FRIDAY MAY 26, 1911

A man can never be idle with safety and advantage until he has been so trained by work that he makes his freedom more fruitful than his toil. H. W. Mable.

Honolulu has made exactly the impression on Mr. Craig that was intended, if he be sincere in stating that as a tourist he likes the city, but finds it a mighty warm place for those engaged in labor snatching.

When the Supervisors and the County Attorney work overtime on the building ordinance, after it is returned from the hands of the "experts" it is reasonable to suppose they are doing the best they can with the proposition.

The woman passed the years of active life who is respectfully and reverentially spoken of in the community as "Mother," may be invariably regarded as one who has through a long life satisfied the highest ideals of womanhood. This is indeed true of "Mother" Rice and other motherly pioneers of the missionary workers in these islands.

Quarterly statements of the expenditures made by the Shippers' Wharf Committee seems to fill the bill of what the general public wants to know about the Shippers' Wharf Tax. The public pays the tax. When it comes to representation, that is a matter necessarily settled by the Merchants' Association, many of whose firm members are also members of the Chamber of Commerce and represented on the Shippers' Wharf Committee. The general public can't be expected to decide whether such firms as Castle & Cooke, Hackfeld & Co., Davies & Co. and others like them should be represented on the Shippers' Wharf Committee by their Merchants' Association representative or their Chamber of Commerce representative. It is true nevertheless that there are business men solely engaged in a merchandise business who are quite capable of performing the onerous duties that fall to the lot of the Shippers' Wharf Committee members.

WORK FOR THE BOYS.

Why don't you teach them to do something? Is the constant complaining query that is made by the "practical man," when talking of the education and organization of the everyday boy of the public schools. It is confessed that occasion exists for this complaint, and that is just the reason why the "practical man" and every man should lend his influence and support to movements the purpose of which is to give the young man something to do.

Making the Boy Scouts useful in the sanitation campaign is where the practical man should be heard from. This is also an opportunity for scheming a system by which the boy who needs work can make a practical application of his knowledge and "show what's in him."

Manual and industrial training is always associated with an elaborate scheme of carpenter shops and special institutions. The chief purpose of the manual training idea is however to get the boy to work at some useful and painful occupation. The sanitation campaign is a present opportunity for the boys, the educators and the organizers.

HELPING HOMESTEADERS.

Interesting and perhaps comforting to some of the people of Hawaii is the information that comes from Minnesota that the State plans to help the homesteader and make home building easier. Public sentiment found expression in the proposal made to the Minnesota Legislature to make the lands in the northern part of the State more attractive to settlers. The drift to that section has not been as rapid as the Commonwealth would like, therefore the proposition to prepare the way for new stretches which up to the present, have never been cleared by the axe or turned by the plow.

The scheme is for the State to lay out ten tracts of forty acres each and prepare ten acres in each tract for crops. This will give the settler a chance to start on even terms, which is not the case when he has to clear the land and go through the difficult task of breaking up virgin soil.

Minnesota will, of course, charge the purchaser for the work done before his arrival and also for the land. The scheme is intended to be experimental, and though new to Minnesota, has been tried elsewhere with success. It is on some such lines that homesteading in Hawaii can be made successful.

MERCHANTS TRY TO AVOID SPLIT

this morning that it will be a compliance with what the shippers' committee asks so far as is possible without humiliating the association. "If we yield to their demands as they have been made, the identity of the association would be lost," he said. "But we are willing to meet them over half-way and in fact have already done so, because we do not wish to see the tax stopped."

The practical result of this will probably be that the association will express itself formally in support of the tax and in sympathy with its object, but will not bind itself absolutely to the payment of the tax for two years more. Representation on the committee will still be requested.

Members of the Merchants' Association are loath for the present slight split to widen, and in order to get it closed they are trying to reach an agreement that will not compromise the standing of the association and will still meet what the shippers' want.

Much is being said on both sides, but today the chance for an agreement was fairly good.

CITY FATHERS PASS ON BILLS

Bills and payrolls were passed upon at a meeting of the board of city and county supervisors held at noon today.

Before adjourning to next Wednesday evening the city fathers granted permission to three Chinese proprietors of pool shops, who are claimed by the city and county health officials to have placed their respective establishments in sanitary condition.

A report from Chairman Kruger of the sanitation and health committee was to the effect that an ordinance regulating the collection of garbage and refuse was still under consideration but would soon be ready for a second reading. Kruger hoped to be ready with a final report by next Wednesday.

A Chinese cane planter with a field located at the Ewa end of King street was granted permission to install a temporary track across that thoroughfare for the purpose of removing cane from the field to the mill.

