

Some genuine American views of the Hawaiian situation will be found in this issue from the Illustrated American.

When the annexationists would not give Mr. Blount certain information he wanted, it comes with an ill grace from them to complain that he did not question some of their leaders. Why was the roll of members of the Annexation Club refused to the Commissioner?

Opium smuggling never had such free course under the monarchy as it has now under Minister Stevens's "best government the islands ever had." The revenue service indeed appears to be torpid, waking up now and then to look for the holes in the air where opium had been stowed in vessels' holds.

There is a Sphyxianlike silence in the Government organs regarding the charges of perverting of justice to save P. G. gun-carriers from punishment for illicit dealing in opium and liquor. This is the golden age for law-breakers in Hawaii who put themselves on the right side for immunity from their deserts.

The annexation poet of Maui has "written for the Advertiser" Tennyson's well-known verses, "Form Killmen Form," which in 1858 caused a lively stir between France and Great Britain. We may next expect the newly imported Maui dominion to publish an annexation version of the Ten Commandments. This is the P. G. age of plagiarism.

It is reported from Washington in a San Francisco paper received today that the tariff bill was complete, and only awaiting approval by the Secretary of the Treasury before being made public. President Cleveland and the Democratic party are in power for business, and party platforms in the United States will mean something henceforth.

In answer to a query in the Holomua, the BULLETIN speaking for itself would say that the weekly financial statement was omitted from this paper last week for want of space. The Minister of Finance furnished the usual copy to the press. Perhaps the Government organs will explain why they omitted the statement, while filling up space with stereotyped conglomerate.

There is an end to the voyages of the Pacific Mail steamer City of New York. She has gone to pieces on the rocks at the entrance of the bay of San Francisco. With the $500,000 steamship is lost from $100,000 to $200,000 spent in efforts to save her, including expensive wrecking pumps and gear that could not be recovered when the hull began to break up. The "I told you so" fraternity in San Francisco are making unfavorable comparisons between the unsuccessful efforts to float the City of New York with the success of Captain Metcalf in floating the Mowera at Honolulu.

THAT CALABASH AGAIN.

The Star, true to its instincts, insists on its romance of the Hui Kalaiana's forwarding a calabash to the Hon. J. H. Blount, and endeavors to fortify the lie by stating that a prominent physician read the inscription which we quoted on Saturday from the Star. We congratulate the Star people on being able to get under the toga of a "prominent physician," and trust that Medico, whoever he may be, is more conscientious in inditing his own prescriptions than in figuring out other people's inscriptions. Moreover, the authorship of a fabricated inscription is not nearly so rough on a mythical "prominent physician" as it might be on some of our prominent preachers; for whereas physic is not yet an exact science, the theology of annexation is. The absurdity of a society of about ten thousand men presenting a simple "calabash" for "services rendered," is, of course, quite in keeping with the Star portraiture of Hawaiian character. As to the "soup" which the Star says Mr. Blount may find a calabash useful for, the remark suggests to us to enquire of the Star how John L. Stevens is likely to enjoy his cold broth out of that annexation tureen, especially when flavored, as it is now, with "Soper's mushroom army ketchup," patented on the 14th of January, 1893? There is no present reason why the Star should despair of receiving its dishful. The pot-au-feu is sizzling.

THE INQUISITION.

In its report of the inquisition on Saturday, the Star says that Carl Widemann, Geo. Smithies and Palmer Woods "each avowed himself a Royalist, though he was not so particular about the return of Liliuokalani to power as about the restoration of the monarchical form of government. Smithies wanted a sovereignty with greatly curtailed powers. The Star never sticks at falsehoods when they serve to injure political opponents. One of the gentlemen named by the Star says he never had any idea about restoration unconnected with the return of Liliuokalani, and nothing he said to the Executive Council could bear the construction of what the Star says.

This is not the first time the Star has lied about the same faithful and efficient public servant. It published a yarn a few days ago about his having said something at a private gathering in favor of restoration. The story proved to have originated in some distorted gossip brought to the Star office by Dr. McGrew from a young Hawaiian lady he met at Waikiki. In its reference to the official in question the published story was utterly false.

