GETTING READY ON MAUI FOR COUNTY ELECTIONS

When politics begin to boom on the Island of Maui, they boom in good shape. Just now, the politicians—both Republican and Home Rule—are all agog over the choice of men to fill the county offices. The Democrats have not been heard from and it is presumed that they have fused with the other political elements of the island. Politicians have been arriving from Maui during the past few days and they report the following list of names suggested by the two parties for the various positions under the county:

Supervisors—Senator H. P. Baldwin, Senator S. E. Kalua, Representative S. E. Kalama, Rev. E. M. Hanuna, C. L. Kookoo, J. K. Kahookole, Harry Baldwin, A. N. Hayselden, W. F. Pogus, D. H. Kahauliello, J. H. Raymond, T. B. Lyons and Tom Clark.

Attorney—N. W. Aluli, John Richardson, Avon H. Crook, J. L. Coke and possibly Judge Kalua.

Sheriff—L. M. Baldwin, Bill White, S. E. Kalua, Judge Kalua, D. H. Kahauliello, Edgar Morton and W. E. Saffrey (the last two in case L. M. Baldwin falls to run).

Auditor—Judge McKay, W. O. Alken and D. H. Morton.

Surveyor—J. K. Kahookole, Hugh Howell and Peter Lamar.

Clerk—James Keola and Representative Ke'linol.

Treasurer—L. M. Baldwin.

Assessor—W. T. Robinson, W. O. Alken and T. B. Lyons.

VALUABLE JEWELRY IS STOLEN FROM MRS. JONES

Another robbery of valuable jewelry took place yesterday afternoon. Mrs. E. W. Jones was the victim. The jewels were taken from her bedroom at the residence on Kinau street between the hours of 1 and 4 in the afternoon. Mrs. Jones had left the house. Her mother and other relatives staying on the premises had left the main building and were busy in another house in the rear. The main house, from which the jewelry was taken, was left open.

The stolen jewelry was taken from the top drawer of a bureau standing in Mrs. Jones' bedroom. The thief seems to have been very well acquainted with the premises and where Mrs. Jones kept her valuables. The other articles in the drawer and likewise the contents of the other drawers were not in the least degree disarranged, showing very evidently that no search had been made to find the jewelry.

A number of valuable articles, such as gold watches, gold chains, etc., which belonged to Mrs. Jones' relatives and which were in the room right next to the one from which the jewelry was taken, were not touched.

The stolen articles included one plain gold wedding ring, two diamond rings, one opal ring, one topaz ring, one ring set with six small diamonds, one other ring, one Hawaiian coat-of-arms pin and several other articles the exact number of which is not known. The articles are valued at several hundred dollars. Detective David Kaapa is working on the case.

KONA SUGAR CO. FORGING AHEAD

Clinton J. Hutchins Tells Of Prospects For the Future.

LAND OWNERS HAVE REDUCED THE RENTS

WITH $200,000 OR $250,000 PLANTATION SHOULD YIELD 6,000 GOOD WORK BEING DONE.

A short time ago the Kona Sugar Company was coalescent. Then came a period when the estate was on the high road to recovery and today comes the news that a permanent cure has been effected.

Among the passengers from Kona in the Mauna Loa today was Clinton J. Hutchins, the real estate man, who is interested in the Kona Sugar Company. He had the following to say to a Bulletin reporter this morning:

"Kona is a good proposition—as good as anything in the islands. The soil? Well, there are people who soil it a scrap heap, but I want to tell you that that very same scrap heap turned out 333 bags of sugar one day last week while I was in Kona and it quit at that because there was no more cane.

"In the matter of the leases with which the plantation has been tied up, I would state that the land-owners of Kona have met us half way and have shown a most admirable spirit. They want to see the plantation prosper and to the rents and the acreage of lands now under lease to the plantation. We will go along on the same rents up to January 1 of next year, when we will enter into the new agreements. The leases at the present time are for various periods, but most of the new leases at reduced rates, will be for fifty years.

"Yesterday, the plantation began on two new fields, one of 213 and one of 350 acres and the calculation is that about 250 bags a day will be the record until these fields have been cleared.

