First Cowboy Carnival Witnessed By Thousands Scores a Big Success

DARING FEATS AND TRICKS ARE PERFORMED

With one of the largest crowds ever handled by the street railway, Honolulu's first, but not last, Cowboy Carnival was successfully pulled off Saturday afternoon at Kapiolani Park. It was an event that will be remembered for years by many who saw, for the first time, daring feats performed by man and his faithful animal, the horse.
And those who have seen cowboy exhibitions before will remember this one for its originality, displays of horsemanship and the smoothness with which everything took place. Inter-persed among the cow-puncher events were a watermelon contest, men carrying the melons on horseback, and an egg race, both given by members of the polo club, with one or two exceptions. The band played between acts.

Final Event the Best

Last but not least on the program was the riding of an "outlaw" by Sam Mauna. This part of the show which was the feature of the carnival was missed by hundreds of people who had gone home some time before. The animal was head strong and determined not to be ridden. At the beginning, and no sooner than Mauna had seated himself in the saddle, the horse made a dash for a crowd of onlookers standing on the campus just to the right of the grandstand. Bucking his hardest and trying every way imaginable to unseat the man on his back the sorrel continued his performance into the crowd's midst and it was nothing short of a miracle that no one was injured.
Mauna hurt by falling.

Not being successful in his attempts to rid himself of the leech-like rider the horse started for the open at breakneck speed giving the audience a touch of real bucking. Up and down, pitching like a wild horse, stiffling and sideways the bronco bucked, plunged and squirmed, all without losing his master. So hard did the beast go through his maneuvers that he lost his balance and fell to the ground, throwing Mauna and dislocating his shoulder.
A physician was soon on the field and the injured man given treatment.

Prize Goes to Vida

Frank Vida was awarded the first prize, $10 in gold, in the bucking contest for riding an unbroken pony from the Leilehua ranch. This was next to the last bill on the program and overlooked by many who were in a hurry to get down town. The gray was full of life for a short space of time but was soon conquered by Vida and ridden around the field like an old saddle horse. It was expected that this animal would cause more trouble and excitement than any of the others and many were disappointed in the performance. The gray was also an "outlaw."

Rope and Tie Steers

In the remarkable short time of 35½ seconds, Ikuu Purdy, of the Parker Ranch, after an exciting run, roped a frightened steer and tied him so he could not get up. The world's record for roping and tying a four-footed animal is not many seconds less than the time made by Purdy. For this Purdy was awarded first prize, a hand-carved $65 Mexican saddle.

Cowboys, all of them good over in the saddle, took part in this part of the entertainment. Real rivalry existed among them, each being anxious to carry off the handsome saddle. Most of them were from Hawaii. Keau, of the Honouliuli outfit, received second prize, $25 in gold, for roping and tying in 46 seconds. The third prize, a pair of sporting boots, went to Pulu, of the Honoliuli ranch, his time being 1:39½. T.
Lopez accomplishing his stunt in 1:45 was given the fourth prize, a fancy bridle. Four others, Archie Kaaua, Nu-hea, McKnew, Willie Spencer and Leilehua competed in the contest and added to the entertainment.

Purdy Wins Another Prize

With thousands of people in front of him and a mob of cowboys behind, a bewildered steer in the straight away roping performance ran a few hundred yards and was lassoed by Ikuu Purdy, who won another Mexican saddle valued at $50. Spencer and Kaaua, two busters with reputations, were in the contest but were outdone by Purdy.
Trying one way and then another to evade the men with swinging ropes the wild steer and the boys gave the immense audience an idea of how cattle are roped on the open prairies. The more the animal tried to get away the harder the riders pursued him until the contest was ended by a successful throw by Purdy.

