"Every man that is fit to call himself an American wants to boss his own life. He wants to lead his own life. Now, he will make mistakes; some of us will; you or I will; but they will be my mistakes. I want to like them myself. I do not want any one else to make them for me."—headlines: Roosevelt.

Express your convictions like men, let the result be what it may. Prove to you have American courage as well as citizenship.

The manner in which the morning paper treats the luau given at the home of the Princess Kalaniana'ole is a gratuitous insult of the character for which the morning paper is notorious. It should be resented by everyone who has any regard for fair play and common decency.

Pledge Hawaii's Republican delegates to William Howard Taft and tie them up tight. The result in Pennsylvania shows that Taft men have a right on their hands. Hawaii should stand with the President through thick and thin. He merits every vote and every ounce of influence we can give him.

THINK IT OVER.

Ex-Governor George R. Carter, speaking as a Taft supporter, in two evening key-note speeches before the Republican convention this morning struck a line of thought that is certain to cause the President of the United States to take especial notice.

Every convention vote in today's session has thus far put every man in record in clear-cut style.

If the purpose is to attempt to ride down the delegates rough shod, there are incidents connected with the contest that cannot fail to attract official attention.

Think it over gentlemen. Think it over.

WATER BUFFALOES OR NOT?

Water Buffalo or not?
An honest expression of honest sentiments, or a coerced and proxy-manipulated result?

The answer is what the Republican delegates, meeting today, will determine before the convention voting is over this afternoon or evening.

Politics has the reputation of being a somewhat lively game in which issues become befogged and in which new issues suddenly and unexpectedly develop.

The Bulletin stands now as it has always stood for a square American deal, gained through an honest expression of honest conviction, and be that expression favorable or unfavorable to the attitude taken by this paper, it is ready and believes it the duty of all regular partisans to stand by the will of the majority; go forward, not backward; work, not haggle.

The Bulletin however would be derelict in its duty to its thousands of readers throughout this Territory if it failed to register a protest against the methods adopted by the alleged friends of the Governor in attempting to control the convention by making it a collection of proxies or in other words a paper convention.

Nothing more sensational as bearing upon the method of doing politics adopted by men of "light and leading" could be imagined than the story published by the Governor's organ concerning the query sent down from Maui and the reply made to it. This was in effect, "Shall I bring the delegates or the proxies," and the answer was in effect "Bring the proxies."

Great God, gentlemen, what are you thinking of?

Don't you know that the proxy convention idea is so far repudiated in the United States that more than one State has a law making the giving or acceptance of a proxy under those conditions a misdemeanor?

Under such circumstances how can you go before the President of the United States with clean hands or before the level-headed people of this Territory—when we all get settled down again—and say that you stand for and uphold straightforward, manly politics that are a fair expression of honest opinion?

What can you say to a commissioner or an investigating committee empowered to go to the bottom of things?

Is there any other way to get out of it than to claim that the end justifies the means? And how can you convince a thorough-going American that interference with a free expression of conviction on the part of American citizens is justified?

EVENING SMILES

"I simply can't stand the foot of an automobile horn."
"How's that?"

"A fellow eloped with my wife in an automobile, and every time I hear a horn toot I think he's bringing her back."

Uncle Ezra—"Then you think the battle of Wounded Knee was a greater event than the Reformation?"

Uncle Eben—"Certainly. I've seen the fierceness of members of the them both, and I'll bet the 'Battle' army toward one another, the fate of took at least 1000 more feet of film."

Lawyer—"I've just landed that big corporation law case for my son."
Friend—"Why, he's only two years old yet."
Lawyer—"Certainly; but he'll be ready for it by the time I've finished the preliminary work of getting a jury."
"A war is a fearful thing," said Doctor Eben—"It is," replied Rafferty. "When you see the fierceness of members of the them both, and I'll bet the 'Battle' army toward one another, the fate of took at least 1000 more feet of film."

Do you stop to realize that acts like this tend to strengthen certain charges made by the Delegate against the Governor, where heretofore a number of thinking people have felt that the Delegate was wandering around like a babe in the woods, or was an otherwise good man, gone wrong?

The Bulletin stands for fair play, let the verdict of the untrammelled vote be what it may.
The Bulletin believes that the majority of the people at large, in this city and throughout the islands stand for fair play. We believe an overwhelming majority of the delegates to the Republican convention stand for fair play. Would that we could say that the activities of some so-called friends of the Governor who have been busy keeping delegates at home could duplicate the assertion with the same degree of sincerity backed up by deeds that are more forceful than words.

Governor Frear's organ the other morning in an editorial that might well have come from the Governor's pen, expressed regret that there was no clear-cut issue before the voters of either party in the primaries or in the conventions to be held today.

If that was true a day or two ago, it is no longer the fact. Issues are the creatures of the occasion sometimes.

There is a clear and well-defined issue before the Republican convention today.

THAT ISSUE IS WHETHER THE REPUBLICAN PARTY SHALL BE RULED BY COERCION OR BY THE UNTHREATENED, STRAIGHTFORWARD SENTIMENT OF THE DULY ELECTED DELEGATES TO A CONVENTION.

And in the estimation of this paper, the fate of the Republican party in this Territory and in this municipality at the Fall elections will depend on the manner in which that issue is met and passed upon today.

If this convention is to be what Charlie Rice would call a Water Buffalo convention, heaven help the Republican party this Fall.

If the delegates "are allowed" to not only be present on the floor of the convention but to vote as their conscience directs, nothing will be able to stop the Republican party in its campaign for efficient government this Fall.

The Bulletin has always been opposed to the secret ballot on general principles, but the precedents of the Republican party conventions are in favor of the secret ballot.

