RECORD SET IN THE AUDITOR'S OFFICE

Warrants Ready At Ten O'clock This Morning

Though the Board of Supervisors did not pass on the payrolls until last night's meeting, Auditor Bicknell had all of the city's warrants out and ready for distribution at 10 o'clock this morning. This sets a new record for speed in the Auditor's office, and one that it will be hard to beat unless the staff is substantially increased.

One hundred and twenty-six warrants in all had to be made out, the individual warrant system lately adopted by the Board having made the work considerably more arduous. Most of the warrants were prepared in advance, however, and just as soon as the certified demands, countersigned by the Mayor, were sent back to Bicknell's office, the slips were signed and ready for distribution.

In order to accomplish the feat, it was necessary to sidetrack all other business, and all day Saturday the staff devoted its time to making out warrants. Even at that some folk were not satisfied, for before 9 o'clock this morning, ere the demands had come back from the Mayor's office, there was a long waiting line outside the Auditor's door.

Just as soon as the warrants for the last fifteen days are out of the way, the Auditor will get busy preparing those for the first fifteen days of March. The demands are now in proper shape, and it only remains for the little blue slips to be filled in.

"A WOMAN'S SECRET" AT THE ORPHEUM

There will be an entire change in the line of play at the Orpheum tonight when the Ellsford will present Effie Ellsler's great success, "A Woman's Secret," or "Doris." The story deals with a young woman who is married to a convict; she divorces him and goes to a small English village, where she teaches school. A young Squire is in love with her, but tells her that he will not marry a divorced woman. She keeps her secret, especially as she hears that her former husband is dead. In a very strong act he appears at her new home and threatens to kill her husband unless she agrees to go away with him. In order to save her husband's life she apparently agrees. She meets him secretly and is seen by some of the village gossips, who try to blacken her character. As in all well-written plays everything turns out satisfactory to all concerned. There will be special scenic effects and the piece is full of good comedy and strong situations and a guaranteed production is assured. The company will be seen at their best. The Osborn Children and Ray Collins will contribute new specialties and illustrated songs. Cinderella will be given at the Saturday matinee.

JUDGE BALLOU IS OFF FOR COAST

Alameda Sails With Many Passengers And Much Freight

The departure of the Oceanic liner Alameda this morning from her berth was witnessed by one of the largest crowds gathered there for many a day. The Hawaiian band rendered several appropriate selections, and the lei wabines had successful business.

Among those who left in her were Lloyd Childs and Charles E. King. They went to the Alaska-Yukon Exposition to arrange the Hawaiian exhibits, which they took along with them. Mr. and Mrs. John Moad of Kakaia, Hawaii, also sailed in the Alameda to be absent from the islands for some time.

Judge and Mrs. Ballou sailed for the States. It was not known that Judge Ballou would go until this morning. He will probably be absent from Honolulu a month. A Gartley, manager of the Hawaiian Electric Company, went to the States to familiarize himself with the automatic telephone system.

Attorney H. G. Middleditch went away on business. He will return shortly. Mrs. F. M. Swansy, wife of F. M. Swansy, manager of T. H. Ravles & Co., went to the States on a pleasure trip.

The Alameda took a full load of general cargo from the islands, including bananas, sugar, pineapples, rice and other products.

CHILDS OFF FOR THE ALASKA-YUKON

Leaves On Alameda With Hawaii's Fair Exhibit

Lloyd Childs left this morning on the Alameda with the major portion of Hawaii's exhibit for the Alaska-Yukon Exposition. All day yesterday the Special Commissioner hustled about, getting things into readiness, and putting the finishing touches on the arrangements.

The loading of the exhibit was superintended personally, the steamship people rendering every possible assistance in stowing away the cargo in a manner which would insure its arrival at its destination in the best of condition.

Childs takes with him enough of the exhibit to assure a good showing in the Hawaiian Building, until such time as the remainder, destined to be shipped on the Dix, shall arrive at hand. The fish exhibit is still here, but the school exhibit, the collection of which was undertaken but a short time ago, is safely stowed away in the hold of the Alameda.

Childs was given a royal send-off. W. J. Cooper of the Promotion Committee accompanying him ceremoniously to the steamer on behalf of the committee. As the ship pulled away from the dock, Childs waved an adieu from a mass of lies that obscured all but his face and arms.
