

WIFE'S HEALTH RESTORED

Husband Declared Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Would Restore Her Health, And It Did.

Ashland, Ky. "Four years ago I seemed to have everything the matter with me. I had female and kidney trouble and was so bad off I could hardly rest day or night. I doctored with all the best doctors in town and took many kinds of medicine but nothing did any good until I tried your wonderful remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My husband said it would restore my health and it has."

TEACHERS' ACTIVITY

Thus the project which was suggested last January with a great fanfare of publicity and agitation "for the good of the rural children" has been summarily dealt with. As a substitute, however, the commission authorized the preparation of a plan, to be presented at the commission's next meeting—which probably will take place in July—for a course of vocational study in the rural districts, in which children twelve to eighteen years of age may receive instruction a part of each school day.

No further reason than that given above was assigned by the commissioners as their reason for delaying action on the Kahuku agricultural school project. Whether the talk that the Kahuku plantation and similar concerns were actively interested in the agricultural school propaganda, actuated by a personal viewpoint, had anything to do with the commission's decision yesterday, is not disclosed. After the final "dash in the pan" of the so-called insurgent element over the course of study subsided yesterday, the supervising principals were excused and the commission today has been pursuing the even tenor of its routine. Probably the most interesting feature to come now was the appointment of the supervising principals to serve the coming year.

The commission this morning gave its formal approval to the plans for the summer school, as already outlined by the superintendent and published in the newspaper some time ago. Most of its time was given to the discussion of the blue-print plans for new school buildings and proposed alterations in some of the present structures, a mere matter of routine.

The report of the supervising principals was passed upon in part, and the remainder was assigned to the consideration of a committee consisting of Inspector Gibson and four principals, who are to report back to the commission's meeting in July.

Though this is the second meeting of the year, the law requires the summer meeting to take place in June or July, and it is thought the present session will close before June. The present gathering was called chiefly because Commissioner Moir must leave shortly for Chicago, to attend the Republican national convention as delegate from Hawaii.

An important feature of the commission's work yesterday was the decision to give instructors credit for the number of years served in the Territory when they are removed from one school to another, thus enabling them to continue in the new position at the same salary held before the transfer took place.

The appointment and reappointment of teachers probably will be completed some time tomorrow.

M. Coakley, supervising principal of the Madison, N. J. public schools, died suddenly at a meeting of the board of education.

JUVENILES GOOD AS HIBERNIANS

Bostonian Youngsters Score Opening Success in Irish Romance.

CAST: Eileen O'Dare, Lela Mason, Kitty O'Dare, Daisy Henry, Tootsie Malone, Flo Myling, Joseph O'Grady, Ethel Stoddard, Spirie O'Dare, Billie O'Neil, Paddy Dolan, Florence Monroe, Con Harrigan, Dixie White, Dennis O'Neil, Doris Cantfield, Paul de Baum (Tom O'Dare), Barney Brannigan, Patsy Henry.

There isn't much plot to the offering that the Juvenile Bostonians are putting on at Ye Liberty Theater this week, but it is a merry, pretty Irish musical romance, with plenty of bright-eyed lassies and handsome, gay young Irish bucks in it, and it makes good with the audience from the start.

In fact, the bill this week is an improvement on last week's for the reason that the Irish scenes in "Rose of Blandeen" are just the kind to let the overflowing youth and spirits of the youngsters have full swing. Such a plot as there is in the bill began last night concerns itself with Tom O'Dare under an assumed name finally falling in love with the right girl without knowing who she is.

WOULD REPEAT "HIAWATHA"

So successful was the production of "Hiawatha" given last Saturday night by the girls of Kamehameha School that it is now planned to repeat the performance tomorrow evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The outdoor spectacle attracted a large audience on its first presentation and it is believed that many who did not get an opportunity of going the first time will be anxious to see the repetition. Miss Lemon, teacher of English, had the production in charge and has been much complimented on her success.

TRANSCRIPT WILL BE FILED IN MURDER CASE

A transcript of the proceedings taken at the preliminary hearing of John Gomes Henriques, accused of murdering a Japanese at Kona, will be filed with the papers in the case in the First Circuit Court at Honolulu. Henriques obtained a change of venue from the Third Circuit Court and the argument of his counsel on the motion for the change of venue is to be presented with the other papers in the case here. The trial cannot be held before the fall term, nearly a year after the crime was committed.

OPIUM DEALER FINED BY MONSARRAT

Pau Song, Chinese dealer in opium preparations, who was arrested by the police, was fined $100 this morning in the Police Court. The Celestial told the court he did not know it was against the laws of the Territory to furnish opium preparations to those who needed them.

TITANIC WIDOW STREWS FLOWERS ON THE SEA

NEW YORK, May 12.—Making a trip across the Atlantic to strew flowers on the sea in memory of her husband, J. H. Loring, who was lost in the Titanic disaster, Mrs. Henrietta C. Loring of Liverpool arrived here today on board the Carmania of the Cunard line. Mrs. Loring, who is ill, was in the care of a stewardess. The Carmania was stopped by order of Captain Dow last Friday evening when the ship had arrived at the meridian of longitude of the disaster, and Mrs. Loring scattered flowers on the water from the deck.