"The 1903 crop will net about 1,500 tons and, on account of the recent difficulties, there will be nothing in 1904. In 1905, there will be 713 acres of plant and ratoon; in 1906, 640 acres of the same, and 1907, according to the present calculations, there will be 1,100 acres of plant and ratoon cane.

"We are free from all incumbrances and have 2,250 acres of cleared land that is ready to be planted. On the estate are all the buildings, roads, railroads, mill, cleared land, horses, mules, wagons, harness, fumes, wire ropes for trolleying cane, cane cars and all other paraphernalia. All we have to do is to go ahead and we can make the place as small or as large as we desire. It is calculated that with the expenditure of from $200,000 to $250,000 we should be able in four years' time to make the Kona Sugar Company a 6,000-ton plantation."

ONE MAN IN A BOAT DRIFTING ON OCEAN THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT

IS THIS MORNING RESCUED FROM PRECARIOUS STATE BY DEPUTY SHERIFF CHILLINGWORTH.

W. Adamsthwaite had a thrilling experience last night which might have ended with disaster for him had it not been for the foresight of Deputy Sheriff Charles Chillingworth. Adamsthwaite went down to the waterfront to see the Rithet come in yesterday afternoon. He has been ill of late and thought some fresh sea air would do him good. He consequently went to the boat landing and hired the shoreboat "Minnie" from boatboy Mahuka.

Adamsthwaite started from the boat landing at about 4:30 p. m. He was alone, doing the rowing himself. When he arrived off the harbor, he found that he enjoyed the sea air so much that he wanted to go still farther out. He went outside the spar buoy. Here he was hailed by the deputy sheriff, who was out in one of the Young brothers' launches with a party of friends hunting the festive shark. Chillingworth did not like the idea of seeing the man alone in a boat so far out and offered to tow him into port. Adamsthwaite refused the offer and stayed outside, while the launch went back into the harbor.

It was shortly after this that trouble began to come thick and fast for the amateur navigator.

About ten minutes after the launch had left him he lost one of his oars, in reaching for it, he tumbled overboard. He could not swim, but luckily he managed to get hold of the gunwale of the boat. After much difficulty, he got into the boat again. In the meantime, he had only one oar. He did not know anything about skulling a boat, so he was unable to make any headway. As a consequence he kept drifting to leeward.

All through the night the unfortunate man kept awake watching the boat drifting further and further away from the land. He kept watching the Diamond Head light and tried as best he knew how to keep inside of it. He was wringing wet and shivering with cold as he sat alone in the drifting boat, not knowing that he would ever see land again.

At dawn, Adamsthwaite's boat drifted close to two Japanese sampans. The poor fellow thought his troubles were all over. He hailed them with glee, told them of his plight and asked them to tow him ashore. The hard-hearted Orientals refused to do this. They said there was no wind, so that if they went ashore they would not get out to sea again.

During all this, people on shore had not forgotten Adamsthwaite. At about 6 p. m. Mahuka became anxious about him and went out with his brother in a shore boat to look for the missing man. Although Mahuka went quite far out, he could see no sign of him. Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth could not get him out of his mind. During the evening and night he telephoned several times to ascertain whether Adamsthwaite had returned. On receiving negative answers each time, he decided to go out at daylight to look for him.

Early this morning the deputy and Mahuka started on the search in a launch. After cruising around in zig-zag fashion for quite a while, the deputy finally picked up the missing boat through a field glass. The launch soon reached it. Adamsthwaite was found wet and miserable. He was overjoyed at being rescued. The boat was towed ashore.

Adamsthwaite was seen in his room in the Pacific Hotel on Union street this morning. He was in bed resting after the terrible night he had spent, but seemed none the worse for the adventure.

The Bank of Hawaii, asking for an opinion from the Attorney General as to the law on the proposition of its starting a branch bank at Lihue, Kauai, was informed by Mr. Andrews that such a branch would be allowable as long as the branch was conducted under the officers of the parent concern and no change was made in capitalization, management or nature of business. A separate and distinct institution, although carrying on business as a branch, would necessitate new articles of incorporation.

CHILD CUSTODY UNADJUDICATED

Judge Gear Will Hear Evidence In Habeas Corpus.

