

NOTICE.

Crown Lands for Lease on the Island of Hawaii.

It is notified for public information that land specially adapted for small farming and fruit cultivation in suitable portions, may be had upon application to the agent of Crown Lands.

DESCRIPTION OF LAND.

The Crown Land of Oloa comprising an area of 54,000 acres is situated in the District of Puna, and extends from the crater of Kilauea to within 11 miles of the town of Hilo. The quality of the soil is excellent and comprises large tracts of superior land of deep loamy soil. The New Volcano Road, now in course of construction by the Government, affords cheap facilities of access to market. Nearly all of the sections are heavily wooded, furnishing durable timber for building and fencing purposes. The altitude ranges from 600 to 4000 feet above sea level. Climate moist and favorable.

The lands now offered are valuable by reason of their good quality and accessibility, none of the sections being more than two miles from the main Government Road and many of them fronting on it.

Terms and conditions favorable. Special inducements offered to settlers.

Additional information and particulars can be obtained on application at this office.

C. P. LAUKEA,

Agent of Crown Lands.

Daily Bulletin

MONDAY, MAY 2, 1892.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE.

A great deal has been heard in the past two years about the bad effects of the McKinley Bill on the industrial and commercial interests of these islands. Since the passage of that measure part of two sugar crops and the whole of one crop have been marketed in the United States, subject to the bad conditions brought about by the cutting off of Hawaii's advantages under the reciprocity treaty effected by the bill. Yet the country still lives and, in everything excepting the amount received for our sugar, thrives. Might it not be as well to change the long-prevailing tune and take a while at singing something more cheerful? There is no question that, although times have changed somewhat badly, our affairs have been made to look as bad as possible, often, with a purpose apart from any idea that the inglorious portrayal would assist in bringing about a remedy. The condition of the country has been used in fantastic ways by different sets of politicians, with the object of showing that in each particular faction lay the only hope of both commercial and national salvation. Advocates of unrestricted immigration of Asiatics for plantation labor have employed our changed market relations to force their theory upon the majority of the people, who will only accept cheap labor under conditions favorable to the perpetuation of civilized institutions. On the other hand, extremists, who regard the planters as enemies of all interests not their own, have taken occasion of the labor phase of the situation to try to drown all discussion of reasonable measures for relief to our main industry, by frantic denunciation of any and every proposition to utilize the hordes of labor starving for employment in the far East, and to obtain which and that without danger to civilization in this country there has yet been nothing like exhaustive effort. It is a pity that the whole situation cannot be calmly discussed and some practical understanding be arrived at between all reasonable parties in anticipation of the approaching session of the Legislature.

But, apart from the labor question, are there not many promising elements in the present situation? Certainly a few can be indicated offhandedly. For many years before the free sugar measure in the United States dished our reciprocity advantages, there were voices on every hand urging upon capitalists the desirability of increasing the range of domestic products. The cry was especially loud when the renewal of the reciprocity treaty a few years ago hung in the balance. Another object of strenuous advocacy was the settlement of Government lands by desirable classes of people to help build up the nation. During all these years the planters have been paying constant attention to the problem of improved machinery and apparatus, so as to obtain the best possible yields of sugar from the cane. Has not great progress been made in all these respects? Nobody will have the hardihood to answer this question in the negative. In the matter of increasing the number of products from our own soil, the planters themselves have not been either indifferent or idle. On several sugar plantations, for instance, considerable areas are now planted in coffee with good promise of successful production. Several companies have been formed and are in active operation for the raising of coffee, also pineapples and other fruits. The amount of production in similar lines by individual owners is by no means slight. There has been a large increase in the annual production and exportation of bananas. Successive Legislatures have amended the homestead law for its smoother working, and many small producers have availed themselves of its advantages. Besides this the Queen has now inaugurated a scheme of much promise for settling valuable areas of good soil in favorable location, of the domain appertaining to the Crown hitherto only open to leaseholding on a large scale. The planters are better equipped than ever, and ahead of those of other sugar countries, in the science of extracting sugar from the cane. Surely the state of the country has some silver lining to it, which may be turned to with glad relief from the blueness of rim that characterizes most pictures of the period.

The best spring medicine is a dose or two of St. Patrick's Pills. They not only physic but cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Agents.

THAT OPIUM DISCOVERY.

Mr. G. E. Boardman, Deputy Collector of Customs, caused no arrests to be made while on Maui, in connection with the discovering of evidence of a large deal in opium on that island. It is probable that by this time Ah Mi, a Chinese merchant, has been arrested by the police authorities. There will be a hearing of the case of the four natives, including one woman, in custody for handling the opium discovered, before Police Justice Keoika at Wailuku to-morrow.

Brown the principal, whose bail was $1000, Johnson and Williams, $500 each, were not pros'd in the Supreme Court to-day, only to be immediately re-arrested on a warrant issued and returnable at Wailuku. They will be sent there by steamer to-morrow. The special police on Maui have discovered a good deal of important evidence, in addition to that held by the Customs authorities here on which the three strangers were arrested.

It is supposed that the opium was landed by the schooner Casco, and that it belongs to the notorious Pacific Coast smuggler, Stewart.

"German Syrup"

We have selected two of three lines from letters freshly received from parents who have given German Syrup to their children in the emergencies of Croup. You will credit these, because they come from good, substantial people, happy in finding what so many families lack—a medicine containing no evil drug, which mother can administer with confidence to the little ones in their most critical hours, safe and sure that it will carry them through.

Ed. L. Williams, of Mrs. Jas. W. Kirk, Alma, Neb. I give it to my children when troubled with Croup and never saw any preparation set like it. It is simply miraculous. Fully one-half of our customers are mothers who use Boschee's German Syrup among their children. A medicine to be successful with the little folks must be a treatment for the sudden and terrible foes of childhood, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria and the dangerous inflammations of delicate throats and lungs. @
