from the same physical disturbances, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drift them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, organic troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements, or perhaps irregularity or suppression causing backache, nervousness, irritability, and sleeplessness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

made from simple native roots and herbs. For more than thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, regulating the functions perfectly and overcoming pain. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for child birth and the change of life.

Mrs. A. M. Hagermann, of Bay Shore, L. I., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered from a displacement, excessive and painful functions so that I had to lie down or sit still most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman so that I am able to attend to my duties. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see what relief it will give them.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female illness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Therefore she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health.

Use Pure Milk

Don't take chances with milk that may contain typhoid germs. Our condensed milk is used very generally on the Pacific Coast instead of ordinary cow's milk. It is so rich in natural flavor and butter-fat that it is preferred by many in tea, coffee, cocoa, and chocolate, while it makes the best body for gravies, sauces, ice-cream, fritters, etc.

Alpine Milk

is thoroughly sterilized and evaporated by a hygienic process to the consistency of a rich cream, and is readily digested and assimilated.

Kauai Lands Are Idle Waiting For Action

If you put the plantation down as a greedy octopus, that ought to be held in check, you naturally turn to the other side of it and try to discover what the people have gained by the hold-up. It has profited nothing so far as anyone going over the ground can observe with the naked eye. The tax books show no profit. So where is it? Experience? If so, a few years of the same thing will bring Hawaii to the pristine gaiety of the simple life—the malo, the undershirt, and hardy that.

Five days' tour of the lands involved in what is known as the "Kapaa land deal" in company with the appraisers appointed by Governor Frear would be a liberal education for any citizen of the United States who wants to know something of the problems that infest this Territory of Hawaii, which, as well as being under the American flag, is on the bring-line of the scene of the world's greatest future activities. Listening to the questions of the appraisers and asking a few yourself at one time or another, you touch upon nearly every problem you encounter in any portion of the Territory. When you see and understand what disastrous results follow inaction, you feel more and more like turning to the Territorial and the Federal Governments and exclaim that you don't care so much what they do, so they do something. The one saving quality of the Molokan experiment was that it represented an effort.

"Incidentally I am looking at the quarters for the laborers," remarked Appraiser Renton as he was riding through the fields of the Makee Sugar Company. There is an absence of the usual plantation barracks and an apparent effort to give the plantation worker a home of his own with a fair-sized area of land. Manager Fairchild does not make pretensions to being a homesteader, but his workmen seem to be mighty comfortably located. Mr. Fairchild likes the Portuguese, and in some instances has children and children's children of old Portuguese families quartered on his plantation.

OVER in Lihue they will tell you of the loss Hawaii suffered on account of the Molokans. Fairchild has said the same thing in Honolulu, but many people thought him an interested party and therefore prejudiced, if not exaggerating a bit. The coming of the Molokans to Kapaa resulted in Portuguese who had been on the lands for years leaving for California. At Lihue, the Bulletin man was told that if the lands of Kapaa had been made available to the Portuguese already on the island, the emigration of over a hundred families would have been stopped, and the Kapaa fields deserted by the Molokans would now be the home of a prosperous colony.

IN connection with the Molokan proposition, the funniest story yet was picked up in Lihue. It is that Colonel Spalding put up a job with Captain Demens, had him go to James Castle and start the whole thing moving in order that the Molokans might be brought to the district and be proved a failure! The fellow who sprung this looked wise when he said it. He really didn't like it when the suggestion was made that Colonel Spalding had been credited with being many things, but never as being such a triple-plated fool as this would make him out to be. For the Molokans cost the Colonel some thousands of dollars that he will never see again. The story simply shows what things pass current, when a man has a reputation among his associates for being able to hold up his end in a bargain.

Wherever you go, the policy of the Territorial Government for the last three years is talked about as being a "get back" at Colonel Spalding. That seems to be the only way in which the backing and filling can be rationally explained. But they are all getting tired of the "get-back" business now. Too much money is being lost. The County feels it and the reduction of taxes. In other words, you cannot destroy without the injury passing down the line and striking all hands to a certain extent.

