BIG CAMPAIGN WARMING; TAFT IN STATEMENT GETS READY TO ANSWER ROOSEVELT

Price On Corner High

That two offers had been made for the property owned by John A. Cummins on the corner of Fort and Merchant streets, now occupied by Castle & Cooke and wanted by the Federal Government for the Federal building site, was offered as part of the evidence brought out before Judge Dole yesterday afternoon during the hearing of the Mahuka site cases. The first offer was one of $100,000, which was refused. The second was for $25,000 more, which was also turned down.

These facts were given out during the direct examination of H. Cushman Carter, trustee of the Cummins estate and one of the defendants in the present trial. He was placed on the stand by Attorney Olson. The original trust deed was introduced and the witness stated that he had been trustee since November 27, 1909.

Before the Federal Government instituted the present cases in December of 1910 negotiations were made for the purchase of the property. Mr. Willard Brown of Halstead & Co. approached him and then Mr. E. D. Tenney of Castle & Cooke. He did not know on whose behalf Brown was acting.

Olson then asked if Tenney made any offer, but District Attorney Robert Breckons objected to the question. (Continued on Page 2)

INDIAN OFFICER FERN BOOMED FOR DELEGATE, TOO HERE TO STUDY SANITATION

Major S. P. James, a distinguished officer of the Indian Medical Service, who has seen service almost everywhere between Tientsin and the Suez Canal, is spending a week in Honolulu for the purpose of familiarizing himself with sanitary matters here, especially in relation to mosquito eradication. Major James spent yesterday with Dr. McCoy, who has charge of the anti-mosquito operations, looking over the work that has been done and is being done by the Board of Health and sanitation committee. He expressed himself as surprised and gratified at what has been achieved in the way of rendering Honolulu free from the yellow fever-carrying mosquitoes, and was especially interested in the methods Judge Lymer is employing in the procedure of training property owners to a sense of their responsibility by arresting them and taking their cases to (Continued on Page 2)

ARCHDUKE OF AUSTRIA MAY COME THIS WAY

According to information received here, Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, who one day may become Emperor-King of Austria, will pass through Honolulu on a globe-trotting tour that he begins next month. He will go through Asia and cross the Pacific to return home by way of the United States. He is the heir of Francis Joseph.

Supply addresses to the Bulletin office and eighty pages of Industrial Information about Hawaii will be mailed to your friends for twenty-five cents.

Joshua Tucker of the Land Office has left for a trip to Kona. He will make the round journey and is expected to get back here Friday next.

L. L. McCandless' candidacy for Delegate to Congress was no longer announced formally this morning than another announcement followed, and that is to the effect that Mayor Joseph

Fern is thinking pretty seriously about having a go at this Delegate business himself. Fern's friends were busy making the announcement, according to current political gossip. It is certainly true that many Hawaiians are leaning towards Fern and away from McCandless. The Mayor's political ambitions have been juggled about now for many months among the politicians but the last report seems to have some weight. Part of the Hawaiian press is advocating Fern more or less diligently and those who are following the affair think it will be but a matter of days before McCandless and Fern part ways.

One of the Hawaiian papers has pointed out that during the campaign two years ago McCandless' political lieutenant on Hawaii, H. M. Kanika, the "cannon ball of Kihala," declared to the Hawaiians that it was useless for them to pin their faith on a "dead horse," meaning then upon Charles K. Nottley. He referred to Nottley as a "dead horse" because the coffee-planter and run and failed so many times.

This very phrase, coined to help McCandless, is now turned against him to convince the Hawaiians that McCandless is politically dead and that they should seek a new candidate. Fern is the new candidate.

Some of the McCandless men are now trying to find out whether or not Fern is sanctioning this kind of talk. If he is they see treachery to McCandless in which case there is going to be a rupture hard to close.

M'CANDLESS MAKES HIS ANNOUNCEMENT

IS OUT FOR DELEGATE---HIS NEW PLATFORM

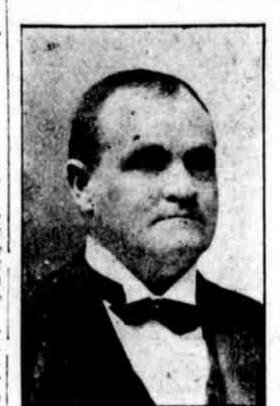

L. L. McCandless this morning formally announced himself candidate for Delegate to Congress.

He will seek the nomination of the Democratic party of Hawaii, and if successful in getting it, he will make the hardest campaign in a series of campaigns whose determination and strenuousness are well known over the Territory.

He will run on a platform of better business administration of Island affairs generally, and will pledge himself, if elected, to stay "on the job" in Washington while Congress is in session and whenever else he is needed at the national capital. In fact, it is evident that McCandless is going to make a good deal of political capital out of Delegate Kuhl's return to Hawaii during the present session.

