FIGHT GAME MAY BE CLOSED HERE

Sheriff Jarrett Talks of Putting On the Lid Owing to Saturday's Mill.

As the result of Saturday night's mill, when Referee Joe Cohen's draw decision sent Gilmore off the handle to the extent of taking a punch at the referee, and made all experienced fight fans believe that their hearing had suddenly been affected, it is possible that the police will put the lid on the fight game here.

In the ring after the battle, and outside the Orpheum for an hour after the scrap was over, the crowd surged backward and forward, threatening, disputing and occasionally exchanging a punch or so for good luck. There were those that thought Gilmore had been robbed, and those that thought he should be hanged for trying to get Cohen. Altogether, the argument was pretty general, and half a dozen police reserves had their hands full, keeping some semblance of order before the partisans dispersed.

Sheriff Jarrett stated this morning that there had been so much complaint over Saturday night's mill that he had the matter of shutting down the game entirely under serious consideration. "It was after midnight before things had quieted down," said the sheriff this morning. "There was too much disorder both inside and outside the building, and before any more permits are issued we must have assurance that boxers and crowd will behave themselves. I can't say definitely that the boxing game will be closed here, but I can say that the matter is being seriously considered."

While there was absolutely no excuse for Gilmore's hot-headed and rowdy act, he at least made amends as soon as his head cleared, by begging Cohen's pardon. The latter said it was all right, and the two shook hands before leaving the ring.

KING'S DAUGHTERS WILL SELL GOODIES

On March 16 there will be a delicious sale in the Promotion Committee's rooms, under the auspices of the King's Daughters. It is intended to have it a near-St. Patrick affair. Green will be the color in particular and the packages will be tied up with green string. The proceeds go toward the expenses of the "Home".

The ladies in charge will be Mrs. C. Ewing, Miss Evelyn M. Drummond, matron of the home; Mrs. Chastler Livingston, Mrs. Webster, Miss Nina D. Fraser, Mrs. Monarrat, Mrs. J. Bicknell and others.

FAMINE RELIEF FUND OVER EIGHT THOUSAND

The Chinese famine relief fund, which the different committees have been raising from the kanaianas, now amounts to $8150.65, according to the chairman of the accounts committee yesterday, Hon. W. R. Castle, who has a Sunday school class in the Kawaiahoe Church, received from his boys a contribution of $7.00, which added to the original amount, makes the total $8157.65. The money will be cable to China as soon as possible.

COLORADOS TAKE THE SECOND GAME OF THE SERIES FROM HAWAII

Gloom Rests on the Bleachers When Redoubtable B. Joy Fans With Bases Full.

The Colorados made it horse and horse yesterday afternoon, when they won their game with the All-Hawaii, 6 to 4. Now comes the rubber, and when it is played off, probably next Sunday, a lot of money is apt to change hands.

The locals thought they had the game on toast in the ninth, when, with the score as above noted, the bases full and no one gone, Barney Joy came to bat. Draw the curtain, friend; Barney struck out. The next two men were retired, and the sorrowing fans filed out of the gate.

The first game of the double-header, between the P. A. C. and the California's team, went to the former 4 to 1, after a fairly good game.

Score by innings:
All-Hawaii 0 0 0 1 1 2 0 0 4
Colorado 1 0 2 0 0 3 0 0 6
Summary—Three-base hits, Soares, Joy 2; bases on balls, off Bushnell 2, Henning 4; wild pitch, Henning; struck out, by Henning 8; passed balls, Soares, Scully; hit by pitcher, Desha. Umpires, Anderson and Rice.

KAM ATHLETES RUN TO FORM

The last of the series of dual athletic meets between Punahou, Kamehameha and High School, pulled off Saturday afternoon with Kam and High as the principals, came out just about as expected, the Kam athletes carrying off the long end of the score by a margin of 20 points. As the dopsters had it figured, High was strong in the sprints, while the distances, weights and jumps went to Kamehameha. Furthermore, Kam had the more evenly-balanced team, taking a majority of the seconds and thirds.

When it was announced Friday that Bill Rice and Lal Tin would be in the High School ranks, the Bulletin forecasted Kam to win the meet by a margin of 10 points. At the last moment Lal Tin was forced to scratch, but had he been able to compete he would probably have pulled up the points for his team so as to make the difference about as doped out from the figures obtained in practise trials.

