MONDAY, AUGUST 20, 1900.

FOR PRESIDENT,

WM. MCKINLEY.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,

THEO. ROOSEVELT.

Horse races in the far district of Kula were the only reminder that two years ago last Sunday, August 12, 1898, the American flag was raised over Hawaii.

At last accounts fake artist correspondents at Shanghai and in the office of New York newspapers were running a close second to Li Hung Chang and the Empress Dowager.

The citizen who fails to take part in the primaries has himself alone to blame if nominations for the Legislature are not made from the solid business men of the Territory.

Maul wants a circus. If it is a constant performance, three-ring affair that is sought, the citizens ought to make a strike to have the Territorial capitol removed to Wailuku.

The Republican Executive committee has now passed on the work of the primaries to the chairmen of the precincts. There's nothing gained by delays gentlemen. Precinct meetings should be called as promptly as possible.

Candidates who delay their announcement of party allegiance till they can determine the prospects for victory can hardly be trusted by any party. The man ready to stand or fall with a party principle possesses the true sentiment of American government.

Late despatches picture Minister Wu hard at work interpreting dispatches transmitted to the Washington government from Peking. Wu's troubles bid fair to be unending. The world is as much in the dark as to the interpretation of the Peking government as it ever was.

What has become of the Hawaiian Board. Wailuku sends out a call for a pastor and its call has yet to be heeded. Is this center of religious activity sliding backward into a state of indifference or is the situation given over to the devil as a bad job?

One of the happy factors in the present contest over the sale of public lands by Territorial officials, is that the machinery is in full operation whereby the question can be brought to a final settlement. Hawaii's public lands will not be worth much to any individual while a clouded title hangs over the purchases.

The large number of people who went to Tantalus to escape the oppressive heat of the day was fair indication of the wisdom of former members of the Board of Agriculture in setting apart a special plot for park purposes. Now the question is, whether the plan of a former government to turn this land over to private individuals is to be carried out.

A notable feature of the Tantalus forest in the last few months is the large number of horses wandering freely through its confines. These animals destroy shrubs and small trees and the eventual result will be the destruction of the forest, if the matter does not receive prompt attention of the Commissioner of Agriculture or the pound master.

Honolulu may be a sleepy town, but captains of foreign mail steamers will hereafter kindly remember that the people are always awake to the necessity of ships docking as promptly as possible after their arrival off port. When the Federal officials are willing to give the steamers quick despatch, it will become ship's officers to treat them with scant courtesy.

Not the least of the reforms apparent in the administration of the department of Public Works is the employment of citizens of the Territory in every detail of public construction. The old system of employing transient Orientals on the roads or any other work in hand is fast becoming a back number with Senator McCandless at the helm. True American government gives first recognition to active, hard-working citizens.

FAIR REPRESENTATION.

The allotment of delegates to the various precincts made by the Executive committee of the Republican party is a happy solution of what might have given rise to considerable dissatisfaction. It secures for every District a good sized representation for every precinct in the selection of candidates to the Legislature, and will doubtless largely do away with the possibility of any factional contests.

Owing to the vote cast at the May primaries being in many instances larger than the total vote at the last general election there was naturally enough of a general tendency to base the representation on the primary vote. In canvassing the situation more closely it is apparent that the large vote was brought out at the primaries only in those precincts where there were contests. Few of the precincts polled the full enrollment list, since the vote was merely for party organization. To base the representation to a convention called for nominating candidates to the Legislature upon the vote cast in a party contest would be manifestly unfair, if not beyond the power of the Territorial committee.

Allotment of at least three delegates to each and every precinct assures fair representation in every district throughout the islands and should be productive of the era of good will and hearty cooperation absolutely necessary to party success in the coming election. The situation now rests in the hands of the voters, who should endeavor to put aside personalities and combine in a hearty effort to place in nomination men in whom the people have full confidence, men of integrity and in full sympathy with the broad, liberal principles of the Republican party.

Wailuku Wants a Preacher Quick

Wailuku, Aug. 18.—The congregation of the Kaahumanu native Protestant church have written an urgent call to Rev. Kaulimakaole of Hawaii, to occupy the Kaahumanu pulpit, and no reply has been received from the latter yet. Since the resignation of Rev. Kapu over a year ago, no one of the native pastors have thought it prudent to accept this field, and yet it is one of the most important fields on Maui, Wailuku being undoubtedly the metropolis of the island.

E. O. Hall Boys Win.

The statement in another column of this paper that the Punahou beat the E. O. Hall team at baseball Saturday is incorrect. It was taken from the Advertiser and is, as usual, incorrect. The E. O. Hall boys defeated the Punahou to the tune of 23 to 3 by all around good ball playing. The Punahou made all their runs in the first two innings. After that, they failed to score. So ignominious was the defeat that some of the Punahou boys went to the victors and asked them to refrain from making any publication of the facts in the papers. The hardest hit of the day was a three bagger by Edwin Paris of the E. O. Hall team.

Frank Lawless appeared again in the Police Court this forenoon on the charge of drunkenness. He was fined $2 and costs and warned by Judge Wilcox that his appearances in the Police Court were becoming a little too frequent.