Seattle, May 11.—Announcement was made today that the three largest lumber associations in the Pacific Northwest, the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' Association, the Oregon & Washington Lumber Manufacturers' Association and Southern Washington Lumber Manufacturers' Association are to be consolidated and that W. C. Miles, of Globe, has been tendered and has accepted the management of the consolidated association.

Magic lanterns were invented in the seventeenth century.

States cruiser Boston, which was assigned to this State by the Government recently. General Finzer states he has a full crew of men and an officer selected to take charge of the vessel, and will bring her to an Oregon port if agreeable to Governor West.

He has been advised by the Navy Department authorities, however, that unless the differences between Captain George S. Shepherd, commander of the Naval Militia, and James Laidlaw, British Vice-Consul at Portland, are settled, the cruiser Boston will not be turned over to Oregon for the reason that proper care of the ship cannot be assured under the existing circumstances. Captain Shepherd, who is a former City Councilman and candidate for Congress, was accused by Laidlaw of incompetency as a naval officer, and the row which resulted has rent the Naval Militia into factions.

Three persons were shot and killed and a fourth was dangerously wounded in a fight in a Milwaukee resort. Two men, one unidentified, the other, Jacob Unger, quarreled over a woman and the unidentified man drew two revolvers and began shooting. He killed two women and then shot himself.

CRUISER BOSTON STILL HOMELESS

Final Fate of Veteran Fighting-Machine Has Not Been Settled.

Considerable doubt still exists as to the final fate of the old cruiser Boston, which played a prominent part in the history of Hawaii at the time of the overthrow of the monarchy and establishment of provisional government. The Boston was destined to be turned over to the state of Oregon to be used by the naval militia, but the San Francisco Chronicle of May 18 now prints the following: SALEM (Or.), May 17.—Adjutant-General Finzer of the Oregon National Guard held a conference with Governor West today relative to the arrangements for obtaining the United

HOW TEAMS ON MAINLAND STAND

Leaders Making Good Race in National, American and Coast Leagues.

Below are given the standings up to May 21 of the National American and Coast Leagues, which will interest all the local fans.

The Phillies are still leading in the National League race, but they are not so far out in front as they were two weeks ago, and Pittsburgh is showing unexpected form, so that the Pirates have a good chance right now.

In the American league, the Detroit Tigers are making a runaway race of it, and unless the team blows up or is crippled by injuries, no other bunch in the Americans looks able to catch it.

In the Coast League, Portland is off to a good start and will try hard to cop another pennant. As is usual in the coast league, it is a mighty close, interesting race, and anybody has a chance now.

The standings:

National League—

LACK OF SITE HALTING PLANS

Unable as yet to secure a site on the waterfront for its proposed receiving station, the Territorial Board of Immigration is up against a serious halt in its plans. Unless the site is secured, the board will have to give up its dreams of a capacious and comfortable place in which to put the immigrants that arrive next fall.

The board has had the preliminary plans for the station under way for some time, but so far can not find a place where the big shed will be erected. It will have to continue using the Channel wharf, and possibly the planters' shed, if that can be secured in emergencies. The Channel wharf was tried out recently when the Orteric arrived, but is a poor place for immigrants if they are detained any length of time, and the cost of erecting temporary bunks is almost as much as that of putting in permanent ones.

COAST PRAISES CLEAN-UP PLANS

here in the campaign for the eradication of bubonic plague. "He won the respect of the local ship owners by the impartiality with which he administered the quarantine law. He also administered a number of straight-from-the-shoulder talks that are still remembered. In Honolulu he is still handing out unvarnished advice, and his efforts have contributed largely to the starting of the business-like campaign that has for its end the vindication of Honolulu as the paradise of the Pacific."

RICHMOND'S CASE

United States Judge Clemons instructed Attorney Lorrin Andrews this morning that he would have to file a brief on the motion made in behalf of F. A. Richmond, former principal of the Hilo High school, to expunge from the records that part of the Grand Jury report referring to Richmond as immoral and not fit to teach children.

GOOD RUSSIANS TO GET FRIENDS

Board of Immigration Draws Line On Man Who Doesn't Work After Getting Here.

Russian laborers who are actually employed in plantation work are at liberty to open negotiations through the Territorial Board of Immigration to get friends or relatives here from their mother country. But as for the Russians who are around Honolulu, nothing doing.

The board is beginning to carry out a plan which has been considered for sometime as a means of getting desirable Russian immigrants. The immigrants who went to work here on the plantations in a bona-fide manner will be invited to write home for their friends there, or the board will do it for them, but the Russian who stayed in the city will have to be his own ready letter-writer and will get little aid from the board.

The reason for this is simply that the board believes and the employers believe there is no use bringing more Russians here to live around the city.

STEVENSON'S BOOKS SOLD

Sugar Magnate Buys Noted Little Collection That Were Given to Inn-Keeper.

