BIG MEAT COMPANIES UP AGAINST IT

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Six of the largest packing companies in the country and twenty-one individuals connected with them were today indicted, charged with a conspiracy to limit the meat supply of the country and to control the supply of poultry, for the purpose of holding up the prices through the medium of the cold storage companies.

The companies indicted include the National Packing Company, Armour, Swift, Morris, Hammond Packing Company and the G. H. Hammond Company.

DR. BURKE CHARGED WITH DYNAMITING.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Feb. 25.—Dr. Willard F. Burke was today indicted by the Sonoma Grand Jury, charged with having dynamited the tent occupied by Luella Smith and child, at the Burke Sanitarium, in an effort to kill the woman and baby. The evidence upon which the indictment is based is that Burke, who is the owner of the sanitarium, is the father of the child and has had the mother practically a prisoner at his place for months.

The woman claims to have been chloroformed when the attempt upon her life was made. While she slept, a dynamite bomb was placed under her bed and exploded, wounding her slightly.

The whole case has caused great excitement here, where Dr. Burke is well known.

CONGRESSMAN KITCHIN GETS PUNNY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.—Congressman Claude Kitchin of North Carolina, Democrat, attacked the Aldrich-Payne tariff schedules in a bitter speech in the House today. He declared that the bill had been well named the All Rich-Pain Bill, because it came as a blessing to the rich manufacturers and brought pain to the hungry people and to the country.

LABOR LEADER UP FOR RIOTING.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—A warrant for the arrest of John Murphy, the president of the Central Labor Union of this city, was issued today, charging the labor leader with inciting the riots that have taken place here during the past few days, in which much property has been destroyed and a number of lives lost.

STEEL WORKS CLOSED.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.—It is reported here that the Bethlehem Steel Works have been closed down and will be sold until the works are given police protection against strikers. Nine thousand steel workers have been thrown out of employment.

INTERSTATE BILL SAFE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.—The administration's bill to create an interstate commerce court, which has been vigorously fought in committee, has been ordered to be favorably reported.

ATTACHES AT TOKIO.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.—Ensigns Austin and Rogers have been detailed to act as additional attaches to the American Legation at Tokio.

TIME-BALL FOR OBSERVATORY.

The instrument is equipped with an elegant set of levels for adjusting the axis of the instrument to a perfect level, which, incidentally, is the most difficult of all the adjustments to make.

The V-shaped bronze blocks on side pillars provide an absolutely accurate and unyielding support for the reversing mechanism. The cross-arms of the transit are illuminated by special lamps at either end of the reversing axis.

This transit is the largest and the most accurate instrument of the kind in the Territory, and, when the mounting is complete, will undoubtedly prove of much value to scientific workers who wish to engage in research work along astronomical lines.

The College of Hawaii contemplates the installation of a time-ball, to be used in connection with the transit, whereby the exact time can be given every day at noon, this observation being the meridian observation of the sun.

The observatory building in which the instruments will be housed comprises three rooms. The dome room, in which the telescope will be installed, is 18 feet square. The wings on either side of this room are 10 feet square. The dome will be 14 feet 6 inches in diameter, and will revolve by means of special mechanism. There will be an opening 20 inches wide through one side of the dome a little past the center, through which observations will be made.

The right wing will be devoted to transit instruments and astronomical clock for meridian observations.

it is massive and is built down to solid rock in order to give a thoroughly solid mounting. The concrete is reinforced with steel bars in order to avoid any possible shrinkage or variation in the concrete.

The telescope support is much larger and will be mounted at a somewhat higher elevation in the observatory, to give as large a range of observations as possible. The concrete foundations for the telescope are 6 feet square at the base, tapering to a 30-inch circle at the top, upon which the telescope will rest.

The barrel of the telescope is about 7 feet long and carries a 6-inch system of lenses. It is fitted with a finder, which is nothing more than a smaller telescope at the side, mounted with its axis parallel to the telescope proper.

