Daily Bulletin

Pledged to neither Sect nor Party, But established for the benefit of all.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 14, 1889.

The Earl of Fife has proved to be a nobleman in deed as well as in name, by refusing to accept the share of the royal grants falling to his bride, Princess Louise of Wales.

It is a great pity that the close of a season of baseball, so well played by most of the clubs as to place the Honolulu League on a par with the first-class players of the United States, should be clouded with the scandalous imputation against the Hawaii club of being hippodromed by unprincipled gamblers. The game can only be preserved in public favor henceforth by the League co-operating with the civil authorities in suppressing the practice of betting on matches.

It is said that in Russia naphtha dregs are used everywhere as fuel, displacing wood and coal than which it is much cheaper. Railways and factories have generally adopted it. The new fuel occupies much less space in storage than the old, and can be handled more readily. Where fuel rules so high as it does in these islands, it would be worth experimenting on a decisive scale with naphtha. Perhaps our steamers and railways might be run with diminished expense by its adoption.

THE JAPANESE HOSPITAL.

The Japanese Mutual Aid Association has issued circulars in behalf of its hospital previously referred to in this paper. His Excellency L. A. Thurston, Minister of the Interior, comments the object to citizens in a note attached to the circular. Having made himself acquainted with the management of the hospital, he thinks that it is an excellent institution. The following particulars of the hospital being of general interest are given with pleasure: "Charges per month including attendance, $9. No. of rooms, 3; No. of beds, 12; monthly rental, $35; medical attendance, the gratuitous services of a Japanese physician of the Board of Immigration; No. of patients admitted to date, 27; No. of patients discharged, 19; No. of patients died, none; No. of patients now under treatment, 8. Total amount received from all sources, $496.15; total amount of disbursements, $351.30; balance on hand, $144.85." As the future of the hospital depends upon public favor, it is to be hoped there will be a generous response made to the appeal by the community.

ASTRONOMICAL STUDIES.

By Galileo II.

I, Galileo, philosopher, astronomer royal, astrologer, rendered myself unpopular with a certain class early in my engagement with "the people's paper," by mildly reproaching the introduction into the baseball arena of gambling on the games. However, time has proved that I only erred in point of mildness. All the true champions of the game are now heard declaring that either the betting or ball-playing will have to go. One club is believed to have been put out of the final contest for the honors solely through the corruption of one or more of its players by unprincipled gamblers.

Politics are much mixed. There are many aspirants to leadership, the trouble with whom is to know where to get followings. How would it do to let the people choose leaders for themselves? First, come together in their wards and districts and find out what the majority want for a platform. Secondly, have a national convention to resolve what may be deemed best in the principles enunciated in the smaller gatherings into a harmonious whole. Then go back to the wards and districts and select men who can be depended on for carrying out the popular programme. Sink party differences arising out of dead issues. Let bygones be stowed away among the relics of past folly. Give the cold shoulder to politicians who have developed nothing but selfishness and trucking to moneyed influence. Never mind the Ministry. If the people act together they can get any Cabinet they want after securing a good Legislature. All stand by for a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together, and get Hawaii out of the hands of cliques, to be ruled by the people for the greatest good of the greatest number. This is bosh, is it? Those who think so will find no statute in the way of their proposing a sensible course out of the present muddle of politics.

Sometimes one runs against better material for legislators in gatherings of plain and unpretending people than the persons pushed forward for the honors at party conventions. It is certainly more representative material in a great many cases. There is frequently solid meat to be found in the honest sentiments of a workingman's "few remarks," in a manner withal combining fluency and force, grammar and grace, in a higher degree than is at the command of the generality of men elected to the Legislature. Still the unassuming mass will allow itself to be carried away by the prating of scheming politicians, and influenced by the machinations of wire-pullers, to have itself represented by persons who love the people as the bear loves fresh mutton.

A constitutional amendment seems to afford the best ground for an understanding between the planting and other classes upon the Chinese question. If there is any hope that the planters would agree to support an amendment protecting their labor interests, it will be better to wait for a new Legislature than trust to the present one. The planters cannot consult together on the subject before their annual convention next month, and it would be unfair, as well as bad policy, to prejudice them by assuming that they are irreconcilable to any method of relief. To give them the chance they are entitled to, however, would necessitate abandoning all idea of a special convention of the Legislature. The existing houses have made their record on the question and it would be only just to compel every member to be bound by his position in the division list. With a powerful demonstration outside in favor of the measure, it might be easy to have an amendment rushed through at a special sitting. But what assurance would there be of sincerity in those who under such circumstances attempted to retrieve their standing? Or that when seated in the next Legislature by virtue of their eleventh hour repentance, they would not find some excuse for betraying their trust?

Its name is mud. That is what purports to be the water for which the Honolulu has to pay the Government rates. Is there no way of eliminating the soil? Sometimes there is enough land in our domestic supply of water to make it doubtful if it shouldn't come under the law compelling the Government to sell it at auction as part of the public domain. If there is no method of purifying the ditch water now supplied, let the Government get an appropriation for a complete system of artesian wells. Although my physician says that artesian water is injurious from its mineral deposits, I should prefer carrying an iron mine about in my system rather than an infant taro patch.

THE DIFFERENCE.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—In the Advertiser some little time ago, appeared a leader on the subject of a morning paper being far superior to an evening paper. As far as that goes, "it may be right, or it may be wrong!" Don't know, never stopped to study it up. But this much I do know, as far as the BULLETIN is concerned, it would make no difference, whether it was issued in the morning, evening, or at midnight, the masses would want it all the same, for the very good reason, that it is the paper for the people, and they know it. "Only that, and nothing more." B.