Bad Eggs in Food Race

Carrying eggs in a large wooden spoon affair a number of the polo club members made an interesting as well as amusing event by riding their ponies a certain distance in front of the grandstand and back again finishing up by compelling their horses to jump a barrier. If the egg happened to be dropped by the rider he was compelled to get a fresh start, not necessarily a fresh egg. Any old kind of an egg would do, whether it was good or bad, as long as it was not broken. Riding a horse and balancing "hen fruit" in a spoon is no easy matter and some of the contortion gone through by the contestants created much merriment among the vast throngs. George Angus won two heats and rode off with the prize, and the egg as well. A revolver was Mr. Angus' gift. So well did Major Potter and Harold Dillingham carry their eggs, each making about the same time, that the second prize, 100 shares of Maunalei stock, was divided between them. Everybody, including the two successful riders, laughed when Doctor Monsarrat made his presentation remarks.

Polo Men Juggle Watermelon

It is easier to eat a whole watermelon than it is to dismount from a horse, gather up the fruit, mount and ride a distance and back again. The watermelon race created convulsions of laughter and was the means of the audience giving the contestants much advice which could not be taken. Advice did the riders no good, although some of it was good. Major Potter was the fortunate one, receiving a first prize, as advertised, "decoration of winner by the ladies." The others who took part were George Angus, Harold Dillingham, Eddie Dusenberg and Clarence Cooke.

Ride Steers Bareback

The audience was more excited than the wild steer ridden by Will Bellina.
Attired in a blue shirt just from the laundry, white duck trousers, also just from the Chinaman's wash house, and patent leather shoes, Bellina climbed onto the animal's back, which, after a few kicks, jumps and lunges, rode it around the field as though he had been used to it all his life.

"If any one else wants to try this trick do not hesitate for a moment.
Come right along, it is a free-for-all, ladies included," "Doc" Monsarrat announced to the crowd when the steer-riders were getting ready. Although he assured them of being well paid for their efforts not a soul spoke up, although the people hoped that some one would take "Doc" at his word. Sam Kahana resisted by a steer, or a steer aided by Sam, did another stunt and did it well. The steer and Kahana soon became fast friends and rider and his carry-all went from one end of the field to the other. The steer was lively at first but not near as active as Samuel who was given half of the prize and Bellina the remaining money. The trophy was $25 in cash.

Pony Wins but Gets no Prize

An ambitious Hawaiian boy and a friendly looking pony went through a short but hard fought battle in which the latter came out the winner. In appearances the pony changed as soon as the trouble had climbed on his back and the change did him good. A lunge, a jump in the air, landing stiff-legged, and another pitch and the 124 pounds of humanity had been tossed to earth.
With monster spurs that would do justice to the biggest of cow-punchers, another native son thought he wanted to ride. And he did, but he was afraid and his timidity got the best of him.
Pick Up Handkerchiefs Galloping their horses at full speed and grabbing a handkerchief from the ground was the feat performed by McKnew, Spencer, Pulu and Lopez.
Time and again the riders missed but made desperate efforts. McKnew was the most successful one and got $5.00 for his trouble.

Mounted Police Chase Boys

The boy, large and small, was in evidence everywhere. Some of them had the best seats on the grounds; the judges stand which had been moved to the left hand side of the grandstand.
And the youngster thoroughly enjoyed themselves—they always do, especially at an exhibition of this kind—and all went home planning to be cowboys.
If you want to know where there is to be a good show, follow the boys. There were hundreds of youngsters at the carnival and everyone of them remained until the last. The mounted police chased the boys from the field several times, causing the audience to laugh and cheer.

Immense Crowd Attended

Between 3,000 and 4,000 people witnessed the initial Cowboy Carnival.
Hundreds saw the show and did not pay admittance. Many others went to the gates and finding they could not be seated, returned home or went to the beach. Automobiles and vehicles of every description were gathered all around the spacious grounds. Fashion savants attended, probably one-third of the witnesses being ladies. The crowd was the largest ever handled in one afternoon by the street car company.
It was 7 o'clock at night when the last car from Kapiolani Park arrived in the city. For more than an hour people in the last cars waited on the side-track near the park thinking they would be moved at any moment. Officials of the line were there but failed in handling the passengers promptly.
To Eben Low and Charles R. Frazier are the people of Honolulu indebted for their first exhibition of how cowboys make their living. Mr. Low and Mr. Frazier were the managers of the Carnival. A list of officials, to whom credit is also due, follows: Judges—Walter F. Dillingham, Robert Shingle, Louis Warren.
Clerk of the Course—Robert W. Atkinson.

