HENRY E. HIGHTON PASSES AWAY

Local Bar Association Has Lost Valued Member

Judge Henry E. Highton died last evening at the Queen's Hospital at 7:12 o'clock. Mr. Highton was operated on a few days ago for gall-stone trouble and after the operation he seemed to rally and gained strength slowly, but a gradual hemorrhage set in from which there was no relief and the end came last evening. Drs. Walters and Herbert, who were attending him, had little faith in his recovery. The Judge had been suffering severe pains for two weeks past and the trouble had become too deeply seated when he gave himself up for treatment.

Judge Highton was a trifle over 70 years of age and an Englishman by birth, coming from a prominent Liverpool family. He came to the United States when quite young and joined in the rush to California in 1843. His occupations, after reaching the Eldorado were many and various. He swung the pick and shovel, handled lumber and drove teams.

When San Francisco began to rear its head as a business center, the Judge at once made his home there, doing any odd jobs that came his way. He had a leaning toward journalism, and for a while he was a worker on the San Francisco Chronicle. The first literary magazine on the Pacific Coast, the Golden Era, founded by Rollin M. Daggett, received contributions from his pen. After a time spent at law study he was admitted to the bar, and for forty years his standing as a practitioner was of the highest. In the celebrated shooting case between Kellogg and De Young, Mr. Highton defended the former. He was also identified with Lucky Baldwin in some of his sensational cases.

From a religious point of view, Mr. Highton was a believer in the Episcopalian faith and held many lay offices in that church.

Mr. and Mrs. Highton came to Honolulu a number of years ago for Mrs. Highton's health and there was such a marked improvement in her health that they decided to remain, the Judge becoming a member of the local bar, and at times contributing articles of value to the daily papers.

Mrs. Highton is at present on the Mainland, but is expected on the Alameda. They have no children.

California Commandery No. 1, of which Mr. Highton was a member in good standing, have charge of the disposal of the remains. Mrs. Highton and the Commandery have been notified.

The San Francisco Argus, of 1859, has the following to say regarding Mr. Highton:

"Henry E. Highton was born at Liverpool, England, in July, 1836, and sprung from and is connected with one of the most intellectual families of which the old country is justly proud. Of old Leicestershire lineage on the paternal side, and old Yorkshire on the maternal, he numbers among his nearest relatives, some of the foremost names in civic, academic and forensic life. His father, Edward Rayner Highton, held many positions, both military and civil. A near relative was Rev. Henry Highton, fellow of Queen's College, Oxford; a Master of Rugby along with the great Arnold; subsequently Head Master of Cheltenham College, and a translator of the Greek Testament. Another kinsman, Edward, distinguished himself as a civil engineer, having been associated with the famous Brunel in dock construction. Another was a Q. C.

"Henry himself went to school at Liverpool and got all the prizes that a boy of twelve could do, for that was his age when he came to this country with his father. The first family settlement was in Wisconsin in 1848, but the very next year the thirteen-year-old boy, having heard of the Eldorado in the West, made the trip across the plains in an independent spirit, reaching Placerville in the fall of 1849. To the seven subsequent years of mining existence, falling as they did in the very development of manhood, Mr. Highton attributes much of the vigor which has stood him in such good stead in the battle of life.

"In 1856 may be said to have begun his city life. For the next four years we find him pursuing journalism as a profession, reporting on the old San Francisco Chronicle—nearly thirty years defunct; writing leading articles for the Golden Era, corresponding at Sacramento, agent the legislature, for the San Francisco Herald; never, however, losing sight of his ultimate legal goal, as is sufficiently attested by his being admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the State more than thirty years ago, in July, 1860.

"Thenceforward Mr. Highton's career has been solely and intimately associated with the practice of law. In 1862 he formed a partnership with Judge O. C. Pratt and the late H. K. W.

TUMORS CONQUERED

SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED.

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so slow that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by profuse monthly periods, accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thighs. If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or a placement, secure a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice if you will write her about yourself. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham— "I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

"Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more, and I am entirely well."—Fannie D. Fox, 7 Chestnut Street, Bradford, Pa.

Clark, in 1864-5 with W. P. Daingerfield and J. Douglas Hambleton, being also subsequently closely connected with the late Hill McAllister.

"Perhaps his first great success was the part he took, in 1860, in the defeat of what was known as the "Bulldog Bill," voted by Governor Downey, after it passed the Legislature, by which it was sought to convey the whole of what is now the wharfage on the city front to a French corporation, headed by Ploche and others. In '62 he delivered the annual address before the State Agricultural Society. In '64 he made speeches advocating Gen. McClellan for the Presidency. In '69 he delivered the Fourth of July oration in the California Theater.

"In politics Mr. Highton may be styled a consistent but independent Democrat; having a hearty abhorrence of "the machine." He has all along been in favor of Chinese exclusion, but deprecates and is thoroughly opposed to the doctrine of force.

"In the matter of practice, Mr. Highton is at home in all the branches of his profession. While he has, perhaps, built as successful a record as a criminal lawyer as any of his contemporaries in this state—having gained, we believe, every case in which he was retained by the defense, notably the De Young v. Kellogg, and the De Young v. Spreckels cases—it is not as a criminal lawyer that he desires by any means to be specially known, as though the criminal cases in which he has practiced, being sensational, have come more prominently before the public than any others, they have not constituted five per cent of the cases in which he has been engaged, and he has for the past three years and more undertaken none.

"In jury and commercial practice Mr. Highton now holds first rank. He possesses an amount of technical commercial knowledge, through previous training, which is foreign to even the brightest members of the legal profession. Numberless cases might be cited of Mr. Highton's ability to lead forlorn hopes and bring doubtful cases to a successful issue. We shall content ourselves here with enumerating some of the most prominent: e. g. Platt v. Rich, Virginia City; Schmedberg, contempt; the Dupont street widening cases; Grumagin v. Bradshaw, Potrero claims; Kinney v. Wallace, damages; S. F. Hopkins v. Mrs. Hopkins, but these will suffice to show the caliber of the man. We doubt if San Francisco holds today two better all-round lawyers than Henry Highton and Samuel M. Shortridge."

REGATTA THIS MONTH

The regatta, which was to come off New Year's day, but was postponed on account of the heavy weather prevailing at the time, will come off at the end of this month. J. F. Morgan, one of the members of the committee having the affair in charge so states, and is seconded by F. L. Waldron, the other member. It was proposed to set the date for the regatta on Washington's birthday, but as there will be an influx of tourists present during the end of this month it was decided to hold the regatta at that time.
