SENATE

provision that will kill it. The Commissioner of Public Lands knows nothing about road building. Road building is outside his province, and if you make him the man to build these roads you kill the whole thing."

Makekahu then managed to get the floor again. He insisted that he did not want to interrupt the Senator from Kanai, but he talked so steadily that Knudsen finally threw up his hands, and left the field to the solon from Hawaii.

"Why, when you leave the road building to the Superintendent of Public Works, you have all sorts of trouble," said Makekahu. "You, Mr. President, will remember how you and Secretary Garfield were stuck on a spot on Hawaii."

Afraid for the Poor.

"As it now is, the Commissioner of Public Lands allots land in a certain manner and the poor people take up homesteads and build houses and lay out gardens, and get everything in fine shape, and then along comes the Superintendent of Public Works and builds a road right through their land. That means that they have to rebuild their fences and pay out a lot more money than they expected."

"Let the Commissioner of Public Lands build the roads, and this will not happen."

Senator Harvey thought that Makekahu might have the right idea. He said that he had known of just such instances as the Senator cited, on this island.

Kalama, who had been trying for an opening, finally managed to get the floor. He gently called attention to the fact that the Organic Act states what the duties of the Superintendent of Public Works shall be, and that such a provision as Makekahu urged would not stand, in that the Superintendent of Public Works would not be likely to approve roads laid out by the Commissioner of Public Lands.

McCarthy thought that the consolidation of the jobs of Land Commissioner and Surveyor would settle the matter.

Makekahu Again.

Makekahu thought that the provisions of the bill, regarding the proportion of the money received from the sale of the lands which should be used in road building, would make it necessary for the purchase price of the land to be paid in a lump sum. This, he insisted, would mean that no more poor people could take up homesteads.

Finally a motion to defer prevailed and the aimless discussion came to a close.

In making his motion to defer, Coolidge thought that the turning of the road building over to the counties would solve the riddle.

Election Law.

The Senate went into Committee of the Whole to discuss the election law, taking up the work where it was left off Saturday afternoon. The bill was gone over with a care which promises well for the ultimate stability of the law, particular attention being given to the matter of registration.

Senator Smith felt that the section regarding the travels of the clerk, when people want to register, was indefinite enough to be dangerous. Said he:

"What is to prevent the clerk from traveling around at his own sweet will on the plea that some one's name must be attached to the great register. He may go somewhere and stay for a couple of weeks and can keep up the proceeding just as long as he wants, under the wording of this bill."

Kalama felt that the provision against passing out "inducements" might make it impossible for a candidate to give a luau to his faithful henchmen. Knudsen did not believe that the hungry would be forced to starve by any provision embodied in the bill.

Finally, the committee arose, reported progress, and asked permission to sit again. The permission was granted.

Baker's Petitions.

Senator Baker introduced a resolution calling upon the Commissioner of public lands to furnish data regarding all applications for homesteads in the Hamakua District of Hawaii during the past two years.

Baker also submitted two petitions from Hawaii, one asking an appropriation for the combating of leprosy, and the other urging the division of Hawaii into two counties. The former went to the Health Committee, the latter to the Hawaii delegation.

House Bill No. 74, the Appropriation Bill—went to the Ways and Means Committee.

House Bill No. 153, redistricting the Territory, was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Luther Burbank, famous plant wizard of California, is preparing an exhibit of his spineless cactus and other marvelous products for displays at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle this summer. ers, evidently deceived by written or spoken assurances of certain persons, ask the Legislature "to exercise its prerogative in favor of a bill or a resolution that will give us some chance for removal to a hospital on the island of Oahu and placed under the treatment and care of Dr. John Atcherley for our terrible disease. We are aware that the patients that were removed from Kalaupapa last November have been greatly benefited by Dr. Atcherley's treatment, we therefore appeal to you all for the same relief."

Nakaleka also presented another petition from the settlement, asking the Legislature to pass a bill for non-segregation of lepers to Kalaupapa before treatment at the new hospital for leprosy on Molokai; a bill relating to the commitment of persons to the insane asylum; appropriation bills for $15,000 for new ward hospital for leprosy, Oahu; $3500 for a retreat of patients from new ward hospital; $33,000 for care and maintenance of patients at the proposed hospital for 50 patients; $58,000 for care and maintenance of 100 patients.

Rice called attention to the fact that similar petitions had already been passed upon and tabled for consideration with the appropriation bill, so the Speaker directed that these two take the same course.

House Bill 188, Sheldon's substitute counsel fee bill, to take the place of the original bill vetoed by the Governor, passed its third reading without debate. Under the provisions of the bill the courts may appoint counsel for poor prisoners accused of crimes the penalty for which may be 20 years imprisonment or more.

House Bills 175 and 176, relating to the powers and duties of the Boards of Supervisors of the counties and of the City and County of Honolulu, passed their final reading after a lengthy and pointless discussion. These bills provide that the Supervisors may make and enforce all necessary ordinances covering all local police matters and all matters of sanitation, inspection of buildings, plumbing, sewers, dairies, milk, fish, cemeteries, morgues, etc.

House Bill 89, which provides for turning over to the counties the maintenance and support of district courts, county jails and hospitals, met with no opposition when it was placed on its final passage.

