

What a Man's Tailor Knows.
 A well-known fashionable Chestnut-street tailor declares, as the result of many years' observation, that but one man in 100 has square shoulders; that is, shoulders of an equal height. When Buffalo Bill, whose magnificent physique has been the admiration of two hemispheres, was last in this city he was measured for a suit of clothing in this sartorial establishment and when the many mysterious figures had been called off, the craftsman cried out to the clerk: "Low left shoulder." Colonel Cody indignantly exclaimed: "What's that? There's nothing the matter with my shoulders." And it required considerable argument and measuring demonstration to convince him that his right shoulder was very considerably higher than the left, the explanation being found in the fact that in shooting his right shoulder is lifted much higher than its fellow. Traveling salesmen are noticeably lower in the right shoulder, by reason of the fact that they are almost continually carrying heavy packages with the right hand. In fact, nearly all men are lower in the right shoulder, but a small majority, especially newspaper writers and bookkeepers, are lower in the left shoulder, as a result of the position which they assume in writing, the support of the right elbow on the desk throwing the right shoulder upward. This is not visible in many people when walking the streets, because careful merchant tailors remedy the defect by a little extra padding in the shoulder which is the lowest.—Philadelphia Times.

Five in Three Hours.
 Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 14.—A special from Delta, Ohio, says: Mrs. Joseph Langdon, the wife of a farmer living near here, gave birth today, within a space of three hours, to five children, all of them males. News of the unique event reached here this evening. The five children are apparently fully developed, though frail specimens of humanity, and the attendant physician believes that they will all live. Mrs. Langdon has experienced no serious results from the extraordinary accouchement. She is past 35 years and has three other children. She weighs 140 pounds and her husband 165.