LOGAN ARRIVES AFTER AN EVENTFUL VOYAGE

After an absence of four months from Honolulu, having been engaged part of the time in transporting the Taft party around the Philippine Islands, the transport Logan left today for the mainland. She arrived yesterday shortly before noon.
The crew has had a trying but remarkable voyage since leaving here.
At two different times shipwrecked people were picked up. The boat also passed successfully through several storms and typhoons. And during the trip between Nagasaki and Honolulu a corporal attempted to murder a sergeant.

With 149 men, two of whom took part in the Boxer trouble in China in 1900, Company B, Ninth Infantry, was on the transport. Most of the army officers are men who have served in the Philippines and the Orient and are now being transferred to the mainland.
A few days after departing from Nagasaki rough seas were encountered which lasted nearly twelve hours.
Much anxiety for the safety of the passengers and the vessel was felt by the commanding officer. No large amount of damage was done by the storm. On account of its long voyage the commissary department ran short, particularly in fruit and vegetables, and all the passengers were glad to land here.

A summary of the passengers on the U. S. A. transport Logan, numbering 215 people, is as follows: 71 cabin passengers, 21 second cabin passengers, 149 enlisted men, Co. B, 9th Infantry; 25 enlisted men, casuals; 16 enlisted men, U. S. Navy and U. S. Marine Corps; 22 discharged soldiers, 11 steerage, miscellaneous.

TRAVELLER STARTS ON ANOTHER TRIP

Jack Wilson, formerly of the Advertiser, leaves today on the schooner Helene for San Francisco to resume his former position on the Chronicle.
It will take the ship from 25 to 45 days to make the trip. Mr. Wilson has been a great traveler in his time and visited all the principal cities and countries of the world. During the revolution at Panama he took part in the engagements in one of which 1,500 men were killed. He has also been a sailor, carries a second mate certificate, and at one time was skipper of a Japanese sailing vessel in the Orient. He is a graduate of Princeton, having studied medicine when attending school. Mr. Wilson has been following newspaper work for some years and has worked in the Orient and Europe as well as many cities in the States.
Although he was only here a little more than two months Mr. Wilson mastered the Hawaiian language and is able to speak as well as write it. Mr. Wilson expects to return to Honolulu some day to remain.

THREE LEFT OF FAMOUS CO. B. OF THE NINTH

Captain A. W. Brewster, of Company B, Ninth Infantry, which took part in the siege of Peking during the Boxer trouble, and 118 men, were among the passengers on the transport Logan.
With the exception of Captain Brewster himself, and two private, there are no other members on the ship that were in the Boxer mix-up with Company B in 1900. For some time Company B has been the American legion guard at Peking. Marines replaced the company now going to the States.
Captain Brewster has been in China more than five years. He will be stationed at Pittsburg, Pa., in the future.
During the battle of Tientsin Captain Brewster was highly commended by the War Department for bravery and good judgment displayed. He is accompanied by his family.
The oldest ship in the American navy is the frigate Constitution, which is forty-four days older than the Constitution, familiarly known as Old Ironsides. She was built by David Stoddard, at Baltimore, and was launched September 7, 1797. The Constitution, built at Boston, was launched October 21, 1797.

BRIGHTER PROSPECTS

Discontent gnaws at the root of happiness; but a wish to do better is itself the root of progress.
You cannot do better than to have your house wired for Electric Lights. Your home life will be wonderfully brightened thereby.
Many ways in which the Electric Light can be used to advantage may be explained in a personal inter-
