Mr. Dreier's Fortune

It is probable that the late August Dreier left an estate valued at considerably more than half a million dollars. Nearly all his property is held by a corporation with a capital stock of $300,000, the officers of the corporation acting under a deed of trust in the administration of its business.

It is known that Mr. Dreier left a will directing the disposition of his property, but the greater part of his fortune is held by the corporation. The general belief is that Mr. Dreier made most of his presents to public institutions and charities during his life-time, and comparatively little may be dispensed through his will.

KAALAS AVERAGE HIGH BURNS' JONE

That the Kaalas have batted and fielded better, on the average, and speaking as a whole, than any other team in the Riverside League, appears from an examination of the scorer's record for this year. The Kaalas lead in the batting, with .302, and are second in the fielding, with .918, which makes them close behind the Alohas, the fielding champs. The Chinese boys, however, have hit fourth only, which makes them out of the Kaalas class, as things now stand.

W. T. Raposo, official scorer of the league, reports the following averages of the teams: Batting Averages. Teams. G. AB. R. BH. SB. SH. Pct. Kaalas .3 126 27 38 13 4 1.302

Fielding Averages. Teams. G. PO. A. E. Pct. Alohas .4 123 71 16 .924 Kaalas .3 93 41 12 .918 Palamas .3 78 37 12 .905 C. A. C. .3 92 39 17 .886 Japanese .3 78 23 15 .871

Manager Neall tells a funny story about Tommy Burns in England. Tommy has a great trick of finding out all about any man he meets before he gets into a ring with him. He even had moving pictures of Squires in his training quarters before the battle with the Australian. He knew every move Squires might make.

When Burns and Neall first arrived in England Moore was about to give a boxing exhibition at Wonderland. Burns was anxious to see him box and get a line on his action. So on the night of the exhibition he bought a rough suit of clothes and a cap and sneaked out of his hotel in disguise. Neall accompanied him. In the arena they separated, and Burns went up into the gallery, and sliding into a seat in the back row huddled down and kept still. Moir came out and boxed, and Burns watched every movement keenly. All around him the cockneys were discussing the newly arrived American. "Wye," said one, "Moir'll ave 'is bloomin' block knocked hurn w'en 'e meets Burns."

Woolley and Hawaii

TALKS TO CHICAGO DAILY NEWS ABOUT PROHIBITION PROSPECTS

John G. Woolley on arriving in Chicago gave the Daily News the following interview: "One of the reasons why our ships are making such an epoch-making trip around the world is because the sailors are not drinking so much as sailors have formerly done on almost similar trips," declared John G. Woolley, who returned to Chicago from Hawaii today.

"That is one of the chief reasons why the Fleet is making such a good record. The wave of reform has reached the mariners and that is a most hopeful sign, as sailors for centuries have been known as heavy drinkers. In answering invitations for his officers and men, I understand that Admiral Thomas, in charge of the Fleet, has asked his hosts to furnish as little liquor as possible to them. The men, too, have vined for themselves a dislike to the usual orgies incident to a ship's arrival in a foreign port."

Mr. Woolley, former candidate for the Presidency on the Prohibition ticket, was a year in Hawaii. On his return he passed through San Francisco, where unusual preparations for the welcome of the North Atlantic Fleet were being made.

Organized League in Hawaii When in Hawaii Mr. Woolley organized an Anti-Saloon League and made a vigorous campaign against the sale of liquor in the islands. He expressed gratification over the results accomplished by his party's war against the saloon in this country.

"Absolute patriotism has never been better exemplified in this country than by the organization and conduct of the Prohibition party in this fight," he continued. "It set out to break the political power of the liquor traffic and in a fair measure it has accomplished it. The citizens of this country should be very proud. They have accomplished a great victory and I think it will be a permanent one."

Not All Due to Prohibitionists "The credit should go alone to the Prohibitionists, either. The victory has been won by the combined efforts of the Federal Government, societies and churches. A very important part of the program in the immediate future is the mobilizing of all the scattered forces of moral suasion and scientific instruction.

"There is at present a great wave of reform sweeping over the world. It is nowhere so noticeable as in this country. We are progressing in a moral way and I am positive it will have a permanent effect."

Difficult Task in Hawaii Speaking of his efforts to drive out the saloon and indiscriminate liquor-drinking in the Hawaiian Islands, the Prohibition leader said: "It was a most difficult task. We worked under a great handicap. Drinking had flourished for so many years that it was hard to obtain a foothold in the struggle to control it.

"The country, especially the ports, is inhabited by a cosmopolitan population. There are thousands of sailors of all nationalities; there are more marines and soldiers. These men are great drinkers and make the saloon-keepers prosperous.

Bad Effect on Natives "But the liquor has the most serious effect upon the natives. They are like our Indians. The Chinese do not drink much; neither do the Japanese. We have established our Anti-Saloon League over the islands and by the help of the people themselves and the United States Government we hope to regulate the evil if not to destroy it totally. The situation is very promising."

Fielder Jones, when his White Stocking ball team is right, and with Hahn in the game, has a scoring play which his rivals have never solved. Nor has any one of the fans, who have studied the White Sox in their opening attack year after year, solved it. It is smooth, crafty and bewildering and is worked many times in a year. The solution of it would be the solution of the cause for so many White Sox runs when the proper amount of hits do not show.

When Walter Miller takes his departure for New York the middle of this month, there will be no regrets on the part of the California turf devotees, who are heartily sick of this pigskin artist's erratic form in the saddle. If a less fashionable jockey rode in such an in-and-out fashion, he would be hauled over the coals in a jiffy. If Miller sees fit to ride a favorite last one day and win with him the next time out, no official action is taken.

President Herman of the California State League suspended Manager Lou Schroeder of the Alameda club for two weeks and imposed a fine upon him for his actions at Sacramento recently. The head of the outlaw organization states that he will insist upon the managers and players respecting the indicator handlers, and that every offense will be summarily dealt with.

Presiding Judge A. W. Hamilton of the Santa Anita race track announced a few days ago that he had suspended Jockey Preston for one year for acting as go-between in the Trainer Riley-Jockey Archibald affair. It will be recalled that the southern officials made the statement that Archibald complained to them that Preston had approached him in the interests of Riley to pull varieties in a race toward the close of the southern meeting and upon investigation the stewards decided to rule Riley off the turf for life, but owing to Preston having furnished certain information in connection with the case that helped the stewards to probe the matter to the bottom, he was extended leniency.

So on the night of the exhibition he bought a rough suit of clothes and a cap and sneaked out of his hotel in disguise. Neall accompanied him. All around him the cockneys were discussing the newly arrived American. "Wye," said one, "Moir'll ave 'is bloomin' block knocked hurn w'en 'e meets Burns."

Burns, still unrecognized, turned around and grinned. "Moir'll murder 'im," he said, in his best imitation of the English lingo. "Wot?" yelled the cockney, "so dot you know about Burns, you 'alf-grown rotten?" "Burns isn't 'alf as big as the Gunner," explained Tommy. "e's a little fellow like me."
