Building rhyme out of Chinese names is a pastime few would covet, and the effort of a gazetteer deprecator in that line elsewhere given is a triumph of literary architecture.

An Imperial penny postage system, to send letters from the mother country to all parts of the Empire at a penny, is being agitated. When that happens the next thing to expect will be a penny rate throughout the Postal Union.

Merchants would find it to their interest to take the Foreign & Colonial Importer, published by Wm. Duff & Co., London, at one dollar a year. It is a goodly sized magazine, containing a complete review of trade, together with financial editorials. The advertisements are not the least interesting feature of this monthly.

That the Star was a little too previous in trying to jump down the throat of the BULLETIN, for the publication of an interview with Mr. Hatch which that gentleman later disowned, is illustrated by the necessity laid upon the Star yesterday of apologizing for having published "a bogus interview" with Consul-General Wilder.

An article from the Montreal Witness is copied elsewhere, with the heading and one word in the text—both calculated to be offensive to the Hawaiian Government—omitted. It will be seen that the journal in question, the most completely independent paper in the Dominion, takes a hopeful view of the future of Hawaii under the new regime.

On the morning of the Opera House fire there was information given in the Advertiser to the effect that the Government intended to disband China Engine Company, the only relic besides apparatus of the volunteer fire department of honorable memory. However, the fine work done by the Chinese firemen with their steamer at that fire may have given reason for the Government to reconsider its reported intention of disbanding them. They keep watch and ward over an inflammable section of the city and have always evinced themselves to be excellent firemen. The Chinese merchants bought their engine, moreover, and the Government might perhaps in their case let well enough alone. In much larger cities than Honolulu—for instance San Francisco—a volunteer contingent of the fire department has been maintained against emergencies. Recent experiences have indicated that this city might have something worse than some volunteer firemen as well as a volunteer military.

THE BRITISH CABLE.

In the Foreign and Colonial Importer for January there is an article on "Mail and Cable Communication," which does not make it appear as if the British Pacific cable's prospects of being early laid are glowing. While the article says "there is only one opinion on the subject—namely, that it is deserving of the united support of all parts of the Empire, and we shall hope to see some further practical steps taken to realize this as well as the other proposals"—the facts given are rather unpromising of immediate action. Lord Jersey, who has been Governor of New South Wales, stated that before anything could be done it was necessary to learn something of the views of the Imperial Government. Sir Robert Herbert, Agent-General for Tasmania, said that at present he was not in favor of the Pacific cable scheme, and that he did not think his colony would be willing to incur a share of the heavy cost of the cable. Duncan Gillies, Agent-General for Victoria (Australia), said that he was sure it would be found necessary to have a duplicate Pacific cable, and that unless the Imperial Government came forward handsomely nothing could be done. Thomas Playford, Agent-General for South Australia, doubted very much if the financial position of the Colonies would induce them to pay the subsidies asked, either for cable or steamship communication, at the present time. He added that if the Imperial Government says the cable is required for the purposes of the defense of the Empire, and is willing to bear its share of the cost, he believed that the Colonies would be prepared, when their financial position warranted it, to assist in laying the cable; but that they would expect the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company and the South Australian Government, who helped to construct the present cable, and laid the land line across Australia, would be guaranteed against any loss in consequence of the construction of a rival line. Sir Westby Perceval, Agent-General for New Zealand, said that his colony was most anxious for the connection with Canada by sea and by cable. From the foregoing opinions of high colonial authorities, there is still lacking the united support of the countries interested required to undertake the project.

An Artist Arrived

Joseph Fruebis (not Friehas as stated by the Star last evening) is in town. Mr. Fruebis is an artist well-known in San Francisco, having been employed by the very best portrait and landscape galleries of that city. He is a Bavarian who received his education and art schooling in Germany, and will probably make his headquarters with J. J. Williams.