One thing is certain, as developed by the events of the last few days. The vote of the convention will not be an expression of the conviction of the delegates if the ballot is not a secret ballot. Any faction in any party that calls for an open ballot in one breath and in the other sends out an order for "proxies not men," does not have to say anything more concerning the virtue of its intentions in dealing with the delegates whom it might frighten or cajole.

Of course men do things and say things in the heat of a scrimmage of any kind, which they afterwards regret.

But make no mistake about the plain issue that is to be met by the vote today in the Republican convention.

IT IS A SQUARE DEAL, FAIR PLAY AND AN UNTRAMMELED VOTE, AS AGAINST CROOKED TACTICS MANIPULATION.

STAND YOUR GROUND FIRMLY. "QUIT YE LIKE MEN." WE DO NOT WANT THE REPUBLICAN PARTY RUN BY EITHER DICTATORS OR GRAFTERS.

And when it is all over, have the manhood and the good sense to shake hands and get together for the general welfare of the Republican party and the Territory of Hawaii in the Fall elections.

At the Mercy of Europe.

Under the title of "The Power of Sugar," the Chicago Daily News delivers itself of the following comment on the conditions of the world's sugar market with special reference to Russia and the Brussels conventions:

Nothing could better illustrate the grip which the "sugar interests" have upon the markets of the world than the present situation in Russia. The beet sugar output in 1911 was the greatest that Russia has ever known. Taken with the surplus at the beginning of the year, it amounted to 4,947,344,000 pounds of sugar. The market of Russia and Finland absorb 3,213,968,000 pounds, leaving a surplus of 1,733,376,000 pounds.

By the terms of the Brussels convention Russia is bound by an agreement not to export more than 440,566,400 pounds of sugar in a year. The problem, therefore, is what to do with the unusable, unsellable 1,292,809,600 pounds of sugar. The sugar manufacturers of Russia have used this crisis to ask the signatory powers to the Brussels convention, which restricted the export of Russian sugar, to reopen the question.

The people of the world may well ask what influences are sufficient to force a Brussels convention to tie up over 1,000,000,000 pounds of sugar in Russia in the face of a rising market.

Sugar has risen in price all over the world. The wholesale London price in 1898 was 2.98 cents a pound; in 1906 it was 3.66; in 1910, 4.06 cents a pound. Granulated sugar retails in Berlin and Paris for practically the same price as in Chicago, and yet somebody has enough "pull" with the signatory powers to the Brussels convention to keep Russia's huge surplus off the market.

We cannot presume to doubt the strength of the "sugar pull" when it is able to do these things in Europe.

That is one of the very good reasons why the representatives of the American people in Congress assembled should not indulge in a ruinous tariff-cutting policy that will place the American producer and consumer completely at the mercy of the European manipulators. The producer of course will be wiped out. The beet sugar industry will disappear from the list of American industries.

And the American consumer will pay the same price or higher for his sugar.

INJUNCTION SUIT AGAINST BLONDIE ROBINSON AGAIN

Sudden action was again taken this morning in connection with Blondie Robinson, the vaudeville artist against whom a temporary injunction was issued some little time ago by the Circuit Court and which was reversed by action of the Supreme Court.

The matter is being brought up by Thompson, Watson, Wilder & Lymer, on behalf of the Liberty Theater management, which claims that Blondie is under contract already and can not act for the Amusement Company, Robinson was billed to appear tonight, but unless the suit can be put through in a day he will not be on hand.

OVER $4,500 IN PRIZES

honored for any young woman to compete. Every prize is one of real merit and value, and the value of the smallest minor prize alone is a sufficient incentive for any young woman to start immediately to interest her friends in her campaign and start out to win. Such an opportunity comes but seldom to the majority of young women, and in such a high-class campaign as this one, every person in the Territory will take an interest and boost some favorite candidate.

Campaign in Able Hands.
With its usual policy of advancement, the Evening Bulletin has gone a great deal farther in planning this campaign. Not only has a great array of prizes been secured, but to make the contest the greatest event of the year in newspaperdom, the services of the Northeastern Circulation Co. have been secured to conduct the campaign along the most modern and down-to-the-minute lines of modern circulation building. This company is known as the foremost circulation-building organization of the United States. Messrs. Reeve and Ship of his company will have charge of the Bulletin's campaign, and with an able corps of assistants will personally assist every candidate in the conduct of her campaign. New and original features in newspaper campaigns will be introduced, and the campaign will not only prove intensely interesting to every candidate, with the splendid rewards in store, but will also prove of the greatest interest to every reader of the Bulletin.

Candidates Nominated by Ballot.
Candidates must be nominated by ballot, and these nomination ballots will appear in each issue of the Bulletin for a limited time, but only one will be counted for each candidate. These nomination ballots will count 900 votes for each nominee, and daily coupons, which will be printed in the Bulletin, will each count 10 votes for the candidate whose name they bear. Other means of securing votes are by obtaining old and new subscriptions to the Evening Bulletin, both daily and weekly issues, each of which is worth a certain number of votes as enumerated in the complete contest section accompanying this issue.

The Contest Office is located in the Bulletin office, Alakea street, and is open each day and up to 8 o'clock in the evening. Candidates, prospective candidates and their friends, as well as anyone desiring information in regard to this great campaign, are invited to call and all such information will be gladly given and the campaign thoroughly explained. Telephone 2185 and 2256.

The interior of Lower California is possibly less well known from a geographical and geological point of view than any other region of equal area in North America, but the Mexican government last autumn equipped four exploring parties, each comprising two geologists, to explore the peninsula.
