Story of Koolau's Deed.

Told by Two Lepers Now on Molokai.

They Say Stolz Was Shot to Save the Shooter's Friend.

The following clear account of the first tragedy at Kalalau was sent by the two lepers that place now at the Molokai Settlement, to Mrs. H. W. Auld of Honolulu. While agreeing in some respects with previous accounts, it gives particulars hitherto unpublished regarding the death of the Deputy Sheriff.

[TRANSLATION.]

During the first week in June of this year Deputy Sheriff Louis Stolz and Penikila (policeman) went to Kalalau, where we were, and requested the lepers to go to Molokai. The lepers asked that their departure be delayed until the last week in July, in order to give them time to make preparations for their going, and also to allow them to consume the taro they had planted and which they were living on, and also that their horses might be sold.

This proposition Stolz assented to. Judge of the lepers' surprise when Stolz appeared prematurely in the third week in June. Accompanied by three policemen Stolz promptly went to the lepers' homes for the purpose of taking them to Oahu. Information, however, having preceded Stolz of this move, the lepers left for the mountains to hide from him. Stolz and his companions stayed at Kaunehiwa's house. On the night of the sixth day of Stolz's second visit, waiting for the lepers to come back, Stolz went up alone, leaving orders with Peter Nowlein (policeman) to take up the tent and station it at the centre of a gulch on a rise, where it would command a view, and everybody coming up to the valley of Kalalau or going down could be easily discernible. This position was about a mile from the place where six lepers had been stationed to watch the taro patches, as if they all fled to the mountains they would die of hunger.

On the day Stolz was killed, while the six lepers were pounding taro they saw the tents being pitched on the knoll. When they finished pounding taro, Koolau, Manuia and Nihoa went down within a short distance of the tent, when Koolau stood on a rock and pointed his rifle at the officers erecting the tent. The latter made themselves scarce and Koolau ordered Manuia to go and take the tent to their rendezvous. While Manuia was gone Koolau and Nihoa went down to the beach, and later Manuia, Paao, and Kala followed. Peter Nowlein (policeman) met Koolau and his companion and imparted to them the information that Stolz had gone into the valley that night. The party then thought they would wait until Stolz's return on the beach. They searched for Stolz's arms and found them in a crevice on the beach (where Iwa had just hid them)—one revolver, two boxes cartridges, and two boxes of rifle ammunition. Koolau tried five shots in his own rifle, and on hearing the reports the officers and non-lepers suspected that they had found the arms. The policemen and non-lepers hid on the beach when Koolau's party returned above.

Koolau met some, however, and asked them where Stolz had hid his rifle. They replied they did not know. Koolau searched and found the rifle among the bushes. They then hid themselves a distance from the beach and waited for Stolz's return. Paao being the only one despatched up the valley to guard the weak lepers. When Paao returned to the house of Kapahoe and his wife, about three quarter mile from where Stolz's tent had been erected, Kapahoe asked Paao to dine with him. While they were eating Stolz entered and arrested Paao, taking his rifle away from him. Kapahoe proposed that he go to the beach and fetch help for him (Stolz), but this the latter would not agree to. Kapahoe also told him that his arms had been captured by the lepers. It was about dusk at the time. Stolz marched Paao down on foot, while Kapahoe rode down to the beach on Paao's horse.

Nearing the beach Stolz saw a man standing by a house and asked Paao who he was. Paao replied that it was Kala. Kala hearing them sang out, "Who is that?" Paao answered that it was Stolz and himself. Kala then ran, accompanied by Iwa, who happened to be with him. Stolz sang out to Kala to stop, but the latter continued to run. Stolz then pushed Paao down on a slab of stone and raised his rifle to his shoulder. Just as his rifle was in line, Koolau's rifle cracked and the bullet entered Stolz's stomach. Koolau was in a dent behind Kala. Koolau sang out to Paao asking if Stolz was dead, and was answered that he was not. A second shot was then heard. After the first shot, Stolz said to Paao, "Paao, give my aloha to my mother!" If Stolz had not been hit by Koolau, Kala would have been shot.

REASONS OF THE DREADFUL SHOOTING.

Firstly, because Stolz deceived the lepers by telling them he would come for them in the last week in June.

Secondly, because it was reported that Kaunehiwa put Stolz up to taking the lepers, also saying untruthfully to him that they were robbing the non-lepers of their taro. As a matter of fact Kaunehiwa wanted Koolau transported in order that he might secure Piliua (Mrs. Koolau) for himself.

Thirdly, on account of Stolz's boast (on this second visit) that he would not leave the valley until all the lepers surrendered to him. If they fled to the mountains he would wait until they were thin with hunger and gave themselves up. If this agent of the Government had gone about his work carefully he would not have suffered death, and the public money would not have been squandered.

Yours truly, PAO AND NIHOA, Kalaupapa, Molokai, Aug. 8, 1893.

VOLCANO HOUSE COMPANY.

Annual Meeting of the Stockholders at Mr. Castle's Office.

There was a special meeting of the Volcano House Company held at the office of Mr. W. R. Castle at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Immediately after opening the meeting resolved to hold the annual meeting forthwith, and after formal adjournment of the special session the company reconstituted itself for the annual meeting.

There were present the following named shareholders: Wm. R. Castle, President; T. W. Hobron, Secretary pro tem; E. C. Macfarlane, Treasurer; F. A. Schaefer, Cecil Brown, P. C. Jones, C. Bosse, W. G. Irwin, T. Rain Walker, John Ena, Oscar White, S. B. Rose, J. A. Magoon, F. J. Lowrey, J. G. Spencer, A. W. Carter, Bruce Cartwright, C. M. White and Peter Whitmarsh—these representing 1400 out of 1800 shares of capital stock.