TATOOSH WIRELESS WILL BE POWERFUL

BREMERTON, Wash., May 11.—The Navy Department has approved the specifications for the erection of giant masts at the Navy wireless station at Tatoosh island, at the entrance to the Straits of Juan de Fuca. This action is in furtherance of a plan to make that plant the most powerful on the Pacific Coast, and the center of a chain of stations from Alaska to Panama and west to Honolulu. The two new masts will be 300 feet high and of wooden construction. Plans for steel masts were disapproved in Washington. Those in use now have a height of 175 feet each. The new masts, in addition to an increase in height of 125 feet, will be placed further apart, giving a wider spread to aerials and rigging. This will necessitate a more powerful apparatus, the specifications for which are now up for the approval of officials in Washington. If it were not for the moving pictures the world would forget that the Turko-Italian war is still going on.

RECREATIONS

BIJOU HAS GLASSY BILL

Harshest critics of Honolulu theater programs are troubled to find the flaw at which to pick in the Bijou's big vaudeville and picture show. After the first performance last night many remarked, "It's a mighty good show—and even the pictures are good." And it's true, too. Those who must criticize are confining their remarks to something about costume, or are expressing their opinion of a new song—usually one that is the hit of the year in the big cities. There was a spirit of expectancy in the Bijou before the curtain arose which was something like that manifest in the big city theaters at the opening of the theater season. Many of Honolulu's first-nighters were there to criticize or applaud. That they applauded anyone who was present will testify.

Featured on the program for this week are Lordy's fourteen dogs. To state that these dogs are good is to put it rather mildly—they are an entire show, with good measure thrown in. There is a dog that stands on one forefoot and does other difficult balancing stunts, while another seems to fill the position of ringmaster, as he sits about watching the others and occasionally turns a backward somersault to show that he is pleased with the efforts of his canine comrades. But to tell all that the performing dogs do would occupy much space. They have a double act, the first of which is acrobatic and the second "dog drama," with no necessity for speech, for the plot of the playlet is unraveled as plainly to the audience as a moving picture.

There are a great many people who wish they could "come back," like May Taylor does. She is the cheerful, vivacious soubrette who is back at the Bijou for a return engagement after a tour of Australia. She tells how glad she is to be back by a song she sings of "Take Me Back to Honolulu." May seems to have lots of Honolulu friends, for few professionals are ever greeted with the floral offerings that poured over the footlights for her last night. She got so many flowers she could not carry them all off the stage and had to make two trips. Her reception was that of a favored daughter, and a stranger—on account of the flowers—might have thought it was an amateur performance, but May's acting is swift denial to the thought, for she is as captivating as ever. All were her friends after her first "Hello, everybody!" What does she do? You'll enjoy it better if you are not told. The Japanese acrobats are the third strong act on the program and they deserve the applause given them. And the pictures are all well selected. You'll not regret seeing the Bijou bill but you will if you do not.

JUDGMENT AGAINST EMMA DEFRIES

Judge Cooper yesterday returned judgment ordering Emma De Fries to pay $50 to the Rev. Felmy, pastor of the German Lutheran church, on rent for which he had brought suit against her. At the same time the suit of H. A. Schroeder against the same defendant for $185 alleged to be due him for rental, which had been appealed from the Police Court, was withdrawn on the consent of the plaintiff.

BIG JOB COMPILING HOMESTEAD RECORDS

Just to be certain that the Acting Governor and his staff should have no spare time to squander during his absence, Governor Frear has left behind an order that all the homestead history of the last seventeen years be tabulated, and for that purpose had blanks, bound in book form, printed and stored in the basement of the Capitol building to be filled in by his staff during his absence on the mainland. Every bit of data concerning each homestead in the Territory is to be plainly written in these blanks, and when finished they are expected to prove highly valuable as reference in the future when questions arise concerning lands given for homesteading purposes. The Acting Governor and the private secretary, in billing these blanks, have a job before them that will occupy all their spare time for several weeks.

W. C. ACHI, SR., TO GIVE LUAU FOR SON

W. C. Achi, political leader in the Fifth District, is this evening giving a luau at his residence in honor of his son, who will leave for the States tomorrow to resume his study in Yale College. Young Achi has been a musical leader in his class, and his composition of a college song has won him notice.

Young Achi had eye trouble before he returned to Hawaii, but he has now recovered sufficiently to enable him to continue his studies in the law department of the college.

Besides the family, a number of the intimate friends of the Achis have been invited to the luau.

In reply to the demand of the finishing-department employes for an increase in wages, the J. and P. Coats Thread Company at Pawtucket, R. I., posted notices announcing a 10 per cent. raise for the workers in that part of the plant.
