CANE SUGAR.

Influences are in operation in many quarters which, if given great heed to, might almost be expected to stampede investment in sugar cane cultivation. Leading British investors in West India sugar are, or were lately, considering the advisability of asking the Colonial Office to have a commission sent to the West Indies to inquire into the critical condition of the sugar industry. While Mr. Lubbock, head of the principal West India sugar company, thinks the proposed commission would have no effect, he wants the British government to take some action, in conjunction with some other countries, for regulating the production of sugar. He says that Germany and Austria are quite prepared to enter into an international agreement with that end in view.

Commenting on the proposal to send a commission to the West Indies, the San Francisco Chronicle says "that course might be advisable if the trouble could be laid to insects, high priced labor or the process of grinding, but the Government is well aware that cane flourishes as of old in Jamaica and the other islands thereabouts, that wages have not been raised and that the product of the mills retains its quality." The Chronicle goes on to attribute the sugar depression to economic causes, saying that "four years ago it was perfectly evident what would happen to the cane sugar industry everywhere." It gives the figures of increase in beet sugar, along with decrease in cane sugar production, and concludes thus: "Hence it needs no learned commission to determine why the sugar business does not flourish in the Spanish main. Any one can see that it is because cane sugar is getting out of date and beet sugar, as a product of equal or better quality, lower price and a far wider area of production, is taking its place."

The San Francisco Call cites two interesting facts. Speaker Reed had appealed to the Duluth chamber of commerce for a vigorous support of a revenue bill before Congress this winter. A report issued by the Department of State showed that the sugar supply of the world this year would be one of the largest ever known. The Call takes it that the revenue measure in question is the Dingley bill, and it strongly objects to that as providing no protection for American sugar. It points out that the issue is one of particular importance to California, with its great beet sugar enterprises and prospects for their further development.

It is the opinion of the BULLETIN that the present ascendancy of beet sugar is in a great degree artificial. The over-production induced by pampering the beet sugar industry in Europe—or America either if that country reverts to the system,—must before long work its own remedy. There is no assurance of popular support for any length of time, in the countries paying bounties, to a system that is such a glaring and barefaced scheme of robbing Peter to pay Paul. Besides, the impetus that system gives to production is not likely to spend itself until it will be a case of beet beating beet down as well as cane in the world's markets. When the pinch comes, as come it will, the manufacturer will begin to pinch the grower. Beet is likely as soon to be stamped as cane by the influences of the present situation. Large profits from beet culture in California will, in the natural course of things, lead to the overdoing of the industry in that country with results that will give cane sugar a recurrence of its periodical good innings. Hawaiian sugar survived the deprivation of American protection wrought by the McKinley Act, and that in a period of low prices. Having done so it will not be stampeded by the no worse influences that now menace it in common with the product of other cane-growing countries. There is always, moreover, the saving clause that low prices will induce increased consumption. Frequently it has happened in the past that a low state of the market had passed away while an increased crop in Hawaii was coming to maturity.

According to an item elsewhere, somebody is going to try salmon breeding in these islands. Kauai is probably the only island having rivers suitable for the habitat of this fish.

Santa Claus is extremely fond of receiving letters from the little ones. He generally offers a valuable prize of some kind to well behaved children and this year he has notified Wall, Nichols Co., who are to act as his agents here, to offer in his name a beautiful French doll to the Honolulu girl or boy who writes him the most original letter. Any little one under ten years of age may compete for the doll which is sure to be highly prized by the lucky recipient. Now, girls, this is your opportunity. Brush the cobwebs and dust of puzzling questions out of your minds and write the old gentleman a nice letter; something different from anything you have ever written before. You may ask your papas and mammas how to spell the words but the thoughts and good wishes should be all your own.

On honor, now!

Letters may be mailed in the letter box at Wall, Nichols Co's store between 9 o'clock next Saturday morning, Nov. 28th, and 12 o'clock noon of December 24th, the day before Christmas.

The doll will be on exhibition in one of their large show windows during the above period. The judges of the merits of the letters received will be decided upon by representatives of the press of Honolulu.

Delays are not always dangerous, old sayings to the contrary notwithstanding. If the Alameda had not been delayed in San Francisco the last trip, we would have been without our enlarged stock of Sterling silver ware and our customers would have had to limit their purchases.

But now we have the goods, and they are ready for your inspection, ready to be sent home to you. This last invoice is from the celebrated Whiting Silver Company, and the prices are so low that it is cheaper in the long run than powder. The assortment comprises everything, from an ordinary butter pick to a food pusher. We mention the latter as though it was a common every day affair, but it's not—it's rare.

If you are interested read this partial list and remember that the material of which the cases are made is the finest.

Sardine Servers silk case, $4.05; Child's Set, knife, fork and spoon in handsome case, $6.60; Pie Knives in case, $10.20; Cake Knives in silk case, $11.05; Butter Knives in kid case, $4.75; Pickle Forks, silk case, $3.75; Sugar Spoons, silk case, $3.50; Sugar Spoons, silk case, $6.40; Bon Bon Tongs, kid case, $4.20; Napkin Rings, from $1.15 to $4.20; Brandy Flasks, Fruit Knives, Tea, Dessert, Table and Soup Spoons; Dessert, Table and Fish Forks; Butter Dishes—without covers; Silver Bread and Butter Plates; Knife Rests, Butter Picks and Spreaders, Oyster Forks, Fish and Dessert Knives, Coffee, Salt and Mustard Spoons.
