Mrs. James Madison Kennedy's Bridge Luncheon.

Luncheons always the touchstone of the lighter hospitality in which women delight, have crowded each other during the past week. No parties of the season have seemed more agreeable, more truly exponents of the best that Honolulu could do in the way of uniting gentle-people of all kinds than the numerous bridge luncheons and teas of this week. One that was particularly interesting was the St. Patrick's bridge luncheon given at the hospitable home of Mrs. James Madison Kennedy of Fort Shafter, when this charming woman entertained in honor of Mrs. M. M. Macomb and Mrs. Putnam, who is so shortly to leave our shores. The going away of Captain and Mrs. Putnam is a keen sorrow to their many friends. Mrs. Kennedy's luncheon and bridge color-scheme was green and white, the luncheon table having a low mound of shamrocks, maidenhair fern and white daisies. The place-cards were plain white with Mrs. Kennedy's monogram in gold and each tied with a dainty bit of green gingham ribbon. The silver candlesticks had green silk shades beneath their silver filigree shades that lent a restful tone to the beautifully decorated dining-room. After a delightful luncheon, in which the prevailing color of the day was always apparent, bridge became the inspiration for the afternoon. The score-cards were given with appropriate Irish anecdotes for each guest, and they caused no end of mirth. Green satin ribbon and green pencils were on the score-cards. The prizes were sets of card-table covers numbered one, two and three, and the initials of each recipient is to be done on each gift. Mrs. Kennedy's guests were Mrs. M. M. Macomb and Mrs. A. B. Putnam, for whom this very delightful and novel party was arranged; Mrs. W. C. Neville, Mrs. William P. Wooten, Mrs. Edward Timberlake, Mrs. John Wholley, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. F. B. Edwards, Mrs. E. H. Cook, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Preston, Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. Clifton Carter, Mrs. McAfee and Mrs. Freeman.

Mrs. J. S. Williams and Mrs. E. B. Walker's Bridge.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Walker entertained on Friday afternoon at one of the largest and most delightful bridge and hearts parties of this season. The house decorations were all in green, the color scheme being carried out in the smallest detail. The score cards and dainty refreshments carried out the colors of dear old St. Patrick most beautifully. The artistic hangings never appeared to better advantage than it did on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Walker's and Mrs. Williams' guests were Mrs. Walter Cowles, Mrs. M. M. Macomb, Mrs. Edward Timberlake, Mrs. William P. Wooten, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Rockwell, Mrs. Ross Kingsbury, Mrs. A. B. Putnam, Mrs. Lewis Watkins, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Preston, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Clifford Game, Mrs. J. F. Sheedy, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Gaynor, Mrs. Wholley, Mrs. H. P. Wilbur, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Mary Widdfield, Mrs. Clifton Carter, Mrs. William Coleman, Mrs. Willis, Mrs. James Madison Kennedy, Mrs. Case, Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. Francis Roy Smith, Mrs. F. D. Smith, Mrs. Samuel Widdfield, Miss Edith Cowles, Miss Case, Miss Bigelow, Miss Freeman, Miss Gambel, Miss Brown, Miss Cooper. The gifts to those scoring highest were: First prize, a beautiful scene of Hawaii, was awarded to Miss Freeman of Fort Shafter; second prize, a Hawaiian picture, was given to Mrs. Watkins; and the heart prize, which was a Hawaiian head, was given to Miss Edith Cowles.

Thirteen Bridge Club.

The Thirteen Bridge Club, with Mrs. John Drew as hostess, met on Wednesday afternoon. This club is one of the oldest bridge clubs in Honolulu and informality is the keynote to its success. The members present were Mrs. John Drew, Mrs. Charles Bon, Mrs. Otto Bierbach, Mrs. Ferdinand Lindermann, Mrs. Percy Morse, Mrs. Edwin Benner, Mrs. Randolph Moore, Mrs. Lyser, Mrs. Guy Gehr, Mrs. William H. Goetz, Mrs. Potter, and Mrs. DeFreest.

Mrs. George D. Freeman, Jr., Luncheon.

