BY FAR the most important event of the week, socially, was the wedding of Miss Tennard Schaefer to Robert Elgin, which took place on Easter Monday at St. Andrew's Cathedral. These nuptials were performed in the evening by Bishop Henry Bond Restarick, the impressive marriage service of the Episcopal church being used to make this charming couple man and wife. Promptly at half after eight, a mixed choir of strong male voices and sweet and sympathetic women's voices was heard in the distance above the peal of the organ. This full, surmounted choir entered from the rear of the church, and came slowly down the center aisle, followed by the Bishop. On reaching their places Lohengrin's wedding march was played; the four ushers, Mr. Edward Watson, Mr. Robert Stackable, Major Samuel Wadhams, U. S. A., and Mr. Robert Bond, came down the aisle followed by the two stunning bridesmaids, Miss B. Ruth Young and Miss Paty of this city. Miss Young wore an imported French gown of crepe chiffon over yellow satin. The dress was made entirely by hand and heavily embroidered, and trimmed with quantities of real lace. Miss Paty was clad in a maize chiffon over satin, trimmed in rose point lace. Maligne in the new fashion effect was worn in the hair; they carried shower bouquets of yellow roses. Mrs. Wadhams, wife of Major Wadhams, U. S. A., acted as matron of honor. This young matron was effectively gowned also in maize chiffon over yellow satin, made in the new style effect. A spray bouquet of roses completed the costume. Following the matron of honor came the bride leaning on the arm of Mr. Elgin. The bride looked radiant in her wedding robe of white hand embroidered crepe net. This gown was made to order and was a masterpiece of real lace. A bridal bouquet of bride's roses was carried. The wedding veil was caught back with real orange blossoms. This young girl is an island girl, but is not only a great social favorite but has endeared herself to the community by her many works of philanthropy and charitable undertakings. Miss Schaefer was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schaefer, the Italian consul. She is very gifted, possessing a beautiful contralto voice of rare quality and will be greatly in demand in the choir of St. Andrew's. The groom and his best man, Mr. William Willamson, met the bride party at the church rail, where the marriage was solemnized in a floral setting of Easter lilies, which roses and mignonette combined with delicate ferns and greenery. In the vicinity of the altar, rare palms had been placed, some of them over fifteen feet in height. This background of green enhanced the delicate decoration of Easter lilies, which were massed around the altar, interspersed with rare maidenhair fern. Overhead, baskets of white orchids and rare ferns were suspended making a beautiful setting for the bridal party, and producing a seemingly woodland bower of white and green. The church rail was banked with white mignonette, fringed with maidenhair fern, choice baskets of white roses, were placed on the pulpit and the reading desk, bow knots and streamers, interspersed with similar, connected these baskets, producing a much desired effect, and novelty of decoration. After the happy couple signed their names in the church register, the wedding party left the church to the joyous strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, and motored to Rosebank, the beautiful home of the Schaefer family in Nuuanu Valley. Mr. and Mrs. Elgin, assisted by Italian Consul Schaefer and Mrs. Schaefer, received the large company of guests, assembled to offer their congratulations to the bride and bridegroom. The mother of the bride was gowned in a superb frock of black-headed chiffon over rose pink satin, with diamond ornaments. The home of the Schaefer was almost too beautiful on this occasion to describe. It is considered one of the handsomest and most artistic homes in Honolulu, unadorned but with its adornment of lilies, palms, peonies and anemones one could well imagine they had been transported to fairyland. The young couple received the good wishes of their many friends in the maktal bow window of the drawing room. The side of this large enclosure was hidden by palm leaves and lilies, while overhead these long-stemmed lilies were effectively placed around the room. The music room and library were decorated in American Beauty roses and Australian maidenhair. During the evening a Hawaiian orchestra played behind a screen of white roses and orchids. The bride cut the wedding cake, which contained a ring, thimble and a penny. Later in the evening the bride threw her bridal bouquet, which was caught by one of the young debutantes of Honolulu. This not only makes a pretty souvenir for the young lady, but according to the old legend, she will be married within the year. Mr. and Mrs. Elgin left for their new home Tuesday on the Mauna Kea, amidst a shower of rice and flowers. This popular young couple have the alms of the community, but the departure of Mrs. Elgin has made a void in Honolulu that will be hard to fill. Among those present at the Schaefer wedding were:

Mrs. Georgiana Cook sailed on the Teuyo Maru from San Francisco for the land of cherry blossoms and chrysanthemums, with her small daughter, and will become the bride of Colonel Lincoln Karmany, who is stationed at Japan. This young and attractive young matron met the officer who was commanding the United States Marines at Mare Island, and willingly renounced a fortune to become the bride of this gallant officer. Both Mrs. Cook and Colonel Karmany are well known in Honolulu social circles.

When Miss Helene Irwin returns next week from Coronado with her mother, Mrs. William G. Irwin, she will leave almost immediately for another visit in the southern part of the state with Miss Julia Langhorne and the Misses Newhall. The congenial group of girls will enjoy an outing at the Newhall ranch, but will not remain for an extended stay, since they are to pose in the tableaux vivantes to be given at the St. Francis early in April.—S. F. Call.

Lord Kitchener failed to materialize on Wednesday, when the Maratua arrived at the wharf, and the disappointment was keen, when the British Consul R. G. S. Forster was on the landing to officially welcome this hero of Indian and South Africa. The change in the itinerary of the general, was the cause of overthrowing many plans for his entertainment by his country men in Honolulu, while the steamer was in port.

Beer In the Home

Your home will be healthier when you make free use of a good beer.

The sturdiest peoples of the earth drink beer---drink it from childhood to age.

The early history of our country proves the benefit of drinking beer, for the men who guided the young nation through the trials and perils of war and internal dissensions were men who not only drank beer but personally interested themselves in the brewing. Knowing the value of beer as a food for mind and body they encouraged its use by those about them.

The proper drinking of beer--not the abuse of it--is good for the weak and the well.

Be sure to order for your home.