The Treasurer read the annual report. Among other things it showed a net loss for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1892, of $250.29, and for the first six months of 1893, of $79.60. The falling off in business had mainly been in transient travel. Among causes of decrease in travel to the islands were the cholera scare of last year, the political troubles of this year, and the stream to the World's Fair. If the stock was all taken up, it would pay all debts of the company. Owing to errors made before he took the books, there was a discrepancy between the paid-up capital as per his ledger and the certificate book, the difference being $450 more than is represented by the shares issued. Five certain accounts were cited to show that the invested capital falls short of the property which it represents by $5394.46. The profit and loss account from the commencement 17 months ago to June 30, 1893, showed a net profit to date of $702.11. The net indebtedness is $6644.34.

The Treasurer regrets that he had not sufficient data to form a basis for accurately ascertaining how many guests are necessary to pay the actual expenses. To make such a computation exact it would be necessary to know the actual number of meals and night's lodgings. It does not seem practicable to cut down the present running expenses of the Volcano House.

The report spoke of the grand advertisement the Cyclorama at Chicago would give the islands. It anticipated that a great deal could be done in attracting tourists here, on the occasion of the Midwinter Fair in San Francisco.

On motion of Mr. Jones a vote of thanks was unanimously passed to the Treasurer for his very full report.

Mr. John Ena, Auditor, explained that he had not had time to audit all the accounts of the year.

Mr. Schaefer moved, seconded by Mr. C. Brown, that the report be received subject to the certificate of the auditor. Carried.

Mr. Irwin obtained an explanation from the Treasurer regarding the system of checking accounts at the Volcano House.

The list of stockholders was read over, to see if any present could explain the discrepancy mentioned in the treasurer's report.

The election of officers then took place. On a unanimous ballot it resulted as follows:

President—W. R. Castle. Vice-President—John Ena. Treasurer—E. C. Macfarlane. Secretary—T. W. Hobron. Auditor—P. C. Jones.

Mr. Jones made remarks on the desirability of having a good man to push the business at Honolulu.

Mr. Macfarlane joined in the discussion.

Mr. Schaefer thought the matter of promoting the business might be left to the Directors.

Mr. Brown moved, seconded by Mr. Schaefer, that the Directors try to have shareholders increase their stock.

The meeting then adjourned.

PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Native Crushed Under a Heavily Loaded Cart.

On Monday afternoon a native met with a very serious accident at Lele, near Mr. Walter Hill's residence. He was standing up driving one of Ala-pai's dump carts full of stones, when the cart jolted and threw the driver between the mule and cart. The heavy vehicle passed clean over him. The man was picked up insensible with blood flowing from a number of wounds, and carried into a house, where by means of the lomilomi process he was restored to consciousness. A doctor was summoned. To-day the injured man was lying in a critical state. It is not believed that he will recover, as several bones are broken.

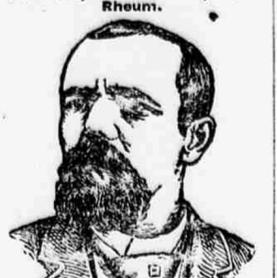

Owing to the press of business and the amount of stock to be kept on hand, Mr. Chas. Girler has removed his place of business to the office lately occupied by Mr. A. Jaeger. This is another of the many evidences resulting from advertising in a popular paper, viz., the BULLETIN.

Hood's Cures

Saved My Wife's Life

Weakness, Nervousness, Salt Rheum.

John W. Jones, Kalama, Wash.

"Of my own free will and accord, unblasted by anyone, and wishing only to do good to the afflicted, I wish to tell of the good qualities of Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills. I think there are no medicines equal to them, and have proved their merit by experience to my own family. My wife, Rachel, has been afflicted with weakness, nervousness, and salt rheum. I spent nearly all that I had of this world's goods for doctor's bills and medicine until we decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It undoubtedly saved my wife from the grave. The salt rheum has entirely healed and she is restored to good health. I have many friends and relatives in the east who will be glad to know that."

LUCOL!

WHAT IS IT?

LUCOL

IS A PAINT OIL

make from an artificially produced GUM almost as elastic as INDIA RUBBER, which, when reduced by certain volatile solvents to the consistency of an oil, can be mixed with all pigments, and used in the same manner as linseed oil.

It resists water, acids, alkalis, heat and cold and atmospheric influences. It lasts longer, gives a richer gloss, covers better and makes pigments more brilliant than the purest and best linseed oil.

It possesses the remarkable property of "covering" with much less pigment than any other oil. It also mixes in larger proportions with varnishes and improves their working, lasting and wearing properties.

From the Manager of Paunahua Plantation Co., Hamakua, Hawaii.

Wm. LEIS OLIVER, Esq., Manager American Lucol Co., San Francisco.

Dear Sir:—A year ago I used some of the oil manufactured by your Company to paint one of our Plantation buildings, at the same time painting adjoining buildings with paints mixed with American and English linseed oils. The paint was mixed and applied by a competent workman.

The building painted with Lucol Oil retains its original appearance, while those on which linseed Oil was used faded some time ago, the paint becoming chalky. As this Plantation is on the weather side of the island, and the climate exceptionally trying on paint, I consider the above to be as thorough a test as any to which your Oil can possibly be subjected, its superiority being so apparent. I take pleasure in recommending the Lucol Oil to all users of Paints.

Yours very Respectfully, A. MOORE, Manager.