Mrs. George D. Freeman has bidden six friends to a luncheon in honor of her sister, Miss Freeman, on Tuesday of next week. This luncheon's color scheme is to be carried out entirely in pink, it being the favorite color of the hostess. The centerpiece is to be a low rock-crystal bowl filled with dainty pink rosebuds and petals of this same dainty bloom are to cover the damask, sprayed with feathery ferns. The place cards are to be dainty sprays of pink wild roses and at each guest's place will be a corsage bouquet of violets. The electric lights are to be shaded in pink and the candles on the table in silver candlesticks are to be unshaded, which will make a very effective and novel adornment. Mrs. Freeman's guests will include her mother, Madam Freeman, Miss Freeman, for whom this delightful party is planned, and Miss Roberta Wholley, Miss Edith Spalding, Miss Alice Cooper, Miss Helen Rockwell, Mrs. Gerald Johnson of Ruger and Mrs. Reid.

Mrs. John Guild's Tea.

Mrs. John Guild gave a delightfully informal tea in honor of Mrs. Murdoch of Maui, who is their house guest. About twenty-six friends were in attendance. The house was ablaze in gorgeous yellow chrysantheums in green vases with the silver deposit. The luncheon was made lovely with large brass bowls filled with flaming burgainvillea. The refreshments were very dainty and simply delicious. Mrs. Alexander poured tea.

Captain and Mrs. McDougal Entertain.

Captain and Mrs. McDougal entertained at dinner on Friday evening. The table was made lovely with a low crystal bowl filled with deep pink carnations and Australian fern. Covers were placed for eight.

Mrs. Southgate's Golf Trophy.

Mrs. Southgate, who is such a tennis enthusiast, is giving a good-by cup as a trophy for driving, approaching a putting contest. The tournament entries will remain open until 9:30 Tuesday morning. Mrs. Southgate leaves shortly for her home in England and while here has enjoyed our beautiful golf grounds and Country Club. It is lovely to find a visitor to our city who has such a love of outdoor athletics. About the same set of people will enter this tournament as was in the last one.

Mrs. Walter Cowles' Bridge Tea.

Mrs. Walter Cowles will entertain on Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Frost of Chicago and Mrs. Carr of England. On account of the Lenten season this party is to be very informal and will therefore be all the more enjoyable. There will be four tables of bridge with a goodly number of friends dropping in for tea in the late afternoon. Mrs. Cowles is one of the most popular and genuinely well-liked women in Honolulu. She is a woman of not only a very charming and wholesome personality but withal so natural that everyone just wants to have this gladsome woman around. Mrs. Cowles' guests will be Mrs. Frost and Mrs. Carr, for whom the party is given; Mrs. M. M. Macomb, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Wooten, Mrs. Reis, Mrs. William Coleman, Mrs. Putnam, Mrs. William Whitney, Mrs. Klebahn, Mrs. Thos. R. King, Mrs. Arnald Haneberg, Mrs. E. Faxon Bishop, Mrs. Edward Timberlake. The tea guests will be Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham, Mrs. Francis Mills Swanzey, Mrs. Ellen Low, Mrs. Thomas Wall, Mrs. Frank McStocker, Mrs. Henry Waterhouse, Mrs. Frederick Klamp, Mrs. Cornet and several others.

Miss Dorothy Hartwell's Luncheon.

The social affairs of the week in retrospect have been devoted in a large measure to the visitors who have been receiving the traditional welcome from local society. There have been a few dancing parties and they have been the only exceptions, one might explain, to the rule of entertainment for the ever-popular visitor. Among the visitors to be much entertained and feted was Miss Nancy Wallace of Hawaii, who has been the house guest of Miss Beatrice Holdsworth. Many delightful luncheons and sewing teas were planned in honor of this visitor, but none gave more pleasure than did the delightful luncheon arranged by Miss Hartwell and given at the always popular Country Club. The table was very pretty, having as a centerpiece a rock-crystal and silver bowl filled with brown-eyed magentas and blue tulip. The hand-painted place cards were done in lavender and blue. Miss Hartwell's guests were Miss Nancy Wallace, Miss Beatrice Holdsworth, Mrs. Albert Judd, Mrs. Frederick Lowrey, Mrs. Lawrence Judd, Mrs. Sherwood Lowrey and Miss Claire Kelley.

Bride and Groom Arrive.

