PORTUGAL'S POLICY DISPLEASES TWO POWERS PLAN URGED FOR GREATER HONOLULU

Judd Outlines Needs Of City

Urges Gov. Frear To Take Up New Street System Westward

A comprehensive plan for the development of Honolulu in a section of the city which is declared to be far behind the necessities of the times, is outlined in a communication from Albert F. Judd, Senator-elect, to Governor Frear. Mr. Judd speaks not only as a resident of the Fifth District, but from the broader standpoint of one interested in health and sanitation problems, the growth of the community, the military precautions of the seaport, and the benefits to be derived by the poorer classes of people.

The part of the town for which the great plan of civic development is urged is that lying west of Nuuanu street. Mr. Judd's communication points out forcibly that the system of streets is inadequate, sewage a menace to the health of the entire community, and that the growth of Honolulu will be seriously held back unless the Territory, through the Superintendent of Public Works, takes quick action in carrying out an intelligent and substantial plan for a system of streets.

Mr. Judd's letter is as follows: "As a resident of the Fifth Representative District, I have been giving much thought to the many problems now existing in the town precincts of Honolulu west of Nuuanu street, and I desire to outline to you certain ideas and to suggest if these ideas meet with your approval that you take the initiative in the program.

Blocks Without Streets.
"The part of town I refer to consists almost entirely of large blocks of land with houses of various kinds along the street frontages, but with the interiors of the blocks devoted to agriculture. Into the interiors access can be had only by the use of narrow and crooked lanes. It is in this part of town where most of the tuberculosis is located and where most of the large tenement-houses have been erected. The sewer system takes care of but a small proportion of the sewerage. There is a great deal of running water in open ditches and drains.

Definite Policy Urged.
"My suggestion is that through the Superintendent of Public Works, there be planned a comprehensive system of streets from Nuuanu street to Moanalua, with sufficient data to enable the legislative arms of the government, both Territorial and municipal, to decide upon some definite policy of street building.

"The social argument in favor of more streets is that with a greater opportunity for house lots near the center of town the patronage of the tenements will diminish.

Military Argument Strong.
"The military argument for this policy is obvious. There is only one road now to Fort Shafter and to Pearl Harbor.

"Some such scheme as above outlined will have to be undertaken in order to provide for the expansion of Honolulu in the next ten years, and particularly for the growth incident to the opening of Pearl Harbor. I believe that the people living in town and working at Pearl Harbor.

COMMISSIONER KEEFE ENDS INVESTIGATIONS IN HAWAII ON IMMIGRATION QUESTIONS

After seventeen days of investigation in Hawaii, Daniel J. Keefe, commissioner-general of immigration, will leave the Islands tomorrow for the Coast, sailing by the Pacific Mail liner Mongolia. He said today that he has collected a vast mass of heterogeneous information that will be whipped into shape in a short time and incorporated in his report.

As to this report, the commissioner-general laughingly refuses to commit himself, though he talks freely on what he has done in the Islands.

Mr. Keefe returned early this morning from Kauai, the specially chartered inter-island steamer Claudine taking him both ways. His tour of Kauai was a rapid but strenuous one, and he collected a lot more information on the question of labor, to which he has devoted most of his time while in the Islands.

He spent most of this morning at the local immigration station, and his final work was on some labor statistics secured from the various plantation agencies and from the planters' labor bureau. Assistant Director W. H. Babbitt of the planters' labor bureau supplied him with a bunch of figures on nationalities, wages, hours, cost of living and other things.

While the commissioner refuses to state what, if any, recommendations will be contained in his report, he has not receded from the position he took early in the investigation, which is that Filipino labor is not desirable for Hawaii, and the sugar men expect some interesting comment on this in his report.

"I have made as thorough investigation as I could of the labor and immigration," said Mr. Keefe this morning, "and am going back to Washington with a great many figures to be digested and incorporated in my report. I have seen the workings of the sugar industry from the field to the sack, seen it cut and harvested and ground. I have seen the laborers doing the work, talked with them, discussed hours and wages, and have seen them paid. I have statistics on wage-scales, contracts, cost of living and all such things. I paid particular attention to the plantation and general stores, and have figures showing the cost of all kinds of food. I have also taken much notice of the conditions of immigration. All of these things will be put into shape for a detailed report on immigration and labor in this Territory."

CUSTOMS OFFICERS OUT IN SEARCH OF OPIUM

A dozen custom-house officers went opium-hunting to Kalihi this morning, on a clue that there was dope concealed somewhere on the peninsula. However, when they returned at noon it was stated that they had not found any of the tinned dream stuff. This afternoon the squad is hunting opium at Waikiki, in the vicinity of the place where the dope was dug up yesterday.

The papers in the condemnation suit brought by the United States Government against the owners of the property on Fort street needed to give an entire block for the Federal building, were filed in the office of Clerk Murphy of the United States District Court this afternoon.

PORTUGAL PLANS MISSIONARY OUSTING

(Special Bulletin Cable.)
BERLIN, Germany, Dec. 23.—Germany and Austria have made a protest to the new republic of Portugal against the republic's announced plan to expel their missionaries from Portuguese colonies on January 1. The proposed expulsion is a development of the anti-clerical demonstrations that characterized the Portuguese revolution.

PURE-FOOD BILL IS FINALLY BEATEN

Board of Supervisors Sustains Mayor's Veto of the Ordinance.

The fishermen of Honolulu have scored a victory. They have succeeded in the defeat of an ordinance introduced by the City and County Board of Supervisors that would have to do with compelling them to place screen coverings over marketable wares in order to protect such commodities from flies and other insects.