CHU KIN'S APPLICATION FOR JUNG HING'S BABIES

DOUTHITT CLAIMS PETITIONER HAS NO RIGHT TO CHILDREN UNDER ESTEE'S DETERMINATION.

Little Jung Hing and her two babies, accompanied by the faithful old Chinese nurse and a pair of feeding bottles, appeared before Judge Gear at 10 o'clock this morning. There is no question raised as to the children belonging to Jung Hing, although, during the masterly argument of counsel, someone remarked, on the side, that there was no proof that the lady was the mother of the infants.

Chu Kin, applying for a writ of habeas corpus for the little ones, claims to be their father. Their mother denies the allegation. He whom the mother alleges to be the paternal parent of her offspring is en route to the Orient.

Attorney J. W. Cathcart appeared for the self-alleged father, Chu Kin; Attorney E. A. Douthitt represented the undisputed mother, Jung Hing.

Jung Hing amused one infant in the law library while the old nurse marched up and down with the other child on her back in the court room.

Counsel wanted to argue the real question immediately, as previously arranged, and were anxious for the hearing on the merits of the case to go over until Thursday morning.

Douthitt offered the opinion of Judge Estee in the case in evidence. Judge Gear said he had read the opinion.

Douthitt said Estee had decided that Chu Kin and Jung Hing had never been married. Judge Gear was aware of this fact.

Cathcart objected to the admission of the Federal Judge's opinion in evidence, saying it was immaterial. He said the judgment of the Court was not contained in the opinion but in the decree.

Douthitt, speaking of the burden of the Federal Court's judgment, said he had prepared it himself.

"What!—the opinion?" asked Judge Gear.

"No; the decree," answered Douthitt. "Judge Estee was going away, I prepared and presented the decree for signing."

Cathcart objected to the introduction of both the opinion and the decree.

Douthitt wanted to introduce certain portions of Estee's opinion tending to show that the matter was res judicata.

Cathcart said they were irrelevant.

DREDGING NAVAL SLIPS

Cotton Brothers' big suction dredger began the work of dredging the Naval slips this morning. These slips have filled up with mud from the harbor to such an extent that in places the depth is only twenty-five feet. The average is about 23 feet 6 inches. The slips are to be dredged out to their original depth of thirty feet. As it is probably only ordinary soft mud which has filled the slips, no trouble is expected. The dirt which is taken out is being filled into the triangular space on the Waikiki side of Naval dock No. 2. This place belongs to Sorenson & Lyle.

A RUMOR FROM KONA

A story came from Kona this morning that the Wilson, Lyon Company, which recently took over the Kona-Kauai Railway Company, had thrown up the sponge and announced their inability to cope with the proposition; also that they had turned everything over to W. A. Wall, the surveyor, who has charge of the work up there. The rumor could not be corroborated, although several people who arrived in the Mauna Loa today were asked about the matter.

The steamer Kinau sailed on her regular run for Hilo and way ports today with a large list of passengers, including many tourists for the volcano. The fine boat ought to make good time as she has just come off the marine railway, where she had her bottom cleaned last week.

Embassy here has not yet heard directly from the packers, who expected to have the aid of the State Department, but the French importers of American meats are much agitated and are forwarding petitions, saying that their extensive business is threatened with destruction.

Informal official inquiries have followed, bringing out the fact that the French authorities hold the view that any amelioration rates should be offset by concessions to French goods under the law authorizing the President to make reciprocal arrangements. This leads to the belief in well-informed American official quarters that the question of a Franco-American reciprocity treaty may be again taken up, as the increased French rates give a new basis for concessions.

Paris, July 31.—A rather plain official intimation has been given that if reductions are desired in the new French tariff in the duties levied on American assorted meats they will be accepted only for reciprocal tariff concessions in the case of French goods entering the United States.

The law enacted during the last days of the recent session affected a number of articles, including salted meats, the main American product, the rate on these meats being about doubled. A large French trade in these meats has grown up and has its centers at Havre and Boulogne.

Practically all the salted meat used in Paris and in the interior of France was from Chicago and other American packing centers. The United States