Lieutenant Ross E. Rowell of the U. S. S. California returned from San Francisco yesterday by the Sierra, bringing his bride, who was formerly Mrs. Margarita Sandero of Los Angeles. The marriage ceremony was performed at the Fairmont Hotel. As is often the case, a vein of romance runs through the meeting of this bride and groom, for it was while Mrs. Powell was the luncheon guest of Mrs. Thomas, wife of Rear Admiral Thomas, that the meeting took place and a friendship was formed that will last for all time. Honolulu is an ideal place for a honeymoon. Hardly a steamer from the mainland that does not boast at least one mooning couple. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Pixley, Lieutenant and Mrs. Rowell for the present are guests of the Moana Hotel.

Miss Bernice Hartwell was the winner of the ladies' golf tournament finished this week over the Country Club course, defeating Miss Alice Cooke, who defeated Miss Jessie Kennedy for final honors in eighteen holes. Miss Hartwell defeated Miss Wilhelmina Tenney in the semi-finals. The trophy, a silver cup, was a gift from Mrs. Walter Dillingham, who is such an outdoor enthusiast. The golf grounds and delightful surroundings are responsible for a great number of delightful afternoons spent on the hillside.

Mr. Alan J. Lowrey has had an honor conferred on him that is a greatly sought one. He is a Honolulu boy in the truest sense of the word, and everyone here takes a personal interest in our boys away at school. Alan has been elected to the presidency of the Phillips Brooks Home of Harvard, an honor indeed. He also is the treasurer of the Hasty Pudding Club. Mr. Lowrey is in his Junior year at Harvard. Honolulu feels very proud of his achievement.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander G. Hawes, Jr., after a most delightful visit to Honolulu, left on Friday's steamer for their home on Hawaii. Mr. and Mrs. Hawes have been the incentive for a very great deal of entertainment, both being very popular and much sought after. It was the great pleasure of their friends to do them honor. It is a pity that their stay is so short. Their friends hope that it will not be long until they are home again in Honolulu.

Mrs. Arthur P. Niblack, wife of Captain Niblack, U. S. N., was presented recently at the German court in Berlin. Mrs. Niblack, who was before her marriage Miss Mary Harrington, is a daughter of Mrs. W. P. Harrington of this city.—Argonaut.

Captain Niblack was stationed at our local naval station and is therefore very well known to townspeople. Mrs. Niblack also has a large number of friends in the islands.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hugh Clegg arrived on the Wilhelmina on their honeymoon trip, which will extend as far away as England, the future home of this delightful couple. After a few days in her home city, Mrs. Clegg and her husband will continue their journey to England via Australia and the Suez Canal. As Miss Waller, Mrs. Clegg will be most pleasantly remembered by a large number of friends who wish them a circle of happiness.

Miss A. Harding, a sister of Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse, has just returned from Kaula where she has been the house guest of Mrs. Eric A. Knudsen. From Miss Harding's arrival until her departure there was one round of gaiety and merriment; not a day passed without it being full of social engagements for this much-feted young woman. Miss Harding leaves on Monday on her way to India to join her brother, who is a millionaire heavily interested in the rubber industry.

Next month the Ilio Tennis Club will hold a handicap tournament for members exclusively. At a meeting held on Saturday Mr. Eugene Horner and Stephen Desha Jr. and Mrs. Patten were chosen to settle handicaps. Drawings will be made April sixth and seventh. The tournament opens April sixteenth. Mrs. Lindsay-Watson and Attorney Rolph have been elected to membership.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Murphy entertained at dinner on Sunday evening. Covers were laid for nine. The guests of the evening were Rev. Father Cushman of Ogdon, Rev. Father Cooper of San Francisco, Dr. Lagan of San Francisco, Mr. Higgs, Mrs. Carl du Roi, Miss Grace Carroll and Miss Thelma Murphy.

The members of the "Minutes" are very busy during this Lenten season sewing garments for the poor and needy in our city. Each girl member is expected to finish six garments and the president of the Minutes will, when the sewing is done which will be about Easter-time, present the box of well-made and substantial clothing to those needing it most.

Mrs. Waldron and Mrs. Fuller will be hostesses at a large and elaborate four-handed solitaire card party this evening at the Hotel Courtland. The house decorations are to be green and yellow in honor of St. Patrick. There will be ten tables of cards and six prizes will be awarded the fortunate ones. Refreshments of a very elaborate and delightful assortment will be served at ten-thirty. The score cards are handpainted of green shamrocks and the Irish colors will predominate in everything.

Mr. Francis M. Swanzey left on Thursday afternoon for a trip to the Island of Hawaii.