The verdict of the average Kauai man is that the sugar plantation should be allowed to go forward with the cultivation of the cane lands, and the privilege of developing the water should be granted under restrictions that will simply protect the small homesteader when he sees fit to take up the natural homestead lands. One man said, "We don't want to see a settlement that will give the sugar company all the water and the Government all the lands." It is to be assumed that the Government officers will have the wit to guard against such an outcome, and, so far as known none of the many propositions made to the Territory contemplate a result of this character. The Territory undoubtedly knows more about the available water than any private individuals. This is unusual, but generally admitted on Kauai. The cause for it is credited to the excellent work of Surveyor Harvey, who has spent the larger part of the last two years in this section. He has gone to the highest peaks of the boundary ranges and searched all the water sources. He knows what there is to be had in the way of water supply; he knows the best sections for reservoir sites and has, in fact, gathered the detailed information that should be obtained regarding every foot of public land.

ONE of the very happy events of the trip of the latest Board of Appraisers to Kapaa was an elaborate dinner served on Sunday night by He Fat, the big rice planter of Kauai. He Fat rents the rice land of the Makee Sugar Company. His dinners have gained a reputation. He has entertained every Governor and public officer that has been to Kauai on the land question. The only distinction He Fat makes in the entertainment of his guests is to regulate the number of courses in accordance with the official standing of his guests. The Governor, for instance, gets eighteen courses. He Fat says if the Chinese Prince were to come to Kauai, he would get fifty courses.

The dinner to the appraisers was originally started as a sixteen-course affair. Manager Fairchild announced to Mine Host He Fat that Private Secretary Melbyde stood next to the Governor, and another course was added. So the appraisers' dinner was a close second to the Governor's. The menu of the dinner is given. The party sat down at five o'clock and finished the last course about nine o'clock. There was nothing to drink but champagne, although Chairman Hopper secured a special dispensation and obtained water.

Mr. He Fat made a speech in which he said he was glad to see the appraisers. He expressed the hope that they would have the lands in question leased to the Makee Sugar Company, so that the district might prosper. He wound up with the further hope that each appraiser would live long and have lot of children. Chairman Hopper responded with "Aloha" and the others sipped He Fat's health in champagne.

Early in the evening Mr. He Fat's two sons, bright little fellows, came in to pay their respects to the company. Later Mrs. He Fat and the four girls of the family came in to greet the guests. There is a regular order about this which is observed at each dinner. One of the interesting souvenirs of the He Fat household is a photograph of the whole He Fat family clustered on the doorstep of the house. On one side is Governor Frear and on the other Secretary Mott-Smith.

Mr. He Fat is an American citizen, having been born in the Islands. His credentials as the postmaster of Kapaa, signed by Postmaster General Wynne, adorn the wall of his home. It is an elaborate document in an elaborate frame.

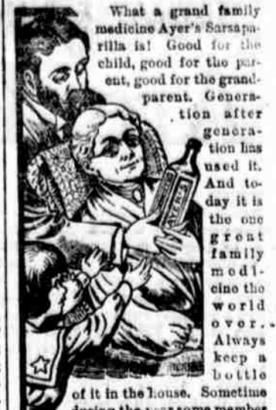

The dinner that he serves is excellent by none. The delicacy of the dishes put before his guests would stir the best French chef to voluble envy.

- The bill of fare in all its sumptuous fullness was as follows:
- Fresh Oysters
- Bird's-Nest Soup
- Broiled Fish

JEFF DAVIS COCKTAIL

The Jeff Davis cocktail is sweeping through Chicago like a typhoon, and is leaving wrecks in its wake. "Jimmy" Maloney, a Monroe street thirt-suppressor, swears he got the recipe from the Senator. This is the recipe:

Fill mixing glass one-third to two-thirds full of fine ice. Then mix one slice of orange, one-half teaspoonful of syrup, two dashes of Peychaud bitters, two-thirds of a wine glass of brandy, and one-third ditto of Tokay wine. Stir thoroughly and strain into a cooled cocktail glass with a Fairbanks cherry and a dash of seltzer. Three or four of above is half any-one can—hic—stand.

What a grand family medicine Ayer's Sarsaparilla is! Good for the child, good for the parent, good for the grand-parent. Generation after generation has used it. And today it is the one great family medicine the world over. Always keep a bottle of it in the house. Sometimes during the year some member of the family will certainly need it. You can surely trust a medicine that has been used for over sixty years. Tested and tried, and never found wanting.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

is the best family medicine that ever was made. It makes pure blood, and pure blood is the source of good health. As now made, Ayer's Sarsaparilla contains no alcohol. There are many imitations of Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get "Ayer's."
