LATEST SCHOOL EXHIBIT

Extended dissertations on the relative importance of teachers and janitors cannot tell half the story of the condition of the public schools that is related in the brief and spicy article of the "Mystified Mother" published in this issue.

Heretofore the principal attention in connection with the shortcomings of the appropriations devoted to the public schools has been centered on the miserably low salaries paid deserving teachers. Now comes a practical experience demonstrating that there is not accommodation for the children who apply. This is a state of affairs indeed, and well might the mother wonder whether the Stars and Stripes have lost any of their emblematic brilliance and civilizing power in these islands of the Pacific. It is an old story to repeat that the condition is disgraceful, but nevertheless true.

Honolulu undoubtedly has the best school houses, the largest, and as a general rule the best, teachers, though they are kept on short rations. Yet well built and these school-houses are and roomy as they may be, the school equipment is so limited that children are forced to roam the public streets or attend a private school, all because the money of the taxpayers has been handled with such little regard for the educational demands.

This woman's letter also brings to notice a common error. Superintendent Babbitt's ability to build a school house for the little Molokans she puts down as a piece of official incompetence on his part. As a matter of fact, it all reverses back to legislative intelligence, and on the other islands it is looked upon as real intelligence. As was noted by a recent writer in the Garden Island, the legislators made their appropriations specific. Instead of appropriating a lump sum for school-houses, to be expended by executive officers as seemed to them best, the legislators set aside certain specific sums to be spent on certain new construction of school houses of the respective islands. This is a method which might be needed in Honolulu on the Oahu appropriation, but which makes it impossible to do the work. The Kaula appropriation, however, might have an ample balance, so that the little Molokans could have their school house notwithstanding their necessities might be less pressing. These appropriations are so arranged that they cannot be shuffled, and in the general scheme of government it is well that this is so.

The great difficulty is that a Legislature meeting once in two years cannot foresee all the demands of each district for the two years ahead. Add to this a desire or necessity to cut expense everywhere, and the whole thing is accounted for, though it is just as much of a disgrace to the community as if it were impossible of explanation. Should the Superintendent of Public Instruction draw on the Kaula appropriation for the Honolulu schools, Kaula would cry out that he ought to be in jail, and we know of nothing but the good-will of the judge and jury that would head him off, if Kaula once got after him.

The mystery is indeed easily solved when one is brought to understand the wonders of a centralized government which is neither elastic nor effective, and works on the theory that a suit of clothes cut today for a growing youth should continue to fit him for the following two years. Comparing the Hawaii system of school finance with such a youth, its suit is already split in the back, short in the sleeve, frayed around the edges, bagged at the knees, out at the seat and all the buttons off. There is more than one "mystified mother" who lacks funds to send her child to a private school, and yet cannot find a place in the public school. That this is true subtracts heavily from the Territorial good name. It comes close to establishing a complete bankruptcy of Americanism.

CAMPBELL CHALLENGES

(Continued from Page 1.) first applicants—among them Sing Sing—of their own sworn affidavits, the contention being that if they misrepresented they did so at their own risk and would be liable for perjury, but as some question arose as to the possibility of convicting them on a perjury charge, it was deemed advisable to thoroughly check each affidavit. You now inform me that two signers of Sing Sing's affidavit deny that they acknowledged their signatures before a notary, although the documents show that they did; but you failed to give me their names or in any way to supply me with the necessary evidence by which I could bring a charge against the notary. Why not send me the sworn affidavits of these two persons to the effect that they never acknowledged their signatures.