Captain Harold Godfrey, Kamehameha's crack track leader, competed for the first time in many weeks, he having been laid up by illness since last January. He showed the effects of his long absence from the track, third place in the 440 being the best he could do.

The interscholastic championship meet, between Punahou, High and Kam, comes off next Saturday at Alexander Field.

Following were Saturday's results:
100-yard dash—Hiranaka (H. S.), 1; Lee (H. S.), 2; Spencer (K.), 3. Time, 16 3-5.

220-yard dash—Dwight (H. S.), 1; Hiranaka (H. S.), 2; Alau (K.), 3. Time, 24 sec.

12-pound shot put—Kaonohi (K.), 1; Kauiwe (K.), 2; Brandt (K.), 3. Distances, 39 feet 9 inches, 39 feet 1-2 inch, 38 feet 2 1-2 inches.

GILMORE-DE MELLO MILL LEAVES BAD TASTE WITH THE RING FANS

The only popular ending to this mill would be if some real fighter jumped into the ring and put both of them to sleep," remarked a ringside spectator of the Gilmore-De Mello affair Saturday night.

That was a shrewd summing up of general sentiment. The crowd was sore at Slim Gilmore for what looked like foul tactics, and for his general deportment inside the ropes, and sore at De Mello on account of the behavior of his officious and altogether objectionable manager, Jockey Willis.

But whatever the personal feelings of the fans—and it was a partisan audience howling for one man or the other to "knock his block off" from going to go—De Mello was certainly the luckiest boxer who ever pounded padded canvas, in getting his performance called a draw. It was Gilmore's fight in every round but the sixth and seventh, when De Mello had a shade, and the first and second, which were about even. Outside of these four, Gilmore had things his own way, and that he lost his head completely, and tried to land on Referee Joe Cohen when he found that another glove was being held aloft besides his own, while utterly inexcusable, is by no means surprising. Probably to Gilmore, as to most every intelligent fight fan in the big crowd, Cohen's decision came like a bombshell. By every rule of the game the fight belonged to the Frisco scrapper, or else, if Cohen thought he fouled De Mello by hitting him low in the third round, he should have been disqualified then and there. With both men on their feet at the end of the fifteenth, Gilmore had 70 per cent. the best of it, and that's enough to justify a decision any day of the week.

Showing Disappointing.
The fight wasn't a particularly good one to watch. It was a hugging match throughout, with both men doing clumsy work and overlooking many opportunities to land telling blows. Gilmore did some effective jabbing with his left, but with his superior height and reach he should have put De Mello out in six rounds. The Portuguese, for his part, in spite of his stocky build and fine muscular development, didn't seem to have any kick at all. Gilmore took his hardest blows without flinching, and it's doubtful whether De Mello could have delivered a clean K. O. punch with a free swing at his opponent.

In the third De Mello sank to the floor and claimed a foul, going through all the motions of extreme agony. When Cohen started to count him out, however, he scrambled to his feet and commenced fighting again. Half a dozen experienced ring critics who were in a position to see the rally of infighting that immediately preceded the claim, say that Gilmore did not foul. Certainly, on several occasions it looked as though he were striking dangerously low, but De Mello was so often doubled up in his efforts to escape punishment, often with his left knee raised, that it was hard to tell just where in the middle section the blows did land.

De Mello Game.
From the tenth to the end of the mill De Mello fought with his left eye completely closed. He sported a terrible looking optic, which must have hurt him more than a little. There is no doubt that toward the end of the fight the Portuguese proved himself to be game, but gameness doesn't, or shouldn't, count against actual blows landed, and apparently De Mello's seconds were as much surprised as anyone at the decision. Jockey Willis, who made himself a general nuisance all through the fight with his shouted objections to his principal, and shouted abuse to the other fellow, threw his arms around De Mello's neck in a most touching manner when he realized that a draw had been given.

The real class of the evening was the semi-wind-up, between Trier and Wiler, two soldier lads. They fought six clean and interesting rounds to a well-earned draw.