From the level of the floor to the top of the dome is 17 feet. The mounting of the telescope is the regular equatorial mounting, the axis of which is inclined towards the pole star at an angle equal to the latitude of the place, which for Honolulu is about 20 degrees. With this mounting the observer is enabled to follow a star on its flight through the heavens, the barrel of the instrument being shifted at a constant rate by the chronometer movement attached to the supporting frame. The power of this instrument is such that the extinct craters on the moon can be plainly seen.

In addition to giving facilities for all interested parties to get a good look at Halley's comet, the observatory will form an adjunct to the various departments of instruction of the college and will be of special value to the departments of engineering and mathematics, as well as to the regular work in instruction in astronomy, which is in charge of Prof. Donaghoo.

When asked why Kaimuki had been selected as a site for this observatory, Prof. Young stated: "Kaimuki was selected as a site for this observatory on account of a particularly clear atmosphere and its accessibility." The axis of the observatory building is set on a line directly north and south.

WHY THE HOLLY BLUSHED

The Holly on the chandelier looked severely down upon the mistletoe hanging below it.

"It is the regret of my life," he said sternly, "that I must always be associated with you."

He settled the skirts of his green coat stiffly around him and frowned aggressively at the Mistletoe, who gray, wrathlike, graceful and lovely, smiled demurely.

"I infer, then, you do not approve of me," said she, hanging her head. "I blush for your disgraceful conduct. My whole family blushes for you. I have often heard my grandmother say that originally my people were as pale as you are, but we spent our first Christmas with some of your kindred, and we have blushed for shame ever since."

"Your blushes are very becoming," said the Mistletoe, prettily. "I often wish I had a little more color myself. But what have I done?"

"It is what you make other people do," returned the Holly, stiffly.

"And is it the kissing you don't like my dear?" asked the Mistletoe, mockingly.

"Yes, the kissing which goes on right under your nose and which you not only encourage but indeed insist upon. Why, no one can look at you without thinking of a kiss."

"Without wanting one, you mean," said the Mistletoe, demurely.

"But," she continued softly, "is there anything nicer in the world they could think of? Now you think of it, dear. Think of a charming room like this with an open fire, crackling and sputtering as this one does; flowers and candy and presents everywhere; the room made gay with those unfortunate blushes of yours which you so deplore, and an air of mystery, of excitement, of delightful enchantment added by me. Then think of a pretty girl entering the room and carelessly, oh, so carelessly, walking toward me, until she unconsciously stops in this very spot."

HOW TO BATHE

Dr. V. E. Collins, recently of London, but now practicing in Honolulu, has just issued a most interesting and instructive booklet, entitled "Sea Bathing in Hawaii." The booklet is well illustrated and contains a number of very interesting chapters. Not only is this book of value to the tourist and visitor but it is something that should be in every home, especially where there are children, for it tells just how the waters at Waikiki are to be taken; just which bodily troubles they benefit most and how to accustom yourself by degrees to taking baths, hours in length, with only benefit derived therefrom. Sun baths and sand baths are treated at length in a chapter and the final portion of the booklet is given over to a chapter on surf-riding by Alexander Hume Ford. This chapter was published first as a special feature in the Fleet Edition of the Evening Bulletin. It tells the mail-haul just how to handle the elusive board and would probably save the beginner several weeks of experimenting before he could stand on the bit of wood among the rollers. Taken all together Dr. Collins' book is a valuable addition to literature on Hawaii. He gives as his excuse for placing the book before the public the following preface:

"The fact that many people have failed to gain all the possible benefits from the unique sea bathing of these islands is due, in my opinion, to a want of information as to the best methods of taking sea baths. This little book is an attempt to supply this want."

HILLO PREPARES FOR PORTUGUESE CRUISER

The Herald says: The committee in charge of the arrangements for the reception of the Portuguese cruiser San Gabriel, which is expected during the latter part of April, started out canvassing for funds this week. It met with brilliant success, securing pledges for more than five hundred dollars in less than two hours. The Committee figures that about $2,500 will be needed to carry out the program which is in contemplation.