LETTER FROM MR. KINNEY.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—An article in last night's BULLETIN signed "Pau," an article in the P. C. A. by a rice planter signed A. B., and secret efforts of different kinds to crush the present movement to secure a Chinese constitutional amendment all indicate the drift of the tide. We fail to see what hostility to the planter there is in the proposition to restrict future Chinese importations to plantation labor and to prevent any more Chinese going into town occupations.

To be sure there are risks to the planter and all of Chinese retaliation in making the move, but no greater than the risks recently incurred by others in behalf of the country at large. The truth is the proposition we make, so far from being demagogic or one-sided, is a cold-blooded compromise between the extreme views of some sugar men who are carried away with the idea that sugar is not only the backbone but all the other bones big and little of the country, and those on the other hand who feeling mad and disgusted would go to the opposite extreme whenever the planter's interests are concerned. The poor fool who wrote the article signed "Pau" has yet to make the acquaintance of a demagogue and when that individual does appear on the scenes with the pathway paved for him by such abuse as the writer of that article has indulged in, it will be with no such compromise measures as we urge, but with a vocabulary of vituperation and of hot appeal to prejudice against the planter and every interest of the planter horn of precisely the same malice and demagogic spirit which actuated Mr. "Pau" in characterizing men like Robert Lishman, John Emmelhuth, John Phillips and others as "sandlotterers" and "non-producers."

The insistence of even the Advertiser to treat the present agitation as a movement against the planting interests, actuated by personal hostility to them and not as a simple act of self-defense by men who are being decimated and jammed to the wall, is just the thing which is fast driving the whole movement off of its original basis of compromise and return to unity, into an irreconcilable conflict at the polls.

One is astonished at the utter blindness and disregard of human nature and human passions, which lead many to believe that if we suppress any agitation and do nothing, an appeal on the eve of the election for unity is going to keep this town, and afterwards the legislature together. Such a position justifies the adage that "whom the gods plan to destroy they first make mad." I think with Mr. Oleson that even a concession on the Chinese question may be insufficient to unite us, but if that will not nothing will.

There is little hope, however, of a reasonable settlement even at the eleventh hour, and the pressure of elections upon us, where one faction will not support the movement because it is a private scheme to oust the Ministry, an opposing faction because it is a scheme to save them; and where the planter following insist on considering the whole movement as a personal assault on their interests, while the other side consider it a compromise with the planter where no compromise is right or safe, and where such an ass as "Pau" crows the confusion and adds fuel to the flame with demagogic abuse from the planter's side of men who, sore, disappointed, and anxious for the future, are only too apt to light upon such talk as a justification for excessive measures at the polls.

This confession of menace to any compromise movement is not made shame-facedly, for the truth should help not hurt a just cause, and every man in the movement can well afford to follow it single-handed, if need be, to the close and to put himself of record. The fair and prompt presentation of a decided non-personal issue like the Chinese question to the people will do more than all else to clarify the political atmosphere and to prevent the dangerous agitation of a campaign of the purely personal and recriminatory nature that is now ahead of us. W. A. KINNEY.

A TYPO'S JOKE.

The "devil" of a newspaper at Hastings, England, recently caused a sensation which convulsed all London. Anxious to try his hand at writing, the youth constructed a marvellous tale about the apparent death and subsequent resurrection on the point of burial of the wife of a tradesman of that place. He published the story with all the horrible features that a fertile imagination could supply, thrust it into type himself and put it into print without being discovered by the editor. The story attracted great attention in London, and an array of reporters, physicians and outbursts seekers generally descended upon Hastings in search of further particulars, only to be confronted by the trembling but happy "devil," who rejoiced greatly at the sensation that he had created. It is rumored that the youthful genius has been offered the post of managing editor of an American paper in London.

THE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO., OF NEW YORK

Is the Oldest Active Life Insurance Company in the United States and the Largest in the World!

Its assets Jan. 1st, 1889, amounted to $125,494,719. Its insurance in force was $482,125,184 and the computed Reserve Fund which with future premiums and interest is required for paying the same, at the maturity of the policies or the death of the assured, was $117,607,078, thus leaving a clear surplus for future dividends to policy holders of $7,887,639.

This Company has no capital stock. It is purely Mutual. All the accumulations belong to its members, and all the profits go to its policy holders who have received since 1863, the sum of $78,878,476.82 in dividends earned by their policies. In the same period it has also paid $88,480,963.57 in death claims; $24,669,604.45 in matured endowments and $594,548.27 in annuities to living members; and besides $68,599,139.56 have been allowed for the value of discontinued policies purchased by the Company. In all since 1863, $261,222,732.77 have been returned to policy holders.

This amount is Twice as Large as the returns made by any other life insurance company in the world during the period named.

An Investment Returning 6 Per Cent. Compound Interest.

To illustrate the point pertaining to the investment of funds and the return to the policy holder, the following illustration is given:

Table showing a single premium life policy issued by this company in 1862. Policy No. 28,342, Single Premium Life, Age 38, 1865. Amount $10,000, Premium $4,077.00. Face of Policy $10,000.00. Additions Credited $7,716.57. Additions Surrendered 1,548.57. Balance of Additions 6,168.00. Present Value of Policy as a Claim $16,168.00. Premium $4,077.00. Cash Dividends Withdrawn 939.34. Net Amount Paid by Insured 3,137.66. Value as a Claim in Excess of Amount Paid $13,030.34.

The existing additions amount to nearly 200 per cent. of the net amount paid by the insured, and the insured has realized 6 per cent. compound interest on his investment.

With conditions quite as favorable to them as to the Mutual, no one of its would-be rivals has ever equaled this result.

A. D. THOMAS, Executive Special Agent the Mutual Life Ins. Co.
