HAWAII AND THE NAVY.

Hawaii of all portions of the globe under the American flag understands the value to this country of a first class Navy. Having no vote in Congress our people feel that while they appreciate National necessities, they are powerless to render aid.

Citizens of this Territory can, if they will, help in the promotion work which far-sighted and broad-minded men of the mainland have to carry on incessantly in order to keep the naval equipment up to the standard. Circumstances must determine where Hawaii's voice may be raised to the best effect. Certainly if our people are constantly on watch for the opportunity, it should be possible to put in a favorable word here and a timely urgent message there while Congress is in session, and the Navy is under fire.

President Roosevelt, always an ardent believer in an efficient Navy, has given a few good hints on how the people may aid. His remarks were addressed to members of the Navy League meeting in Washington. His sentiments should appeal to every American citizen. The President said:

"I take great pleasure in greeting you here, because it is eminently true in a democracy that what is everyone's business is apt to be no one's business, and you are here on everybody's business.

"There is plenty of promise of local interest for public buildings, plenty of pressure for local improvements in the river and harbor bill, but there is no special interest that is seeking to bring pressure to bear as it ought to be brought to bear for matters of great national concern, pre-eminently, the Navy.

"I am happy to say that whereas last year we failed to get a battle-ship, this year we have two. We have made good the loss we met last year.

"Now I want all of you in your respective homes, through the organs of public opinion, by your influence upon your representatives in Washington, to see that the needs of the Navy are not forgotten in the future.

"The Navy has no one to speak for it save those who speak for it because of their devotion to the honor and the interest of the United States; and I ask that you and those like you make your voices heard for the general welfare and the dignity of the Nation, and that you speak only for special interests."

This Territory has good friends in Congress. Why not make the Navy our special interest, and when naval appropriations are under discussion, exercise Hawaii's pull for the Navy?

By getting into practice, it may be possible for Hawaii to also be reminded of the existence of a Navy through the appearance of our ships at this port once in a while.

AN IRRESPONSIBLE HUMBBUG.

J. Lee Wallach, having recently emerged from jail, is once more a burning issue. He is receiving almost as much attention as he did some time ago when the Court found him guilty of violation of the laws of the Territory and sent him to the calaboose to meditate on the discomforts of breaking the law and getting found out.

Wallach evidently thinks that the present is the psychological moment for him and he has grasped the opportunity and is hanging on tightly. He has set his legislative friends to work in his behalf, and the halls of the law-makers resound with eloquent pleas for a persecuted victim of scientific prejudice. The statement from Kohala in particular has constituted himself the champion of this man who claims to be able to do what science has up to the present found impossible—cure a disease that for thousands of years has been pronounced incurable.

Resolutions have been introduced in both Houses of the Legislature praying that "Doctor" Wallach be permitted to go to the Settlement on Molokai to practice and demonstrate the efficacy of his wonderful cure. Just how eager Wallach would be to avail himself of the opportunity if it were afforded him may be a question. But his adherents in the Legislature urge these resolutions with fiery eloquence and blind faith.

It is to be feared that Wallach is not appreciated at his proper value. He is an enterprising young man, who has shown much energy in his business and has met with remarkable success—in extracting from trousers pockets the elusive dollar of commerce.

Moreover, he must be a man of wonderful attainments. Here we have for years had half the eminent bacteriologists and physicians of the world seeking in vain for a cure for the disease that spells worse than death for its victims, and we have right in our midst a man who, without any medical training whatever, claims to have solved the problem. And he didn't even have to use a microscope. Probably he wouldn't recognize the germ of the disease if he were introduced to it. He doesn't bother with such negligible quantities as bacilli. The chances are that he wouldn't know a microscope aside from a scalpel. He doesn't need to, for he doesn't use them in his business. All he needs is a few simple things like moss from the female necks of the deep sea, the roots of deers' horns, and live worms from a few localities on the earth that he couldn't find on the map if he had to.

It is difficult to understand why Wallach hasn't protected his discovery by patent. Somebody else as enterprising as himself is liable to steal it and reap the benefit and the dollars. He really ought, in justice to often stops short off when the breadwinner dies. And unless there is a little life insurance to fall back on, the beloved wife and dear children become the poor widow and the helpless orphans. The husband who fails to insure his life when he is strong and well, commits an act of negligence from the results of which those he loves best in the world have to suffer after he is gone. The Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York issues protection policies to avert just such unhappy conditions. They don't cost much. Trent & Co. are the local agents, and will be pleased at any time to discuss the subject confidentially with any who may feel like providing for the future of their families.

VOICE YOUR CHOICE.

Mr. Taylor, with whom practically lies the choice of a site for Honolulu's new Federal building, has recognized the right of the public to have their say in the matter. What is more, he does not look for suggestions to any particular body of men or organization, but extends his invitation to every citizen, asking each one to give his ideas and to stand a fair chance with his fellow-citizens in the matter.

THE SOCIAL EVIL AGAIN.

There is a section in President Pinkham's recent report that may cause some alleged moralists to peek through their fingers while they read it and then run and hide, or cry out against a discussion of the Social Evil on common sense grounds. The subject dealt with is nevertheless one that, like the brook, goes on forever and all the purists and fools in Christendom can't stop it.

ALL IS READY FOR VISITORS

Every Day Will Be Full of Doings--Maile Wreaths

The plans for entertaining the Los Angeles visitors will have to be changed somewhat on account of the delayed arrival of the ship. The visitors are expected Friday morning, and a goodly crowd will greet them from the naval dock.

Regardless of the change of plans of entertaining, the committee are equal to the occasion. The two hundred and fifty leis to be fashioned from one variety of flowers has kept the committee busy, and skimming the city from one end to the other and it is the only part of the program that has talked them. Not enough of one variety could be obtained for so many leis at one time. It has been decided to make maile wreaths only, considering it better taste than to have leis of mixed flowers.

The skeleton program below is simply a reminder, as the full program has been previously given: Friday—Afternoon: from noon till 2 o'clock, reception at Maternity Home. Afternoon reception at Moanalua. A special train will leave the Oahu depot at 3 o'clock sharp to convey visitors to that delightful resort. Evening: reception and band concert at Hawaiian hotel.

Saturday—Regatta at Waikiki at 2 o'clock. Evening: Hawaiian concert and tableaux at the Opera House. Sunday—Band concert at Capitol grounds. Monday—Inspection of city from trolley cars and visit to aquarium. A business men's lunch at the Young Hotel. Reception for the ladies at Alinalua between 2:30 and 6. Evening: aquatic sports at Hotel Baths.