The Speaker announced that Representatives Douthitt, Kaniho and Kaloopa were absent without leave.

BURGLAR'S BURIED LOOT IS BEING UNEARTHED

Nawai, the self-confessed burglar, is now in a cell at the police station, he having finished his tour of discovery in Chief Leal's company. Nawai has confessed that he burglarized the residence of Mr. Douglas on Kaplan street. The watch which was stolen at the time of the burglary was found in Nawai's possession.

The Hawaiian Bill Sykes also led Chief Leal to a small patch of cane land near upper Emma street, where he had buried some of the loot. Included in the mass of stuff was a lot of cheap jewelry, and also Mrs. Douglas' opera glasses. Mr. Birmingham's cuff-links and cravat-holder and some of Mrs. Birmingham's trinkets were also found. All the Birmingham property has been found or accounted for.

Some of the Douglas loot is still missing, but this is thought to be in the possession of a Hawaiian girl to whom Nawai has been paying attention. A handsome gold medal given by the "Columbia College Athletic Association" to the winner of an athletic contest in 1892, was found with some other stuff. An old cardcase bearing the name of "John C. Evans," kukui nuts, a bunch of trunk keys, and a valuable skeleton key were also discovered.

Chief Leal is hot on the trail of some alleged "fences," and expects to land most of them before long. Nawai states that an organized gang of thieves is conducting operations in the city, and that a Chinaman is a leading light in the business. Chief Leal is looking into the matter and it will go hard with the company when he gets his hands on the prominent officers of the concern.

AMUSEMENTS

POLLARDS READY

Fifteen grown-up Lilliputians are now in Honolulu and these fifteen actor people form the personnel of the Pollard No. 1 Company. This company is composed entirely of Lilliputian graduates and the very best of those who have graduated.

Taking the leading parts are Alfred Goulding and Eva Moore, both of whom, for many years, took the leads with the Lilliputians. From musical comedy to straight "Legit" is quite a step, but these young actors are capable of it and will put on a list of quite ambitious pieces here.

They will open next Saturday night with "The Charity Ball" and this successful comedy of New York life will give them a chance to show just how good they are. There will be an interesting innovation made by this company in that they will introduce musical numbers and dances in all their plays.

In the second act of the "Charity Ball" the stage is set as a ballroom and this will give Eva Moore her great chance to show Honoluluans that she has not forgotten how to dance since she was first here. She has been playing with J. C. Williamson's big operatic company in Australia and held the lead in the "Merry Widow." The famous dance of this name will be given by her in this scene with Jack Pollard as her partner.

The sale of seats has already opened at Bergstrom's music store and the advance sale looks as though it would be a large one. Opening on Saturday night with the "Charity Ball," the Pollards will play that same piece Monday matinee and evening and Wednesday evening. On Thursday evening they will open with "Checkers" and will play that Saturday matinee and evening as well. Tuesday and Friday nights will be dark while the company is at the Opera House.

THE GEM THEATER

When a new film is made in a motion-picture factory in Europe there is a memorandum reminding the manufacturers that in far-off Honolulu the people at the Gem Theater are waiting to see it. The management of this place of amusement is keen to get the latest and best and is seldom disappointed. Crowded houses is the rule, and the audiences are invariably well pleased with the entertainment. Comedy furnishes cause for laughter, and human-interest pictures occasionally turn on the weeps.

THE SAN FRANCISCO THEATER

The distribution of prizes at this theater caused much amusement the other evening. One can always enjoy a good laugh here, and on Friday night, which is Amateur Night, the laugh becomes a scream. Now that the weather has settled, this open-air theater will be crowded nightly.

THE ART THEATER

Manager Lawson keeps giving us the best there is at his Art Theater on Hotel street. This is the most pretentious moving-picture house in the city, and rain or shine, can always be depended upon for a pleasant evening's amusement. New films will be put on this evening.

THE PARK THEATER

An entire change of program takes place at the popular open-air theater this evening. The Malinote Sisters, who have proved a good drawing card will have new songs and the films that arrived on the last steamer are all new and entertaining.

THE ROYAL THEATER

This novel theater, on North Hotel street, is drawing large crowds nightly. A special feature is the Hawaiian orchestra and singing. Several pretty colored films were shown last week and the management has others in reserve.

Officials of the Treasury at Washington have announced that the Government's expenditures due to the late illness and burial of President William McKinley amounted to $42,517.88. Forty-five thousand dollars had been appropriated for this purpose.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN once asked a friend a conundrum that runs something like this: "If you called a sheep's tail a leg, how many legs would the sheep then have?"

When his friend said "Five," Lincoln replied: "No, it would have only four, because CALLING a sheep's tail a leg doesn't make it so."

Suppose we apply this conundrum to modern advertising.

CALLING every scheme "advertising" that masquerades under the name of advertising does not make it so. The merchant needs be sharp to select the sheep from the goats, for he can lose money just as fast turning down advertising mediums of proven value as he can in scattering his force in every catch-penny device that comes up.

The best way is to employ the services of a trained advertising man and rely upon his advice just as he does on the advice of his lawyer in legal matters.

We're here to serve.