The books of Robert Louis Stevenson that he sent to his old friend Jules Simoneau at Monterey have been sold at San Francisco—eleven of them—after a spirited bidding indulged in by millionaire book lovers. A. A. Brown of the California-Hawaiian Sugar Company finally secured them, after a bidding duel with John S. Drumm of the Savings Union bank.

The precious volumes are to be encased in a special box of Monterey bypress. Isabel Strong is to write an essay for the set, telling of Stevenson and Simoneau, and Miss Cole, the famous binder of the Knickerbocker Press, is to give each volume a specially appropriate binding.

Tribute to Restaurant. Jules Simoneau was the man of whom the great master of English prose wrote to W. E. Henly in October, 1879: "A most pleasant old boy with whom I discuss the universe and play chess daily."

Simoneau lost his famous inn, and age and poverty fell heavily upon him. He came down to a can of lambs and Mexican delicacies that he peddled between Pacific Grove and Monterey. The collectors came and offered him large sums for the books and letters that Stevenson had sent him. But in haughty poverty he scorned the offers.

Scorned Offers. "The letters are the letters of Stevenson to Simoneau," said he. "The books are the gifts of one gentleman to another. They are not for sale." And so Simoneau died, treasuring the letters and books of the world wanderer whom he had befriended in times of illness and poverty; and now the collectors have his treasures, and the books in which Stevenson had inscribed an appropriate quotation from each or a pleasant remembrance of the good old times have sold for enough to have made the fine, sturdy gentleman innkeeper easy in his days of stress.

GOVERNOR TO WELCOME CHOIR

At 5 o'clock this afternoon the Sheffield choir will be received by Governor Frear in the Throne Room at the Capitol. The furniture used during the session of the House of Representatives has all been removed for the occasion and the Throne Room looks its best.

"The reception will be purely informal," stated the Governor this morning. "and I will welcome each member of the choir to Hawaii."

CUMMINS CASE ARGUED

The Supreme Court heard argument in the Cummins case this morning. Lorrin Andrews claiming that Auditor Fisher, as a ministerial officer of the Government, was without authority to refuse payment of an appropriation made by the Legislature to reimburse Cummins for a fine of $5000 paid by him under a plea of guilty to a charge of treason in 1895. Attorney General Lindsay argued for the Government.

DISTINGUISHED MEN ARE COMING

President Jordan of Stanford and Ex-Gov. Fort of New Jersey Will Be Here.

Two distinguished visitors will be here soon, but not together. They are President Jordan of Stanford University and ex-Governor Fort of New Jersey. Secretary H. P. Wood of the Promotion Committee, in his report today, says:

"The following extract from a letter just to hand from Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford Junior University, will be read with interest: "I am expecting to go to Japan on the Siberia, which will reach Honolulu about June 24, and shall hope to meet again some of my old friends in that city."

"The following extract from a letter received by last mail from Consul McNally at Tsingtau is also of interest: "My wife and myself, who consider Hawaii but the immediate outskirts of Heaven, have, we think, persuaded ex-Governor Fort of New Jersey and family to spend at least two or three weeks in the Islands when they arrive there on their trip around the world. "Our visitors nearly always have a good word to say for Hawaii."

"The wife of a high French diplomat who recently passed through Honolulu wrote some postcards to influential relatives in Paris on which appeared the following statements: "Honolulu is an exquisite place in which we passed a most pleasant day. The country is ravishing; the flowers are superb and the Aquarium is marvelous."

LIGHT TRADING ON EXCHANGES

Sugar Market Exceptionally Quiet and Stocks Almost Stationary.

Little more activity was recorded in stocks today than has been the case during the week, and the sugar market is dull and almost featureless. Ewa, which dropped suddenly from 32.50, did not go better than 32 today, several small sales being recorded at this price. Oahu is stationary at 30.50, but the demand for it is fairly strong. One hundred shares between boards and 20 on the board were reported by the Honolulu exchange today. Hilo R. R. 1901 6 per cent. bonds sold at 98, and $1000 of Telephone bonds at 6 per cent. also changed hands.

Hawaiian Sugar went up a quarter of a point, 41.25 being the price for 10 shares sold between boards. 113.12 was bid today for Waihua without any takers, $114 being held out for, and several other strong bids were made without getting any sellers to come forward.

The Hawaiian Exchange reports 10 shares of Hawaiian Pineapple sold at 26.625, a slight advance over the last reported sale. The same exchange gives the following oil quotations:

Crepe Petroleum	35
Honolulu Consolidated	1.87 1.95
Humama	40
Tempor Raher	31
Ventura	67
Jewel	69
Pyramid	60 70
Associated	50.00 56.00

To a group of friends gathered at his home to give him a surprise party, a police ambulance brought the body of Clark W. Green, a motorman on an interurban trolley line. He was killed in an automobile-bicycle collision.
