandalia have been ordered to temporary duty at the island. "The naval defense of the Atlantic and Gulf coast of the United States" is the chosen subject of the prize essay for 1889. Rear-Admiral Simpson, Commander Simpson and Lieutenant-Commander Stockton, are the judges who will award the prize. Chief-Engineer Greene has reported as the relief of Chief-Engineer R. L. Harris of the Mobican, who was detached for duty in connection with the completion of the monitor Monadnock.

THE KINAU.

The steamship Kinau is undergoing a thorough overhauling. Her hurricane deck has been sheathed, and all the rooms and cabins have been newly painted. The vessel has been cleaned inside and out and looks in splendid condition. Next Tuesday at 4 p. m. she will sail on her usual route.

MASQUERADE BALL.

The Portuguese Philharmonic Society will take place at the Portuguese Mutual Benevolent Society's Hall, Alapai street, above Beretania street, on Saturday Dec. 1st, at 7:30 p. m. Two prizes will be given—one for the best chesed, and one for the most comical.

A ROW ABOUT WATER.

In the Police Court this morning, six Chinese were charged with assault and battery on a fellow countryman. It appears that the latter who resides in Manoa Valley claims the right to a certain stream of water, and so does his assaulters. They tested the right among themselves with the above result. The case will be heard on Friday.

A LETTER ABOUT HAWAII.

Mr. Thomas G. Carson, an Irish gentleman, accompanied by Mrs. Carson, spent several weeks on these islands about six months ago, and went from here to Australia. Mr. Carson is a retired lawyer who has acquired a fortune by his profession. He and his wife were greatly pleased with these islands. An Irish newspaper, the Coleraine "Chronicle," in its issue of Oct. 6, 1888, has a column and a half written by the gentleman about this country and its people. He says a great deal in that space. A few slight inaccuracies are noticeable, but most of his statements are correct. Several of our people are mentioned as having shown great kindness to the visitors. The initials only are given, but any old resident can tell to whom they belong. The native people are spoken very kindly of. About the only unkind word in the whole letter refers to the newspapers. The writer says "The rags published here contain nothing." We feel half inclined to endorse this statement, but must say this for the Honolulu papers, that our weeklies contain more reading matter than the Coleraine weekly in which Mr. Carson's letter is published.

A LIVELY GAME.

The Vandalias and Brownes played the most interesting baseball game of the season Sunday at the park. The nautical crew was a fine looking team, gentlemanly and earnest, and good ball players. They had an excellent battery and rather outfielded the boys, but Brooks struck twenty-one of them out and they were unable to do good work with the stick. Crane, the catcher, and Martin at second, did fine work, keeping the Brownes from stealing second, six men dying at that bag. James Cusick umpired with satisfaction to all, even the grand stand. There was the most intense interest taken throughout, and the attendance was very large. The following is the score of the game as kept by Ed. Kavanagh:

THE BRITISH NAVY.

Lord George Hamilton, First Lord of the Admiralty, speaking at Glasgow, Oct. 11th, on the state of the British navy, said that twenty-nine men-of-war, aggregating one hundred thousand tons, would be completed in December next. England, he thought, ought to follow the example of Australia, and organize efficient bodies of men, and build vessels for local defence and the protection of trade centres. At the present time eight of the largest of the British men-of-war were waiting to be supplied with guns, the production of which must be accelerated.

DISASTER AT SEA.

The steamer Tolfaen, Captain Owen, arrived in Newry Canal today, with a cargo of grain from Liverpool to Newry, consigned to Mr. James Fennell, of this town. The captain gives the following account of the terrible disaster that befell his steamer on the 5th inst., when she was about ten miles from Orme's Head, by which five sailors were drowned and the steamer narrowly escaped being sunk:—We sailed on the 4th of October from Liverpool Dock, with a cargo of grain for Newry, consisting of 183 tons. The wind was N. W. by W., fresh breeze and showery. Next morning a fresh breeze was blowing from the same quarter, with squalls. Everything went well till about 2 a. m. when the sea commenced to rise and the steamer began to ship water occasionally. At 3 a. m. a heavy cross sea struck the vessel about the starboard side of the fore-rigging and threw the vessel on her beam ends. We were about ten miles from the Great Orme's Head at the time. The crew thought the vessel was sinking and went to prepare the boat in order to save their lives. I came down from the bridge and as soon as I landed on deck a heavy sea broke on board and washed me about considerably. I was nearly washed overboard, but I saved myself by getting hold of a stanchion aft on the sea side, as I was on the verge of being washed away. As soon as I managed to get on my feet I went forward and found only the fireman (John Roberts) on deck. Excepting Roberts and myself the rest of the crew and the boat were swept away. The first thing we did when the steamer uprighted a little we both went on the bridge. I thought the best thing that could be done to save our lives and property was to keep the steamer before the wind, which we managed to do after a good deal of trouble. The vessel was very nearly being swamped several times. At about 5:30 a. m. we managed to bring the steamer to an anchor at Rose Bay, and on searching about the decks we found that every moveable article about the decks had been washed away. The boat and the unfortunate men were never seen after the steamer righted. In the meantime we got up a signal of distress and both of us went below to the fore-hold to trim the cargo so as to upright the vessel. At about 9 a. m. the Llandulas lifeboat came alongside to our assistance with ten men to trim the cargo. After working for several hours trimming the cargo the lifeboat left for the shore, leaving four of their crew to assist to take the steamer to land. We could not very well tell what water was in the hold owing to the steamer rolling about so much. We came to anchor at 2:30 p. m. at Garth, Menai Straits, when we found that there were four feet of water in the well of the steamer, although the pumps were kept going from the time of the disaster. A watchman was engaged to watch the pumping. I shipped a new crew on the 8th, and handed over the effects of the deceased crew to the Superintendent of Customs at Bangor. We then sailed for Newry port, where we arrived safely.—[Weekly Irish News.]
