A Full Text of the President's Message Respecting Treaty Rights of Chinese Subjects.

Individual Hardships Due to Ambiguous and Defective Acts of Congress—Conditions Physically Impossible to Perform.

THE MESSAGE.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The following is the full text of the President's message sent to the Senate yesterday respecting the treaty rights of Chinese subjects:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States: I transmit herewith for the consideration of Congress, with a view to appropriate legislation in the premises, a report of the Secretary of State, with certain correspondence touching the treaty rights of Chinese subjects, and a copy of the treaty between the United States and China, signed at Washington, on the 17th of October, 1858.

The hardship in some cases being remedied by the action of the courts. In other cases, however, the ambiguity of the statute has appeared to be conclusive against any action on the part of the courts. These cases are especially noteworthy, as they relate to Chinese subjects who have been admitted to the country under the treaty, and who are now being subjected to hardships which are not only unjust, but also physically impossible to perform.

LACERATED BY A PEN-HOLDER.

Trifling Death of a Child by Having One Run in Its Throat.

New York, April 8.—There is mourning in the home of Benjamin Tully on the third floor of the tenement at 102 Madison street. Little Nellie, his pretty six-year-old daughter, lies dead there. She was playing about in the narrow hall on Wednesday evening, shortly after six o'clock, while Mrs. Tully was busy in the kitchen. Nellie had picked up a pen-holder from the table where her father had been writing, and held it between her teeth as she ran through the hallway. Just how she managed to slip and fall is not known, but when her father ran into the hall he found the little girl lying helpless at the head of the kitchen doorway, with blood flowing from her mouth. She had fallen upon her face and driven the sharper end of the pen-holder into a few moments.

THE KNIGHTS IN EARNEST.

"We Are Going to Win This Strike if It Takes All the Resources of Our Order."

By LOUIS, Mo., April 11.—Mr. Bailey and other members of the General Executive Board, as well as prominent local Knights of Labor, state quite emphatically that the deputy sheriffs who fired on the people in East St. Louis Friday will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, that plenty of money will be forthcoming for that purpose, and that the best legal talent obtainable will be employed. Large amounts of money are coming here now to relieve whatever distress may exist among the striking Knights. As a fact given here by the Knights of Labor is that the subject of the Knights of Labor has entered into this strike, and we are going to win. We are going to win this strike if it takes all the resources of the order. To insure success, that is the size of it, and they can make their minds up to that. We know this, that if we are beaten in this strike the men who work for railroads will not be able to call their souls their own. That is the size of it, and they will be as bad as the coachman of Jay Gould. They dress him up like one of those monkeys on an organ [laughter], and on his hat is a cockade, which shows that he is a slave. It is his duty to get the men who work on his railroad. We must win this strike, and after this there never will be another strike on any railroad system in the United States. It will be a lesson to God, showing him that he can not crush the life out of his employes."
