FOR HONOLULU REALTY BOARD

Stanton Starts Splendid Scheme And All Join Him

One hundred thousand population for Honolulu in 1915, and a Realty Board to help turn the trick, was the slogan of the business men gathered at a dinner given last evening in the Commercial Club by Mr. Charles Stanton, manager of the Kaimuki Land Company.

It would have done the people of the city good to have attended that assembly, but, of course, Mr. Stanton could not invite the whole town to the banquet board, though he promises to give one grand luncheon when the one hundred thousand mark is reached in 1915.

But what would have done the people particular good would be the information gained regarding the difficulties that real estate men have in handling property. These difficulties if straightened out will benefit the town, benefit the buyer and benefit the seller. There is the matter of titles, the question of shacks, the building laws and the taxes.

Mr. Dondero brought out the impressive facts of the taxes. He told of trying to handle a piece of real estate and discovering that there were six hundred dollars of back taxes due on it. He went to the tax office and asked why these taxes had not been paid. No one seemed to know. Mr. Dondero suggested that a great deal of improvement could be accomplished if the back taxes were collected. He also thought that there should be a board of assessors, some of whom were real estate men and knew what they were talking about. A board gave some opportunity for sitting of opinion; now it is one-man opinion.

Marston Campbell spoke of the growth of the town in the past and what it would do in the future. R. H. Trent proposed the One Hundred Thousand Club, and said a realty board should accomplish something to upset the knoekers. C. S. Desky spoke against the shacks and said the work against them had been going on for many years and he hoped it would continue.

"I WANT NONE OF IT" IS RESPONSE OF ATKINSON

Brands Andrews' Deal As "Rotten"—Stands For Reform

"I THINK that the thing is rotten. I am simply disgusted with what is going on. I want none of it, and I refuse to be drawn into it," said A. L. C. Atkinson this morning in speaking of the action of the Republican Territorial Committee in its exoneration of Lorrin Andrews. Mr. Atkinson is no longer chairman of the committee his resignation having been presented at the meeting last evening as an expression of his disapproval of what had been done.

One of the incidents of the executive meeting that Fred Atkinson's ire was the direct proposition made to him by John Waterhouse that if the resolution exonerating Andrews be passed, Andrews would immediately resign. This was apparently a bait thrown out to buy Atkinson's favor. He branded it as an insult.

"I have always stood for clean politics and I am on the side of reform. I believe the reputable body of the Republican party feel the way I do about this matter.

"I want it clearly understood that I do not stand for any control of the Republican party by the liquor people. Everyone knows where I stand on the liquor question. Personally I am for local option but having gone through a plebiscite and obtained the opinion of the majority of the voters, I believe in accepting the facts. We live under a representative form of government and the people have spoken. It is wise to follow the people's wishes.

"I think that the results of the discussion of the plebiscite show two things—First, that the present liquor law should be supported without amendments; second, that the liquor Commissioners should feel that they have the support of the community in a strict interpretation of the law and keeping a firm grip on the situation.

"I conducted the campaign two years ago and did not accept a single kopeck from the liquor men. At the same time I think that the Republican party is big enough and broad enough to give a square deal to all interests.

"The Republican party should govern the interests rather than allow the interests to govern the party. We must jealously guard the integrity of the party and not allow any special interest, liquor or any other interest, to govern it.

"Republicanism stands for a square deal, the welfare of the people and the Common Good, brought about by honest methods."

RUSSIAN HAS COME BACK

And the Russians are beginning to find that Hawaii is not such a bad place. By a recent steamer from the Coast there returned one of the Russian immigrants who thought he would find everything he wanted in California. He returns with the report that he prefers Hawaii. He encountered union men, and regular work, and not so much money in the long run. He says he has come back to stay.

RESIGNATIONS FOLLOW SESSION OF COMMITTEE

A. L. C. ATKINSON.

Insurgent Movement For Progressive Republicanism Aftermath Of Andrews' "Exoneration"

An insurgent movement, designed in the interests of progressive Republicanism and against the rule of thumb methods that brought about the "exoneration" of Lorrin Andrews after it had been stipulated that he would resign forthwith, by the direct outcome of the session of the Republican Territorial Central Committee held yesterday afternoon.