Another of the three officials condemned by the inquisition on Saturday had some time before tendered his resignation to Mr. Damon, the Minister of Finance, giving as his reason that he did not wish to see the Minister placed in an embarrassing relation with the supporters of his party on his account. Mr. Damon declined to accept his resignation, saying he trusted him and his fellow-clerk, for whose dismissals the Star was clamoring, and would stand by them. When the Minister had taken his stand in the Councils against the principle of the proposed inquisition, the clerks in question on mutual consultation informed him that if he resigned in consequence of having his policy repudiated they would resign with him. Mr. Damon thanked them cordially and, a little while afterward, invited them up to the Executive Council chamber, there to receive their dismissals as a reward for their fidelity to their chief.

All the honor that the inquisition has thus far developed is reflected on the many young Hawaiians who have been its first victims. They could have saved their positions by practicing the duplicity of many others in signing the Annexation Club's roll and promising to carry a gun against their friends and kindred. They might have avoided the humiliation of being summarily dismissed by refusing to take the word of their chief that he would stand by them. These young men retire from the positions in which they have served different governments creditably, with the respect of the whole community not excepting the members of the inquisition themselves. They leave it for the inquisitor general and his colleagues to suffer the pangs caused by a loss of self-respect from their moral consciousness.

An uncalled-for remark is made in the Holomua, condemning the dismissed officials if they stay in their places until their successors are appointed. It is very necessary for his own sake that Mr. Smithies should turn over the affairs of the Registry of Finance in perfect shape. This will require a day or two's work.

COURT CHRONICLE.

Waikapu Commons Again—Fighting an Old Will. Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co. vs. Waikapu Sugar Co., was heard before the Supreme Court this morning, in an appeal from the decree of the Chancellor denying the motion for accounting from the time of the bringing of the suit. The appeal is the defendant's, represented in this suit by G. W. Macfarlane, Hatch and C. W. Ashford for plaintiff, Hartwell for defendant.

Judge Cooper has confirmed the master's report and approved the executors' accounts in the estate of J. N. Robinson. Carter & Carter for executors.

Judge Cooper has approved the accounts and ordered the discharge of W. F. Allen, guardian of Helen Dickson, a minor who has come of age.

Judge Whiting is this afternoon hearing a petition to revoke an old will. The petitioner is Keawelaku (w.), claiming to be next of kin and heir of A. Akahi (w.), and alleging that she died intestate, also that a writing admitted to probate in 1877 as the will of Akahi was not her will. This disputed will left part of the estate to the late Mrs. Bernice P. Bishop, whose will in turn left the said part for the founding of Kamehameha Schools with other lands for the same purpose. J. W. Poepeo for petitioner; F. M. Hatch and C. W. Ashford for trustees of Bishop estate.

Woman's Ready Wit.

The Rev. Clericus has been waiting half an hour to speak to his wife, who is having a call from Mrs. Longwind. Hearing the front door close he supposes the visitor has gone. The Rev. Clericus (calling from his study)—Well, is that old bore gone at last?

Mrs. Clericus (from the drawing-room, where Mrs. Longwind still sits)—O, yes, my dear, she went an hour ago; but our dear Mrs. Longwind is here—I know you will want to come in and see her.—Once a Week.

He Happened to Know Her.

"Well, by George!" he said to a fellow-passenger on the rear platform of a Baker street car, "but of all the outlandish hats I ever saw on a woman that takes the cake! I mean that woman near the front door on the right."

"Yes, she looks like a fool!" replied the other.

"The idea of a woman forty years old getting such a hat as that must make all her relatives tired."

"Yes, it probably does."

"I wonder if she has any idea how homely she is!" continued the first, who seemed greatly put out.

"Not a bit of it. She imagines she's real pretty and stylish. That sort always does."

"Pretty! Stylish! Why, you might travel for a month and not find another such homely woman, and as for her style she looks as if she had come out of the woods."

"If my wife was such a chromo as that I'd leave her. Even the children grin as they look at her."

"Her husband has threatened to leave her, but it did no good," quietly replied No. 2.

"Oh! then you know him?"

"Yes."

Here occurred a painful pause, lasting a full minute, during which the two men avoided looking at each other. Finally No. 1 made a great effort and said:

"Maybe you are the husband himself?"

