FOUND.

LOST. In the Police Court this forenoon John Gouvea, the Portuguese hackman, was fined $10 and costs on the charge of heedless driving. The case was tried some days ago but the defendant wanted E. B. Mossman as a witness. As this man happened to be on the jury and as Judge Wilcox did not care to issue a subpoena under the circumstances, the case went over until today, when Mr. Mossman testified on behalf of the defendant.

The witness stated that his attention was attracted by the calling out of the hackman, Gouvea, who was driving him and his wife from the wharf. He perceived a bicyclist directly in front of the horse. Gouvea did his best to stop, it was impossible to turn as the street was crowded. Neither the bicyclist nor the hackman could get out of the way. The former was not injured. However, he must have been riding along in front and the hackman drove up on him.
