

STANDARD OIL'S PLANS HERE UNCHANGED

Company here will have a payroll of large proportions, employing many laborers, skilled and unskilled.

Foundations Ready.
The foundations for the three tanks are already laid, and Mr. Richardson is expecting a force of skilled men down from the Coast at any time to erect the great containers. These tanks will hold kerosene, distillate and gasoline. Each will be thirty-five feet high. The kerosene tank will be 50 feet in diameter, the distillate 45 and the gasoline tank 40. Each tank will be connected with the oil wharf by a pipe line, and altogether there will be nearly three miles of pipe lines. By this means the oil will be pumped directly from the oil tanks on the ships to the big tanks at the plant.

The plans for the canning and box plants are elaborate. Five-gallon cans are to be made, one of the present warehouses being used for the can plant. The cans will be filled with oil and handled as expeditiously and in very much the same manner as pineapple cans are filled and handled at the pineapple canneries. The company will make its own boxes in which to pack the cans.

Besides this, Manager Richardson is working on plans for tank-wagons that will go around the city and deliver oil to auto owners at their homes or garages, or to boats along the waterfront.

To Make Oil Cheaper.
The whole idea of the plans is to handle the oil in bulk, and thus make it cheaper and develop the field here. The present plant is being changed from a "package" to a "bulk" station, and all of the expensive and time-consuming operations of handling the oil in small quantities will be done away with.

The opening of the Panama Canal, with the consequent development of Honolulu as a port of call for vessels, and the steadily-increasing number of off-loading steamers, is largely responsible for the decision of the California company to make the extensive changes and improvements in its local plant. The company is spending something like $100,000 now in the improvements, and if business develops will have to keep on enlarging its tanks and can and box plants.

The improvements are delayed a little by the non-arrival of men and material, but Mr. Richardson said this morning that he expects things will be in full swing in a few weeks. Under his able supervision, everything is in readiness for the tanks to go up and the machinery for the plants to be put in place.

"The opening of the canal is going to be a big stimulus to the business," he said this morning, "and we are preparing to handle oil as cheaply as it can be handled and make it cheaper to the consumer."
"The dissolution of the New Jersey company will have its effect whatever on these plans. We shall go ahead just the same."

AN ECHO FROM CLEAN-UP DAY

An echo from Clean-up Day has found its way into the corridors of the city hall, and when it met with the resisting walls of City and County Auditor Bicknell's office, it made a sound ready money.

A special resolution has been passed by the city and county fathers to the effect that all uncalled for warrants issued for payment of wages of laborers participating in Clean-up Day operations, be turned back into the municipal treasury.

There has been no dissenting voice and a sum totalling close to one hundred dollars will be added to the small change now in the possession of City Treasurer Shingle.

The adoption of the resolution is believed the last note in what at one time proved to be a discordant howl of protest over an alleged graft perpetrated by a number of laborers who are said to have attempted to collect pay from the original Clean-up Day committee and the city and county as well.

GOOD OLD RESOLUTION!

In a little Irish village there lives a certain worthy who never could pass a public house without "calling in, just to ax the time."

One night, however, he made up his mind to pass by for once. It was a very hard job for him, and at intervals he stood still and said, "Stand firm, resolution, stand firm!"

After a hard struggle he gained a little bridge just beyond the inn, and halting there, was heard to say, "Begorra, Resolution, but yer did stand firm, and for that reason I'll go back and trate yer."

JUDGE WISE IS NOW CRITICISED

"I notice," he said, "that Attorney Irwin states that the law is unconstitutional because they have to have licenses to sell drugs. Following along these lines then the law in connection with any trade or profession which has to have a license is ridiculous. This means that doctors and others who come under the same category hold a monopoly of their profession. The idea is ridiculous and absurd throughout."

"Also as far as the statement that there should be an actual sale before anything can be done in the matter the law as far as I can see, although I am not a lawyer, seems fairly clear on the subject. It reads as follows: 'It shall be unlawful for any person not licensed—to conduct or manage any pharmacy—or other place of business.'"

This does not seem to mean that it is necessary to have been caught selling before you can need have a license.

Criticizes Judge Wise.