"Yes, I'm the one," answered No. 2, "and if it won't make no great difference to you we'll change the subject and talk about the weather. Do you think we've had rain enough for corn and potatoes?"

But No. 1 saw a man on the corner who owed him $2, or something or other, and hurriedly jumped off to collect it and get down the side street.

Hawaiian Hardware Co., Ltd

Saturday, Dec. 9, 1893. The individuality of men is shown by their works. Byron by his beautiful, but lascivious, poems, Macaulay by the care devoted to the preparation of his history of England, Messonnier by the delicacy of colors on canvas, Wagner by his base-horn sonatas, and the HAWAIIAN HARDWARE CO. by their choice selection of goods for the house.

If we purchased good things to-day and poor articles to-morrow people would say: "It is characteristic of the Hawaiian Hardware Co. to give a good thing one time and a bad one another." As it is our policy to buy only reliable goods the people here as well as on the other islands can safely depend upon getting just what they order. We could not send a poor quality of goods if we were requested to; we don't keep them in stock.

Last week we unpacked a goodly number of boxes, many of them suitable for the holidays, all of them adapted to the every day wants of the people. That these new goods suited our customers was evidenced in the fact that many of the handsomest gifts to the recently married couples were purchased from us. Our stock is a combination from which one may select articles for use by people in any walk of life, from the lady who wants an exquisitely wrought jewel case to the manager of the plantation who requires the implements for tilling the soil.

We have recently added to our stock an assortment of fancy goods for the holiday season comprising, silver plated ware, onyx tables, handsome banquet lamps, ebony like pedestals for statuettes, etc., things which you and everyone else admire when you see them in your neighbor's parlor. Handsome looking are they, and stout of build, but ridiculously low in price, because they have been having hard times in the United States and competition has forced the manufacturers to reduce the price of their products.

We heard the other day that a certain mill on Puget Sound loaded 123 vessels last year and did not make a dollar. This should have made lumber cheap and houses should go up here like they used to during the old boom days in Kansas. Other material for building is cheap and paints were never so good and low priced, as they have been since Hendry's Ready Mixed were put on this market. We keep nearly everything in the hardware line used for building and our prices are known to be the lowest.

The locked fence is growing more popular every day and nothing pleases us better than to hear from a man who is wedded to the old style method of fence building. With a small piece of paper and a lead pencil we will convince the most skeptical in a very few minutes that the locked fence is not only the strongest but the most economical in use. We are inclined to point out the road to wealth and have succeeded in directing a good many people to it by convincing them of the superiority of some of our specialties.

The arrival of steamers from China causes a demand for bird cages and occasionally some one comes along with a desire for a parrot house. We claim that our stock of cages is the best in town, and the cheapest. The parrot cages are of various sizes, each having the wire floor so that when you clean the cage Miss Polly will have to remain indoors. There's no reason why something of this sort would not be good for a Christmas gift.

The Prize Awarded!

Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co. Wins the Prize at the World's Fair with their "EAGLE" Brand Beer.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 28, 1893. MESSRS. MACFARLANE & Co., L.D., Honolulu, H. I. Dear Sirs—We have mailed you a copy of the Globe-Democrat announcing the great victory won by the ANHEUSER-BUSCH ASSOCIATION with their "EAGLE" Brand of Beer.

(Special Respect to Globe-Democrat.) WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 26. No award has ever been made so gratifying to St. Louis people and so justly merited as the one given to-day by the Columbian jury of the World's Fair, consisting of connoisseurs and chemists of the highest rank, to the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association. By methods of unrivalled business enterprise, and by using the best material produced in America and Europe, excluding corn and other adulterants or surrogates, the different kinds of the Anheuser-Busch beer have become the favorites with the American people, and have now conquered the highest award in every particular, which had to be considered by the Columbian jury. The high character of the award given to-day by the jurors will be better understood when it is known that the different beers exhibited by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association had to compete with hundreds of the most excellent displays of other brewers. The fact that no other concern has received so many points for the various essential qualities of good beer confirms anew the firm's reputation as the leader of all American beers, and Mr. Adolphus Busch can feel proud over this result so justly merited.

The above is a fac-simile of the Label of the "EAGLE" Brand which took the Prize.

In ordering this Beer be sure to ask for the "EAGLE" Brand.