Concerning the license to T. Shibayama, you state that four of the signers are outside of the limit and that there are several owners who did not sign, although you claim it was represented to me that all the property holders had signed but one. The fact is that T. Shibayama's affidavit of property holders had forty-two signatures, two only of which were qualified signatures, and the best evidence this department could obtain in reference to the property holders within 1000 feet of the proposed location showed three property holders only; thus after eliminating the forty unqualified signatures, Shibayama's affidavit contained a majority of the property holders and as there was no protest of any kind against the issuance of this license, the license was issued to T. Shibayama. You also state that Frank R. Greenwell, R. Wassman and L. MacFarlane deny acknowledging their signatures to this affidavit, although the document shows that they did. As you have supplied the names in this case, I will endeavor to get the proper affidavit from the names named in order that I may have some evidence on which to bring suit against the notary. If the two notary publics named in your letter have acted as therein specified, they certainly "should be dealt with summarily for their malfeasance of office."

Licenses can only be revoked upon conviction and I find it quite difficult to get the proper kind of evidence to secure convictions. If the members of your league are in a position, any time, to supply me with the necessary evidence, I will do my utmost in the line of prosecuting and in this connection, I will take the liberty to suggest that the members of your league, who are taking an active interest in this question, first should thoroughly inform themselves on the liquor laws as they now stand on the books. From several conversations with the different members of the league, I am led to believe that your workers have a very limited knowledge of this law. Respectfully yours, (Signed) A. J. CAMPBELL, Treasurer, Territory of Hawaii.

FRAUD, SAYS PROSSER.

(Continued from Page 1.) "How much?" "It is hard to say. It is a very complex matter." Magoon objected. He said that all the property of the Hotel Co. had been conveyed to Wundenberg by a deed of assignment, and he objected to the question because Wundenberg did not owe the money to the company. "Did all the creditors agree to the assignment?" asked Prosser. "That is immaterial," said Magoon. The court ruled that the question was proper. "I just want to explain the situation," said Prosser. "The Waikiki Seaside Hotel Co. was composed of divers and sundry MacFarlanes. It owes May & Co. over $1000, which is the only large creditor outside of the MacFarlanes. It owes MacFarlane & Co. $15,000 and Geo. MacFarlane $9000. They want to defeat the judgment of May & Co. by the assignment to Wundenberg, who is a member of MacFarlane & Co., and by making May & Co. come in on the percentage scheme."

Prosser then returned to his examination of Wundenberg, who again gave a brilliant exhibition of his evasive tactics. Prosser wanted to find out if Wundenberg had the $1000 realized by the sale, and which was attached by May & Co. but Wundenberg, while he admitted having received the money, was utterly unable to tell how much of it he had left.

Finally Prosser suggested that the hearing be continued for a week and that Wundenberg be ordered to file his accounts by then. Magoon said that he had offered Prosser to come to his office and examine the books. "I could have spent two days in Magoon's office with the books and been none the wiser," answered Prosser. "It is a swindle, the whole business."

Magoon stated that Prosser could see the books in his office, but the court could not order Wundenberg to make an account. "I ask the court to continue the matter for a week and that a showing of books and accounts be ordered then," said Prosser. "They made an assignment solely for their own benefit."

"The whole matter depends upon whether the assignment is valid, does it not?" asked Judge De Bolt. "We never consented to it," answered Prosser. "It stinks with fraud."

"What stinks with fraud?" asked Magoon. "Your assignment," thundered Prosser. "If a man's heart is full of fraud, he makes such accusations," said Magoon. During all this the bailiff had been loudly rapping his hammer for order, which was finally restored. Judge De Bolt admonished the belligerents, stating that such scenes did not influence the court, and were very disagreeable. At this point Wundenberg said that he wanted to make a statement. "Mr. Prosser stated," he said, "that I was associated with MacFarlane & Co. and that they reek with fraud. I am not and never was."

NOTLEY TALKS OF "SCHEMES."

(Continued from Page 1.) mitting to the caprice of that same machine. In fact, I do not think that the Republicans would have enough money to pay out if they were to indulge in such virile practice."

