The hangers are of narrow ribbons with a big sunflower in the center to conceal the nail upon which the bag is hung. These bags hold two pairs of corsets and keep them free from dust. The sunflower rosettes are the sachets.

The gown of lace is to be popular this winter and this will rejoice many for while a whole lace gown can be the most ruinously expensive costume it can also be created on cheaper lines with equal effectiveness. Lace gowns are almost invariably becoming.

Lace as a trimming is to be extensively used for bodice and skirt, appearing in odd places, and often the lace itself will be richly ornamented with beads and embroidery.

A new evening sleeve is a tiny wired hoop of some soft shirred fabric, usually chiffon. This is arranged to stand out from the shoulder, the material being shirred over the wire.

If a fellow passenger moves on to make room for the man beside the woman he is escorting he lifts his hat in recognition of the courtesy.

Lace and chiffon frills at the bottom of long sleeves and finishing off the elbow variety are to be much in vogue for all sorts of dresses.

If she is compelled to occupy the last vacant seat the man stands immediately in front of her, or as near as possible.

Wool embroidery on the separate blouse is the latest thing and will doubtless supersede the beading of the year.

Worsted embroideries done in bright colored crewels are used as enlightening touches on costumes, suits and wraps.

When a man and woman meet on the street and enter the car together, the woman pays her own fare.

When boarding a car the man allows the woman to precede him, assisting her gently but firmly.

In leaving the car the man precedes the woman, that he may offer her his assistance in alighting.

A woman's escort pays all the fares and fees that tend toward establishing her comfort.

An almost normal waistline is one of the features of the newly imported dresses.

Pale gold laces are much in evidence on both afternoon and evening gowns.

Tulle over satin is much in evidence for evening costumes.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

A useful little idea for furnishing winter hats is to make fur hatpins. A little furry knot looks sweet and a scrap of odd fur, taken from some that is "done for," can often be found. This is cut in a circle and gathered round, being drawn up over the head of an ordinary hatpin. A little cockade of tails might be added, but when this is done they must be sewn on in such a position that they stand up at the side of the hat and do not stick out in ungainly fashion when the pin is thrust through the crown. For feather hats the same notion can be carried out, covering the pin with a scrap of feather trimming or marabou.

Every family should have their meals at regular hours, and all should make it an unerring rule to be in their accustomed seats, so far as circumstances will permit.

The same respectful, courteous spirit should be manifest towards each other and should mark their intercourse, the same as if strangers were present. Always choose interesting topics of conversation at the table, avoiding all unpleasant subjects; never find fault with the food; speak in a natural voice, rather low, never interrupting any one while speaking, and addressing servants quietly.

Flowered ribbons, with the solid satin borders, are the most popular for corset bags. It takes four strips of the ribbon, feather stitched together or put together with the crocheted rings, leaving a turnover at the top, where the ribbons are cut in points and finished with sunflower bows.

The hangers are of narrow ribbons with a big sunflower in the center to conceal the nail upon which the bag is hung. These bags hold two pairs of corsets and keep them free from dust. The sunflower rosettes are the sachets.

ARMY AND NAVY BOARD WILL GO TO HAVANA TO EXAMINE MAINE

By C. S. ALBERT. (Special Bulletin Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer has announced the appointment of a joint army and navy board with orders to go to Havana, examine the wreck of the battleship Maine and find out if practicable what it was that caused the explosion.

As the Secretary himself put it "This board has instructions to find out everything."

"Does that mean that these officers are to report on the causes of the wreck, whatever they might be," Mr. Meyer was asked.

"It means they are to get all the facts. The wreck has now been bared, and they will have an opportunity to see things never before seen by such a board," was the reply.

That the Navy Department means to get at the bottom of the cause for this wreck, whatever those causes may be, is indicated by the personnel of the commission.

For instance, Rear Admiral Charles E. Vreeland, now aide for inspections, has been named to head the board.

Serving with him will be R. M. Watt chief constructor of the navy; Col. William L. Black, president of the army board charged with rating the maine; Commander Joseph Straus, power expert of the navy, and Commander Charles Hughes, recorder of the board of inspection of ships.

This board is composed of experts and if the nature of the fatal explosion can be learned, the Navy Department believes this body of officers will learn it.

Secretary Meyer said today that the members of the board, excepting Colonel Black, will leave for Havana in a day or two and will arrive there next week. They will remain there until they satisfy themselves that all the facts possible to get are in their possession. Colonel Black is there already.

The board is named at this time not only because the entire wreck is now visible but also because the army engineers are ready to begin cutting it up for removal and the administration wants to have this final report on the explosion while the vessel is intact.