McCandless' action in formally announcing himself a candidate was unexpected, but his friends might have been inclined to commit himself other than to say that he was a receptive candidate and that if the convention should name him he would make a campaign.

Today, following the action of the

Democratic central committee last night in getting a Territorial convention date only six weeks away, he came out with the open declaration that he is in the fight, and is in it to stay. "I suppose it has been pretty well known before that I was a candidate for Delegate," said Mr. McCandless (Continued on Page 7)

He Denies Political Yarn

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—President Taft today added fuel to the growing heat of the political campaign by issuing a statement believed to forecast his reply to Colonel Roosevelt's significant speeches at Columbus, O., the other day. Taft's statement today took up the charge that he had said the people were unable to govern themselves. He denied making such a statement. While no mention of Roosevelt was made, an early reply by the President is expected.

(Special Bulletin Cable.) BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 24.—Colonel Roosevelt has arrived for a five days' series of conferences with progressives of New England.

ITALIANS FIRE HELPLESS CITY

BEIRUT, Syria, Feb. 24.—An Italian flotilla has bombarded the city, killing sixty persons and wounding many. A demand was made to surrender the city and the warships opened fire without waiting for a reply.

MEXICO READY FOR REVOLT

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 24.—The situation is generally serious, according to reports here. General Gomez has wired President Madero that he must retire to avoid bloodshed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—Army commandants have ordered troops to be ready for instant departure to the Mexican border.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Feb. 24.—The town of Agua Prieta, across the Mexican border, is in a panic because of the advance of the supporters of Vasquez. They are raiding ranches on the way. Treasure has been rushed here and many refugees are arriving from various Mexican points.

WOULD HAVE GOVERNMENT OWN EXPRESS COMPANIES

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—Representative John J. Gardner of New Jersey, member of the committee on postoffice and postroads, will introduce in the House next Monday a bill for government ownership of express companies.

AFTER MONEY TRUST

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—The resolution calling for a probe of the money trust is scheduled for consideration before adjournment of Congress.

NATIONAL TRADE BOARD

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel proposes a convention of business men with the object of forming a national board of trade.

WEST VIRGINIA BACK ON MONDAY FROM PALMYRA?

The West Virginia will probably rejoin the Pacific fleet Monday or Tuesday next. This is not official, but it's pretty nearly correct. Officially the West Virginia doesn't exist, but there's a well founded belief that a United States warship has just taken a run down to Palmyra Island, and that said warship will enter Honolulu harbor the early part of next week. This information must go for what it's worth, but in some high quarters it is considered worth enough to lay plans by.

Rumors that target practice would be held in Hawaiian waters, which have been persistently circulated for the last few days, seem to be without foundation of probability. It would be possible to bring the target rafts across the Pacific, but the ships that did the towing would have a pretty rough time of it, with a good chance of accident.

"I have heard nothing of holding target practice here," said Admiral Thomas this morning. "I understand that the Atlantic fleet will begin firing about April 1, and if we were on the Coast we would probably commence at about the same time. However, the practice doesn't have to be completed before July 1, and even if we got back on the first of June, there would still be time. It would be possible to tow the rafts out here, if we absolutely had to get them across. The Glacier is available and also the Prometheus and Nero and the Jug Iroquois, that need to be stationed here. The latter was specially constructed to do heavy towing, and could take a ship to Honolulu and back again if necessary. However, better throw that target practice rumor in the waste basket. I don't think there is anything in it."

Shore drills and ship routine are going on with the three cruisers now in port. Next week they will all fill out their bunkers and the week after, if no orders for departure have arrived, they will probably go outside for more work under way.

Admiral Thomas does not contemplate sending the Glacier back immediately. The supply ship has plenty of beef aboard, and arrangements are being made to secure potatoes from the local market.

RESTORER HERE; WILL HASTEN TO MIDWAY TO REPAIR PACIFIC CABLE

With five hundred miles of cable on board and provided with apparatus of every description for grappling, raising or repairing the now broken Commercial Pacific cable, at a point between Midway and Guam Islands, the British cable ship Restorer, which last visited Honolulu five years ago, is here taking on supplies preparatory to resuming the voyage to the mid-Pacific cable station tomorrow morning.

The arrival of the Restorer, nine days from Esquimaux, this morning awakened a host of pleasant as well as interesting memories among local shipping men. There are but few changes in the staff of officers in the Restorer since her stay at Honolulu during those stirring times, when two big liners were ashore on Oahu reefs. The Restorer did valiant and yeoman service in 1906 when the Pacific Mail liner Manahua was stranded off Waiananaloa and it was the gallant Restorer that for twenty-eight days hauled on one or more lines from the distressed liner, which was more than once believed would leave her bones on the treacherous reefs.

The Restorer will take on four hundred and fifty tons coal before sailing for Midway Island. It is the intention to hasten the dispatch of the vessel and the cable ship is believed will get away tomorrow morning. A line of supplies will be paced aboard, including provisions and live stock of which (Continued on Page 4)