The first two prelims were sad affairs, the feature being the confident way in which Young Gans turned and walked out of the ring the instant he dropped Prince with a right to the jaw. Gans knew that he had handed out a real insomnia pill, and didn't take the trouble to hear his opponent counted out.

WILLIAMS AND WINNE WON BY CLOSE MARGIN OVER LONG ROUTE

When the wireless message from Kaula, telling the result of Saturday's boxing on the Garden Island, reached here, it was found that Williams and Winne, the local cracks, had taken the 29-game endurance contest rolled Saturday by just 109 pins. This was good news to the Honolulu fans, who were waiting anxiously for news of how the other pair fared.

With a team average of 173, Williams and Winne looked to have the inside chance, considering the long route traveled, but there was always the chance of a big score being piled up by Wolters and Maser, who are some rollers in competition.

The rolling here Saturday was witnessed by only a scattering handful of enthusiasts, which was a pity, as it was well worth seeing.

Following were the scores:
Honolulu.
Williams—171, 175, 195, 170, 189, 168, 174, 181, 184, 169, 153, 171, 158, 176, 179, 245, 188, 169, 169, 161. Total, 2546; average, 177.25.

Winne—169, 189, 175, 180, 157, 158, 193, 166, 156, 186, 183, 149, 159, 167, 162, 146, 185, 169, 164. Total, 3213; average, 168.8.

Grand total pins, 6921; average, 173.02.
Time of game, 3 hours 5 minutes.
Scorer, I. Seharin; umpire, W. Chillingworth.

High single game, 245, by Williams; low single game, 146, by Winne; high double game, 497; low double game, 307.

Winne 3213 59 106 26 24 193 146 168.80

Totals 6921 128 186 51 48 245 146 173.02

Kaula.
Wolters—Total, 3457; average, 172.85.
Maser—Total, 3355; average, 167.75.
Grand total, 6812; average, 170.20.
Time of game, 2 hours 20 minutes.

SPLITS.
Williams "blowed" the 10 pin quite frequently.

The alley record (246) put up by R. Loftus this month was given a close shave by Williams, who rolled 245.

Winne says he rolled his usual average.

Williams and Winne will be kept busy defending their title.

Neither of the rollers had remarkable luck.

The 10 pin was glued to the alley, likewise the 7 seemed to be nailed down on the tenth frame of Williams' 245 game.

Williams started off his high game with a fine strike, and then got the 4-9-10 split, which he almost made, mixing up the pins in great shape. He then rolled seven perfect strikes in a row, and should have had a double mark on the last frame, the 7 pin wabbling half-way off the alley. His extra roll was another strike.

WOLGAST TO FIGHT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Mar. 3. — Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion of the world, who arrived yesterday for a week's engagement at a local vaudeville house, has no well defined ideas as to when he will step into the ring to defend his title. Generally speaking, Wolgast has fixed upon the Fourth of July as the date for his first bout, but there are so many "ifs" in connection with this choice that it can not be taken for granted. "I hope to be able to fight on the Fourth of July," said Wolgast, "but will not say for certain. Everything depends upon how I feel. I have been offered $15,000 for my end to box in Los Angeles, and it looks as if Joe Rivers would be my opponent. He has been improving wonderfully and ought to make a good fight."

DUKE WON 100 BY ONLY HALF A FOOT

Duke Kahanamoku won the 100 yards scratch competition in New York March 2 by the scant margin of half a foot. Only in the last few strokes, according to Coast dispatches, did the local man earn his right to the title.

That Duke's time was 57 1-5 shows that he is not yet at his best, and that he has not mastered the tricks of tank swimming, which is generally considered faster than in open water. Duke's record made here last August is 55 2-5 for the 100, made in the harbor.

The brief dispatch telling of Duke's success is as follows:

NEW YORK, N. Y., Mar. 2.—The City Athletic Club team of New York won the 400-yard national relay swimming championship race by an extremely close margin in its own tank tonight. The Chicago Athletic Association team was defeated by what looked to be but a fraction of an inch. The New York Athletic Club team finished third. The winner's time was 2:59 5-5. Duke Kahanamoku of the Honolulu Swimming Club won the 100-yard scratch race by half a foot in 57 1-5 seconds.