The next result of the action taken by Waterhouse, Macfarlane, Klug and Voeller is that Chairman A. L. C. Atkinson has resigned and declares absolutely that he will go before the people in the interests of progressive Republicanism. He insists that his resignation as chairman be accepted. Atkinson does not intend to recede from the position he assumed yesterday afternoon when the vote was taken—he will not again participate in the councils of the Territorial Central Committee.

John Lane, who has sat on the committee during the Andrews hearing with the proxy of Otto Rose, declares that he cannot conscientiously continue to use the proxy. He declared that he should withdraw yesterday afternoon and he wrote to Rose this morning telling him that he would not use the proxy again.

Republicans throughout the city are marveling at the policy that dictated the action of the committee yesterday afternoon. It was agreed by those favorable to the exoneration of Andrews.

HOMESTEADS ARE WANTED BADLY

Applications Returned As Not Properly Executed

Applications for homesteads are coming in with great regularity in every mail, but on account of some applicants not following the instructions sent them, a number have to be returned to the senders.

The instructions are plain, but many fail to observe the simplest ones. The most common oversight is not to mark on the envelope in what land district the land is asked for.

LANE DECLARES OFFICIALS ARE ON TRAIL OF BAD MONEY

Will Refuse To Make Use Of His Proxy Again

"IN view of the action taken yesterday afternoon by the Republican Territorial Central Committee I feel that I cannot sit again on the committee by virtue of the proxy that gave me a right to be present yesterday afternoon," said John Lane this morning.

"In my opinion the best interests of the Republican party did not receive the consideration they were entitled to at the meeting yesterday in connection with the charges against Andrews. The procedure adopted was decidedly unusual. The charges were presented in a formal way and in my opinion were entitled to the utmost consideration.

"The proposition to exonerate Mr. Andrews and then have him resign did not appeal to me as being satisfactory to one side or the other.

"I have written Mr. Rose that I do not intend to use his proxy again. And I intend to do so by that decision. My principles in politics are fairly well known and I cannot reconcile myself to the action taken yesterday."

OAHU IS FINE REPORTS LEWIS

Directors' Inspection Tour Results In Good Reports

Harry F. Lewis and Mark Robinson returned last evening from a tour of inspection of Oahu plantation, and their report to their fellow directors will be most gratifying.

"We found Oahu in first-class condition," said Mr. Lewis in speaking of their tour. "The wells of which so much has been said are well filled with sweet water. The young cane is looking fine and everything is going along in a most satisfactory manner.

"As for next year's crop, I have no doubt that it will be as large or larger than this year's output. The young cane looks well, and I should say that the lowest limit should be a crop equal to this year's, and should we have some soaking rains during the winter it ought to go considerably higher. I assure you that Oahu is all right. I don't know anything about the stock quotation. I am a buyer and not a seller. That's the way I feel about it."

Breckons and Hendry Leave For Maui In Hurry

Wireless From Sheriff Saffery Causes Marshal and U. S. Attorney to Take the Mauna Kea.

Upon a hurry call this morning, United States Attorney Breckons and United States Marshal Hendry left on the Mauna Kea for Maui and will there investigate the passing of counterfeit money for which Lee Long is held under arrest.

It was after 9 o'clock this morning that a wireless was received from Sheriff Saffery at Wailuku to the effect that he had a Chinese under arrest for trying to pass a counterfeit coin, and Breckons and Hendry grabbed their traveling kits at once and left on the Mauna Kea at 10 o'clock.

There has been coin found from time to time recently of a spurious nature, but so far no arrests have been made, nor has it been possible to find out where the coin was coming from.

There was a theory that it was being put out on the Coast and sent down here in small quantities for passing, but then there was a question also if the stuff was not being put out here and sent to the Coast for circulation, while but a stray piece now and then was passed out here.

The ten-dollar gold piece was the clearest imitation of the genuine article, although the schemes of the counterfeiters went so low as to manufacture a spurious nickel, both of these coins being found in Honolulu within the past few days.

United States officials have been keeping their eyes open for the source from whence came these coins, and although several clues have been uncovered from time to time, the arrest of the Chinese at Wailuku by the sheriff there is the first definite step that has been taken.

The wireless message received from Saffery this morning was brief in the extreme, and as it was so near the sailing time of the Mauna Kea, no query for particulars was sent from here.

It was merely stated that the Chinaman had in his possession spurious coin when taken into custody, but the denomination of the coin or coins in his possession was not stated.

Breckons and Hendry are expected back within a couple of days with their prisoner, unless information is gained that will lead to further investigation.
