EXECUTORS SALE OF RESIDENCE!

By order of the Executors of the Estate of ADELIA CORNWELL, deceased, I will sell at Public Auction, on the premises, Judd Street, Honolulu, On FRIDAY, Oct. 15th, AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M., That Valuable Property, known as the Cornwell Residence

And at present occupied by Mrs. Widdifield.

The real estate comprises about 4.7-100 acres of the finest residence property in Honolulu.

The grounds are planted with a vast variety of fruit, shade, palm and other trees, and are laid out with fine carriage drives and walks through tropical foliage. One of the valley streams runs through the eastern boundary of the property.

The main dwelling is a commodious two-story building, containing large drawing room, spacious dining-room, billiard room, bedrooms, etc., and has all modern improvements. The house is substantially built and the rooms are all well ventilated. Sanitary plumbing throughout.

Cottages, Stables, Carriage Houses and Out-houses on the property.

The situation commands an unsurpassed view of the Harbor, the main portion of the City and the adjacent mountain scenery. This is one of the largest and finest residences that has been offered at public sale in Honolulu, and must be sold to close the above Estate.

Immediately following the sale of the residence, I will sell the ENTIRE HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE particulars of which can be obtained at my office.

Parties contemplating purchasing the Res deuce and wishing to inspect the same, should make application at my office, No. 33 Queen Street.

JAS. F. MORGAN, Auctioneer.

A LOVER WHO LOST.

The Trouble Was That His Rival Proved More Entertaining.

"Just my infernal luck," growled one of our most eligible bachelors as he threw himself on a couch and looked faggers at his closest male friend, as though he were the dispenser of fate. "If a fellow wants to get married and fulfill his proper destiny in life, fortune trips him up and makes a fool of him. You know that I've popped to three or four girls, and in every case I've been just too late. You may put it down now that if I ever marry a woman she will do the proposing and make all the preliminary arrangements." "Scored another failure?" "Yes; lost by an eyebrow, as usual. You recall that divine creature I pointed out to you from the club window the other day? That little Ruddins and I have both been sweet on her—rivals, I suppose you would say. I called where she is visiting early last evening to put my fate to the test. While I was screwing my courage up to the sticking point and trying to separate her from the other people there she was called by one of the servants. She came back looking so rosy and sweet that I pushed matters, piloted her to a side veranda and told her, with all the gush and sentimentalism of some callow youth, how I loved her, how I could not live without her. She never looked more beautiful than when she told how sorry she was to cause me pain, but she had just accepted Mr. Ruddins by telephone. It was to talk with him that she had been called by the servant. I stammered my way to the hat rack and out of the house the best I could. The impudent little rascal! He knew I was going there, for I told him myself, and I went early for the express purpose of heading him off. No other man would have had the cold nerve to propose by telephone. If any girl wants me after this, she knows where to find me."—Detroit Free Press.

Not Funny. Jawker—Fogg thinks he is funny, doesn't he? But there's no use for a fellow to be personal in his jokes. Widdle—For instance? Jawker—Referring to my lecture the other evening, Fogg wanted to know why it reminded one of a wheelman inflating his pneumatics. The answer was that it was a case of wind going into the audience's tire. I suppose he thought that was funny, but I'm blessed if I do.—Boston Transcript.

Agricultural Geography. First Western Farmer (at railroad station)—You're a farmer, too, eh? Second Western Farmer—Yes; been farmin a good many years. First Farmer—That so? Glad to meet you. Where is your farm located—in the flood district, the drought section, the grasshopper region or the cyclone belt?—New York Weekly.

A Satisfaction. "So ye wor foined $5 for assaultin Clanty," remarked Mr. Rafferty. "O' wor," replied Mr. Dolan, "an it wor a proud moment whin O' heard the sintonce." "Fur what rayson?" "It showed beyond a doubt which man had the best iv the countist."—Washington Star.

The Usual Question. "Here," said the salesman, "is a very nice perambulator, worth $10, which we are selling today only for $4.89." "What gear is it?" asked the nervous father, who had never bought anything of the kind before in his life.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Reason For It. "I can't understand Brown's failure. He was reputed to be a first class business man." "It's easily explained. Some one told him once that he was a good poker player, and he's been trying to demonstrate it."—Chicago Post.

Professional Chaff. Doctor—Hello! What are you doing in this part of the town and at this time of night? Going to draw up anybody's will? Lawyer—No; I was quite unaware that you had any patient here.—Judy.

His Advantage. Mamma—Who is to have the biggest apple? Georgie—Me! Dot—No, me! Georgie was eatin apples two years 'fore I was born.—Pick Me Up.

Printer's Lat'in. A poet indited a sonnet to his sweetheart entitled, "I Kissed Her Sub Rosa." The compositor knew better than that and set it up, "I Kissed Her Sub Nosa."—Fun.

Not His Fault. "Prisoner, have you anything to say before I pass sentence?" "Yes, judge. I hope you will make allowances for the imbecility of my counsel."—Judy.

In Modern Parliance. "So he has burned the bridges behind him, has he?" "Well, practically. He has sprinkled tacks along the road."—Truth.

A Timely Diet. Doctor—For dinner take 40 minutes. Timid Patient—Would it be dangerous to add a piece of meat and some vegetables.—Fliegende Blatter.