By a vote of four to two, the veto of Mayor Fern against the passage of such a law was sustained.

Members McClellan, Cox, Abia and Kane stood by the mayoralty veto while Supervisor Quinn and Logan were alone in the battle to save the ordinance from complete destruction.

Deputy City and County Attorney Milvorton was present at a special meeting of the Board at noon today and he informed the members that the ordinance possessed no flaws as far as the attorney department could discover that would cause it to fall down if contested in the Territorial courts. Despite the statements coming from Attorney Andrews representing in a corteo of fish dealers, the ordinance was carefully drawn and the Andrews insinuations were declared by Milvorton as simply scurrilous.

Supervisor Daniel Logan, the father of the ordinance, moved that the regulation pass notwithstanding the veto of Mayor Fern. In substantiating his contention, Logan declared that the ordinance was in the columns of the city press and he believed that the opposition was carefully drawn and the Andrews insinuations were declared by Milvorton as simply scurrilous.

BROKERS WILL TAKE VACATION

Announcement was made on the stock exchange this morning that the exchange will take its long-deferred vacation next week. Tomorrow will be the last session before the New Year opens, and the members will get a welcome rest.

The exchange postponed its usual vacation owing to the sensational stock slump two months ago, feeling that so long as the situation was critical, they had best be on the job.

DR. J. S. MCGREW'S 90TH BIRTHDAY

Dr. J. S. McGrew celebrated his ninetieth birthday this morning the Hawaiian band being on hand at his homestead bright and early to give a special concert in his honor.

The "Father of Annexation" is in excellent spirits and received his many friends with his old time cordiality. A day or two ago the doctor was driving a buggy that collided with a Rapid Transit car down town. "You want to get rid of me, don't you," he commented to the motorman, "but I'll smash a lot more buggies before I get through."

BABY RAYMOND UNITES PARENTS

Brutal Father Arraigned But Forgiving Mother Intervened.

Baby Raymond, a little three-year-old boy, unconsciously but none the less effectively proved a medium for the reconciliation of his bellicose parents this morning.

Leading a cute and neatly arrayed lad by the hand, Mrs. Mary Raymond walked down the aisle of a crowded courtroom and, mounting the platform to the witness box, unfolded a tale of brutality which awakened the sympathy of not only the district magistrate, but also that of the more or less case-hardened officers and attendants of the lower tribunal.

The delicate condition of Mrs. Raymond appealed to all who were within the sound of her voice. In closing her recital of marital woes, the wronged wife asked leniency for her erring husband. She declared that he was the sole provider for their little family.

"If he is taken to jail, we will be left destitute," she sobbed, "and there will be nothing in the house for Christmas."

Baby Raymond stood beside his mother and cast wistful glances at his father, who graced the prisoner's dock. While Mrs. Raymond was telling her story the child made repeated attempts to attract the attention of the mother to the father, who, barefooted and dejected, stood at attention before the accusations made by the frail and ailing woman.

It appears that Raymond went home much under the influence of liquor the other evening. Upon arrival there he took offense at the way matters had gone during his absence. He objected to the interference of a friendly Japanese, who had become attracted to the Raymond household through the sounds of strife and noisy conversation.

Mrs. Raymond alleged that she had been kicked and slapped, and in her weakened condition was unable to retaliate or even call for assistance.

Judge Lymer faced a most perplexing dilemma in dealing with Raymond after he had hearkened to the plea of the abused but forgiving wife. The district magistrate read Raymond a lecture that doubtless will be treasured for some time to come. He has a suspended sentence hanging over his head that will drop at the next offense. The Raymonds left the courtroom a reunited family.

FORMER GRAND JURORS APPEAR BEFORE CIRCUIT COURT IN LANE CASE

A number of grand jurors appeared before Circuit Judge Cooper this morning in answer to the subpoenas that were issued yesterday ordering the ex-inquirers to appear and reply to the statement made by City and County Attorney Cathcart yesterday that they wanted Edward Lane indicted, "law or no law."

Subpoenas were issued for C. A. Bailey, Henry Bertelman, Charles Hocking, Thomas M. Church, Thomas Hollinger, Edwin Kimball, F. B. McStocker, Sol Peck, Lester Petrie, Fred A. Potter, George C. Potter, James W. R. Jackson, F. T. P. Waterhouse, E. C. Winston and Ambrose Wirtz.

The subpoenas were issued by Judge Cooper yesterday as a result of the testimony given by Cathcart when he was called as a witness by Attorney Douthitt, counsel for Edward Lane, who has entered a plea in abatement in connection with the indictment of Lane on a charge of malicious assault. Lane now serving a sentence of one year for vagrancy.

Douthitt is attacking the indictment returned against Lane on the ground that the former grand jury was prejudiced and was determined that Lane should be indicted at any cost, or, as Cathcart state upon the stand, "law or no law."

Lorrin Andrews has been authorized by Attorney-General Lindsay to appear in the case for the prosecution, this fact and the taking of the case from the hands of Cathcart and turning it over to Andrews having produced the recent break between Lindsay and Cathcart.

In his statement on the witness stand yesterday, Cathcart gave his version of the proceedings in the grand jury-room on the day he objected to Lorrin Andrews being called before the inquirers as a legal adviser. It was in reply to the questions propounded by Douthitt that he stated that he had informed the jury that he did not think that Lane could be held upon the felony charge of attempted rape, adding that the remark was made by some of the grand jurors that Lane ought to be indicted whether there was a law for it or not.

This was the reply that resulted in the issuance of the subpoenas.
