LIQUOR IN POLYNESIA.

England's Proposition for the Islands of the Pacific Agreeable to the United States.
Washington, Nov. 3.—A proposition originating with Great Britain for the suppression of the liquor traffic in the islands of the Pacific Ocean has drawn from our State Department a definite announcement as to the position of the United States in regard to the islands of the Polynesian group. For some years a project has been urged upon the various Governments concerned for the suppression or regulation of the sale of intoxicating liquors and firearms to the natives of the islands in the Pacific Ocean. As long ago as 1884 Secretary of State Frelinghuysen concurred in the proposition brought to his attention by the British Minister, but a definite plan was formulated or submitted to this Government until July last. This plan as framed by the British Government was accepted by Secretary Foster in a note to the British charge, dated on the 11th ult., with a few suggested modifications as to details. The Secretary said: "While the sentiments and convictions of this government endorse the effective restriction of deleterious commerce with the Pacific islands, the method of giving expression thereto is necessarily influenced by the disparity of policy and interests between the United States and the great European states in the Pacific Ocean. This disparity has become even greater since the present proposal was first put forth in 1884. Nearly all of Polynesia has now passed under European jurisdiction. Were the United States a colonizing power, expanding its jurisdiction in the same way as the other great powers among the islands of the Western Pacific, question might legitimately arise as to the share of responsibility that properly should fall to us in the public control of these regions. As it is, the Government of the United States is without colonial interest of any kind in that quarter of the globe, and its administrative responsibilities are remotely confined to participation in the encouragement of good government and autonomy in the Samoan group. To the colonizing or protecting powers the question at issue becomes largely a matter of local municipal government; to the United States it is one of moral influence and cordial co-operation within the just limits of domestic and international rights. Although its responsibilities in the matter are not so great, this Government is none the less interested in the humanitarian purposes of the proposed convention, and I am happy to express, by direction of the President, his assent to its general scope."
