Missing Fund Affair Leads To Discharge Of Lucas

DREW FIVE CHECKS ON COURTS' DEPOSITS

As a result of the investigation which is being carried on regarding the embezzled Circuit Court funds, George Lucas, who for many years had been a clerk of the Supreme Court, this morning received his discharge. Chief Justice Frear states that the sole reason for Lucas' discharge was the fact that he had drawn five checks, amounting to an aggregate of $669.98, from the funds placed to the credit of the First Circuit Court, in cases where there were no funds on deposit.

For some days past the atmosphere of the Judiciary had been charged with electricity. It was known that the investigation was being carried on and everyone was wondering whom the lightning would strike. This morning Chief Clerk Henry Smith, who has had charge of the investigation, submitted a voluminous typewritten report on the matter to the three Circuit Judges. This, however, is at present not to be made public, as the judges wish to have whatever developments may take place, come through the Grand Jury.

Henry Smith, when asked for the report, referred the reporter to the judges. Judge De Bolt said that as the report named two clerks he did not think it would be fair to make the document public at the present time. The Grand Jury might fail to return judgments against the persons named, and in such a case their characters would have been unnecessarily blackened. Judge Lindsey's view concurred with that of De Bolt.

When the Supreme Court had its session this morning it was noticed that Jas. Thompson occupied the seat at the clerk's desk, which Lucas had been holding down for years. Henry Smith was asked if Lucas had been discharged, and if this had any connection with the investigation. He answered that Lucas had been discharged by the Chief Justice, but would say nothing further.

Chief Justice Frear, when seen, stated that Lucas had been discharged.

He was asked if the matter of the missing funds had anything to do with Lucas' dismissal.

"It was the sole reason," answered Frear.

The Chief Justice further stated that the evidence showed that Lucas had drawn checks from the fund placed on deposit in the First National Bank to the credit of the First Circuit Court, charging them to cases which had no funds to their credit. There were five such checks drawn by Lucas, but as the circumstances were different in each case, the Chief Justice could not go further into the matter. The amount represented by the checks amounted to a total of $669.98. No successor had as yet been appointed to take Lucas' place.

In the meantime the investigation of the matter by the Grand Jury is by no means finished. The inquirers must today, but did not work on this case, being busy with an embezzlement matter growing out of the affairs of a Hawaiian hill. On the other hand, the Grand Jury will soon get back to its work on the Circuit Court matter, and it is expected that in a few days the resulting indictments, if any are found, will be presented.

Auditor Fisher stated today that his assistant, Mr. Meyers, had been working on the case, having as a matter of fact, ordered the taking of the new trial balance which led to the discovery of the fact that funds were missing. As the matter was now before the Grand Jury, however, the Auditor would give nothing out about it.

The Circuit Judges are now adopting stringent measures to prevent a recurrence of a similar scandal. It has been decided that the chief clerk, (Continued on Page 4.)

MAHENO CARRIES MANY PASSENGERS

First Turbine Steamer Arrives Today In Honolulu

What is probably the largest number of passengers ever taken from the Colonies to British Columbia is on the S. S. Maheno, which arrived this afternoon and will continue her trip tonight. This is the first turbine steamer that ever came to Honolulu, and it is more than ordinary interest to people interested in marine matters.

Although the Maheno has 315 passengers, only three are for Honolulu. They are P. W. Seaton-Karr, Mr. Muir and Mr. Kennedy.

As a result of heart failure, R. E. Farrell, a bedroom steward on the Maheno, died in his bunk, and his body was found the following morning, April 26. He was buried the same day. That was the only event of importance during the voyage.

The Maheno carries 5282 tons of freight, including the following for Honolulu: 284 packages of spirits, 15 packages of preserved vegetables and one box of soil.

Among the through passengers on the Maheno is Sir Norman McLain, a member of the Australian senate.

Another passenger of importance is Sir Charles Campbell, who is on his way to his home in London.

The Maheno will sail, according to present plans, at 11 o'clock tonight. She will take no passengers from this port.

Theosophical Society. Mr. Thomas Prime will give a lecture on "Man Lives Many Lives" at the Alexander Young Hotel, Tuesday evening, May 1st, 7:30. This lecture is of special interest to all inquirers along this line, and Mr. Prime is an able exponent of Theosophical teachings.

FIRST NEWS IN ORIENT

According to newspaper extras published in Yokohama April 29, two days after the big earthquake, the news of that event as received in the Orient was much different than that obtained here. The extras were published by the Japan Advertiser, and these stated that 200 people had been killed and that the bodies would be buried in the sea. It also stated that all towns in a radius of 80 miles had been destroyed, and told of Chinese battling with each other in Chinatown.

$10,000 More Goes To 'Frisco On Doric

SALVATION ARMY IS FURNISHED FUNDS

It was decided by the Governor's Relief Committee, at a meeting held this morning at the Bank of Hawaii, that of the funds to be sent to San Francisco this evening, $2,500 should go to the Salvation Army to be used by that organization in the work of giving aid to the suffering of that city. The committee decided to send to Mr. Morgan on the Doric $10,000.

According to the plans made by the committee at its meeting this morning, Mr. Morgan will be asked to turn over to the Chinese of San Francisco $1,200 for the relief of their people who may be suffering in that city. They also decided to send $1,200 to the Japanese for the same purpose.

After Mr. Morgan has turned over, as requested, the money sent to the Salvation Army, the Japanese and the Chinese, he has permission to use the remainder as his judgment may direct.

There has been collected by the committee, according to the report of the treasurer this morning, $45,677.12. More will be collected in Honolulu, in addition to money to be received from various parts of the other Islands.

Mr. Morgan arrived in San Francisco last night, and the committee is anxiously awaiting word from him. He will supersede Mr. Fraser in handling the relief funds, having been originally appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to serve in that capacity.

In turning over money to the Salvation Army, Hawaii has done something unusual, and the result will be watched with considerable interest by the committee. The local Salvationists had begun to solicit funds for their organization to use in San Francisco, but found that their efforts were quite unavailing, after the general committee had gone over the field. Therefore they asked that they be given the right