The newspapers seem to be in error in saying that the men just released from prison are to be deported, or in speaking of them as exiles. They are not being deported in the true sense of the term; they are simply allowed to go away on a vacation which will terminate at the will of the Government that grants them leave. If they were deprived of the privilege of attending to their vocations under the blue Hawaiian skies they accepted the other horn of the dilemma which permits them to live in that haven of political prisoners of almost any nationality—the United States. Properly speaking but three men have been deported—the others are going away, if there is a distinction the men can figure out the difference on the way up.

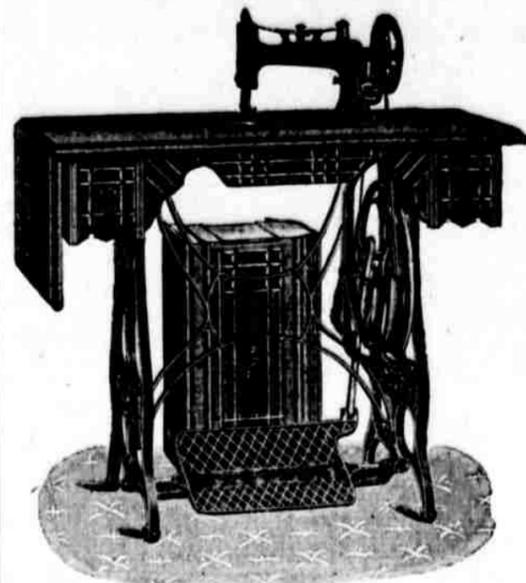

We are selling the best Tank ever brought to the country—the best because it does not make any difference how much dry weather you may have the wood will not shrink nor will the hoops drop off. These are made of choice selected California redwood and we sell them for the same price you pay for the sort that falls to pieces during the first dry spell.

When the dinky birds warble and the swallows swallow it is time to think of spring, and in the spring you must think of painting your house. We have an elegant assortment of Hendry's Ready Mixed Paints; compare them with the colors in the rainbow and you'll find ours are the ones used in putting in the delicate tints. We have them in quarts, half gallons and gallons—convenient sizes for any kind of painting from flower pots to a full grown house. The price is lower than unmixed paints and the quality better.

On the "Alameda" we will have another car load of Avery Plantation Implements. These are what every plantation manager requires because they are labor savers and money getters. One of these machines will save the work and time of a half dozen laborers. Every manager who has used a Stubble Digger sold by us says it is the best implement he ever had on the place. The last lot did not last long; if you are thinking of getting one book your order now.

WHAT OTHERS SAY:

SAN JOSE, Jan. 27, 1868.—Certificate of Blood Spavin.—In justice to the proprietor of "The Celebrated H. H. H. Horse Medicine—D. D. T., 1868," I will say that I have used it to good satisfaction, and can recommend it to those keeping horses as an invaluable medicine, and I believe it to be equal to what it is recommended; and I have not known its equal as an external remedy, for I have also used it to good effect for rheumatism upon myself.

J. C. PHIPPS.

This is to certify that I saw the above case, and it was one of the worst spavins I ever saw. I did not believe that the blood spavin could be cured, but I would acknowledge that I was mistaken, and am willing to recommend "The Celebrated H. H. H. Horse Medicine—D. D. T., 1868," superior to anything I ever had any knowledge of as a horse medicine.

T. ANDREWS.

MR. D. DODGE TOMLINSON—Dear Sir: For the information of the public and in justice to your valuable horse medicine, "The Celebrated H. H. H. Horse Medicine—D. D. T., 1868," I would state that I have used it to full satisfaction on a mare of mine that had an enlargement of the fetlock joint, which was at least one-third larger than before it got hurt; and of a hard callous lump, and her leg also much larger. The above medicine removed the enlargement, and otherwise performed a perfect cure.

I also know of its curing blood spavin in different cases among my neighbors' horses, which were very bad and incurable by all who saw them; and I have full confidence in the above preparation, and hear it spoken of by others as equal to what it has been recommended, and can recommend it to others with full confidence of its great worth, and that it performs all cures without injury to the growth of the hair, does not change the color of the hair, and leaves the limb smooth and clean.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN WEATHERS.