When asked as to whether or not the Home Rulers would fuse with the Democrats again, Mr. Notley said: "Not while I am president. We have tried them twice and both times we have found the Democrats unfaithful. The importation of the Molokans, Portuguese and other classes of laborers into the Territory, who can become naturalized American citizens, will, to a large extent affect the Hawaiian voting power. By pursuing a course as proposed by Mr. Poepe, the deserving Hawaiians will then have a show."

"The Home Rule party which has maintained a fight against the rulers of the Territory, is no more than the Kuokoa party of the monarchical regime, which was independent of the then rulers." Mr. Notley will soon call a meeting of the executive committee to meet weekly to discuss plans for the coming campaign.

DRIVEN ON ROCKS AND CREW SUFFERS

Waikuku, Maui, March 23. — The schooner Mokihana, belonging to the Deauchelle brothers of Molokai, was driven on the rocks at Kahakuloa, Maui, last Saturday afternoon and is now a total loss. She came up from Honolulu via Haliawa, Molokai. When she got off the last named port, she met a gale which blew her sails into tatters and she was blown off her course until she arrived off Kahakuloa where the captain decided to put into for help and also to repair her sails. When she dropped anchor into the little bay of Kahakuloa the sea was smooth and the crew thought they will encounter fine weather on their return trip to Molokai ports, but, alas, it was a forlorn hope, for the angry waves during the afternoon and the big waves dashed her about like a little piece of paper. Three times the chains parted and still the valiant crew of three Hawaiians clung to their vessel for dear life. One of them jumped overboard and was badly injured in the attempt. He got ashore and rode overland to Waikuku to telephone to Waikuku for aid. The tug Leslie Baldwin at Kahakuloa was notified by Judge Kepoikali of the unfortunate plight of the little vessel, and was promised, but the angry waves could not wait for the tug, so finally dashed their prey high on the rocks at Kahakuloa, where she is now lying a total loss. Freight and vessel were valued at $1000. Some of the freight belonged to the Meyer brothers of Molokai and the remainder to the Deauchelle boys. Vessel and freight not insured. Both Eddy and Eugene Deauchelle are in Waikuku.

The prompt and splendid work of the department saved the Winston block from fire last night about 11 o'clock. The blaze was in the store of Yuen Wa Chong, Hotel near River street. The Hand That Wards Off Coughs, Colds, Grip And Restores Nervous, Dyspeptic Catarrh Wrecks.

LIKE A DEMON grip has crossed our country, leaving behind scores of physical wrecks. Victims of catarrh of the head, catarrh of the throat, catarrh of the lungs, catarrh of the stomach, catarrh of the kidneys, catarrh of the pelvic organs, are to be counted by hundreds of thousands. Grip is epidemic catarrh, and sows the seed of chronic catarrh within the system. This is so true that few grip sufferers are able to make a complete recovery until they have used Peruna. Never in the history of medicine has a remedy received such unqualified and universal eulogies as Peruna. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

For special directions every one should read "The Ills of Life," a copy of which surrounds each bottle. Peruna is for sale by all chemists and druggists at one dollar per bottle or six bottles for five dollars. Those wishing direct correspondence with Dr. Hartman and can wait the necessary delay in receiving a reply, should address Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, U. S. A. Benson, Smith & Co. will supply the retail drug trade in Honolulu.

Cured of Obstinate La Grippe.

Henry Distin, the inventor and maker of band instruments for the Henry Distin Mfg. Co., at Williamsport, Pa., is probably the most active old man in Philadelphia to-day. He writes from 1441 S. 9th street, Philadelphia, Pa.:

"I write to inform you that I had a bad attack of la grippe last December which lasted more than three months, and which left me with catarrh, and several of my friends advised me to try your wonderful medicine, Peruna."

"I began with a bottle the first week in March and it certainly did me a great deal of good. I was so well satisfied that I purchased another bottle, and followed your directions which you furnish with every bottle, and I am glad to say that it has cured me. I shall certainly recommend the Peruna to all my friends."—Henry Distin.