"I think Judge Wise is open to very serious criticism when he says that according to his construction of the law, any person does not need a license to sell patent medicines. The law lays down that they need not have a license to sell non-poisonous patent medicines but it does not free them in the case of poisonous ones and therefore I take it that they must have one."

"Our idea in this was not to settle any point of law as there was no idea in our heads that there was any point of law to be settled. I certainly thought that everything was clear on the matter. All I was after was to get hold of as many of those who had not licenses and have them brought to book just as fast as I could."

"Judge Wise speaks of the law being a dead letter. It may be in Hilo where judging by what I saw there it is very likely for anything to be dead, but up in Honolulu and other places it is very much alive."

"As far as being a matter of perception that is all wrong. I have always got along very well with the Japanese and have always found that they were the first to come along and do what was required of them. Those down here absolutely refused to take out a license, however, and something had to be done with them."

H. M. von Holt was this morning reappointed by the Governor as a member of the board of agriculture and forestry.

MOLASSES TRADE GROWS FAST

The Maui Agricultural Company will probably furnish most of the product for the Hyades at first, but the Wailuku Sugar Company is also preparing to sell its molasses and will furnish something like 2000 tons in the future. The company has now signed a contract with the Classen Chemical Company, 319 California street, San Francisco, for its molasses, which is to be converted into a food product. It was stated at Brewer & Co.'s this morning that the Wailuku Sugar Company will probably not send any molasses to the Coast on the Hyades on her first trip as a molasses-tanker, but will have some ready later.

Experiments have been made by the sugar company with the molasses and waste from the sugar grinding cane, and it has been found to make an excellent food product.

ROYAL FEATHER SOCIETY PRESENTATION FOR QUEEN

The Royal Feather Society will make a presentation to Queen Liliuokalani on the occasion of her birthday tomorrow.

The members will present her with an address stating how glad they are to see her well on her seventy-third birthday. This was written for the president this morning by Clerk M. T. Simonon of the Circuit Court. This part of the address was engrossed for the members by Judge W. J. Robinson.

Mrs. M. A. Robinson is president and Mrs. Liliuhii the secretary of the society.

Miss Woodard has just received a new line of stamped Marquette waists, also embroidered baby bonnets. Especially wishes to announce the arrival of a beautiful new stock of Carlson-Currier embroidery art silks.

JEWELRY THIEF CAUGHT AT LAST

One of the cleverest catches in local police history came yesterday afternoon, when Chief of Detectives McDuffie arrested Will Johnson at Paia, Maui, for the theft of jewelry, consisting of rings, bracelets, necklaces and a great many beautiful diamonds, pearls, rubies and other precious stones. The jewelry, valued at $5000, was stolen from the Seaside Hotel last February.

Chief McDuffie, who went to Maui last Wednesday on the steamer Wailale, will return with Johnson in the Mauna Kea tomorrow morning. When arrested, Chief McDuffie found on the person of Johnson the stolen jewelry. It belongs to the daughters of Lars Anderson, brother-in-law of Congressman Nicholas Longworth, who were stopping at the Seaside Hotel last February.

McDuffie, who congratulated himself on having arrested the right man, wirelessly to Sheriff Jarrett yesterday afternoon as follows: "Have got man and all jewelry.—MAC."

There was joy in the detective office, the men having worked incessantly on the case.

Anderson, who lost his jewelry mysteriously last February, reported the matter to the police. Chief McDuffie told his men about the theft, and since then his staff has been busy watching for a chance to nab the man who stole the valuables.

According to the police, it appears that Kishi, of the local immigrant station, loaned about $200 to a man named Vasconcellos on jewelry. Vasconcellos told the police he had bought the jewelry from Johnson, and the latter's arrest followed.

OTTO A. BERNDT GOES TO INSPECT MAUI WINES

Otto A. Berndt of the internal revenue office leaves tonight for Maui, where he will fortify the month's results of the Kupaakaha Wine & Liquor Co., Ltd.

The winery is now in full blast, and he will make an inspection of things generally. This is a regular trip which he makes every month during the season.

No prosecutions against manufacturers who use saccharin in food will be undertaken for six months from July 1 next.

A long line of people, schoolgirls and boys and women, struggled for an hour to get into the courtroom at Chicago when the trial of Evelyn Arthur See, founder of the obsolete lift cult, charged with abduction, was resumed.

CORNWELL RANCH COMMISSION HAD AUTHORITY FOR CUTTING SHORT OF FUNDS

That report, as I understand it, was submitted to the land commissioner's office here, and as Mr. Campbell was then absent, I believe it went to Jack Tucker.

"The trouble has arisen over a misunderstanding. We have the right to cut the timber until our lease expires. I believe it was a mistake to allow the homesteaders to enter upon the land and take possession before the lease expired. Doubtless the homesteaders want as much of the timber saved as possible and do not like to see the company cutting it, but we are well within our rights in so doing and are not hurting the forests."

"As to the statement that Cockett declared he would devastate the land before the lease expired, anybody who knows Pla Cockett knows he never said that."

"The case is not one of malicious injury in any case. We are acting within our rights or what we conceive to be our rights, and it is a civil, not a criminal case at the most. 'Should we be enjoined from proceeding with the cutting of the timber, then we shall argue the rights of the case in court.'"

Mr. Brown believes that an interpretation of the law and the provisions of the lease will prove to the attorney-general as well as to the homesteaders that the company is acting legally.

ONOMEA EXTRAS ARE IN SIGHT

Onomea Sugar company is preparing to pay several extra dividends of fifty cents a share, according to information received on good authority this morning. The announcement has already been made that on September 5 Onomea will pay a fifty-cent extra in addition to its regular thirty-cent monthly payment, and it is now understood that fifty-cent extras will be declared for two or three months more.

The crop last year was 12,843 tons, and the estimate for this year was 13,055. However, with only three more weeks to go, the latest estimates now are for a fifteen-thousand-ton crop, and with much of it getting to the market under the high prices, probably four thousand tons, the ex-should be based on figures that we can back up. Therefore, it has come to the question of whether we should go along as we are doing now, using the limited facilities, or employing men of our own. Should we go to the Governor and Dr. Pratt and ask more money? Personally, I do not see the necessity of completing the report before January."

The employment of inspectors for the work, he estimates, would probably be not more than five or six hundred dollars. The commission had five hundred dollars at its disposal to start with, but much of this will be used in printing the report and incidental expenses.

The commission is now doing some field inspection work and studying and digesting what has been learned, so that recommendations may be based on a knowledge of conditions.

Chairman Carter expresses much gratification that Captain Henry R. Carter of the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service has been secured by Governor Frear to come to Honolulu and look into sanitary conditions. He does not know the Federal expert, but is acquainted with his work. "He was Gorges' right-hand man at the Canal Zone," he said, "and there had charge of the hospital. He will be the man who can tell us some things about the mosquito fight we need to know."

Mr. Brown believes that an interpretation of the law and the provisions of the lease will prove to the attorney-general as well as to the homesteaders that the company is acting legally.

JARRETT GIVES VACATION

Sheriff Jarrett, who believes in giving his policemen sufficient time to rest, during the summer, this morning granted leave of absence to four of his men, who will commence their vacation today.

The men who will not wear the police uniforms during their vacation are D. B. Haumen, first watch; Peter Kane, second watch; J. E. Nobrina, third watch, and appointed police Fred Wright.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Agriculture and Forestry Wednesday next in the Capitol at 9 o'clock. A report is expected from the special advisory committee on the Mediterranean fruit fly, in connection with the matter of the outbreak on the island of Kauai which was referred to them.

BULLETIN ADS PAY

Extras are well in sight. No announcement of this has been made by the directors of the company, but it may be stated that there is every possibility of this being the case.

WHAT is the unseen force that keeps the stores of this city "everlastingly at it," a force that makes of the store and merchandise living things, and reflect the life of the man who is at the helm? The store must breathe as regularly as does the human body. If the goods become stagnant and do not sell well the producer cannot live. If the store becomes clogged with goods IT cannot live. So the daily inflow and outgo of merchandise that you see is just the store's process of breathing. Still, it is asked again, "What is the unseen force that compels the store to breathe (do business) and keep 'everlastingly at it?'" The answer is: Crisp, live Advertising in an Evening Paper that goes into the majority of the homes.
