

AT HAMBURG.

Cholera Victims Dying of Like Sharp Number of New Cases Developing Up to the Hour.

HAMBURG, Sept. 5.—Sunday was a cool autumnal day. The sky was cloudless and the sun was tanned the air agreeably. Ordinarily on such a day the streets are filled with promenaders and the harbor is dotted with small pleasure boats and excursion steamers.

The stillness of the streets, however, has been, as during the last five days, almost unbroken, and in the harbor hardly a dozen boats were to be seen moving at 3 o'clock.

The fresh cases of cholera discovered Sunday number 80, the deaths number 27. Compared with Saturday, the decrease of the number of cases is 75, of the number of deaths 33. There is much loose official talk to the effect that the work is over, that the plague is abating, and that the people are recovering from their panic.

It is difficult to name any specific sign of returning confidence among the people, and the mortality from the plague in the last two days certainly gives little basis for it.

The rise of the mortality from 500 on Friday to 800 on Saturday shows how vain were the hopes aroused by the slight abatement of the plague and the fact that the average of fresh cases for Saturday and Sunday is larger than at any previous time shows conclusively that the disease is at least not losing its hold.

Despite professions of confidence, however, the epidemic has become so serious that the authorities have been obliged to take steps to prevent the further spread of the disease.

Physicians have been placed on duty at all railway stations and orders for the health officers have been issued. Intermittent Sunday have been 67, or thirty-six more than Saturday. This increase is due partly to the sudden lengthening of the death list Saturday and partly to the extraordinary efforts of the authorities to get under ground the bodies which have been collecting locally at the hospitals.

At the present time, about 300 bodies were still stored at the morgue Sunday evening. With the new dead wages, however, these bodies can be interred, together with those of fresh victims, within the next twenty-four hours, unless the plague should spread more rapidly than now seems probable.

The procession of dead wages and bodies through the streets has become appalling. From any corner a dozen may be seen in five minutes, and on the roads to the cemeteries they pass in almost continuous lines. Places in which one would look for signs of returning confidence show none. Cafes, restaurants and hotels remain empty. Streets are bare, shops are closed.

Free Coinage, at the Ratio, is Conducive to Prosperity.

Blaine's Reciprocity Scheme Favored—The Making of this Country—The Figures Show What Has Been Done—Federal Election.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The following is a continuation of the article in the issue of the 29th of August, published for the office of the president of the United States:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3, 1892. I accept the nomination and am grateful for the approval expressed by the convention of the arts of the administration. The great work of the first congress has been subjected to the revision of a democratic house of representatives, and the acts of the executive department have been subjected to the scrutiny of a republican administration, and the freedom of events gives unusual facilities for fair criticism and judgment.

There has seldom been a time, I think, when a change in the declared policies of the democratic party involved such results in the business interests of the country. A brief review of what has been done and of what the democratic party propose to do, will justify this opinion. The number of national banks authorized by the act of 1863, which was based upon the security of United States bonds, and the increased result, that all such banks are now solvent, is a fact of which we should be proud.

Our money is all national money—its largest part international for these bills are not only equally and as perfectly convertible as the gold coins, but in some foreign countries. The democratic party, if intrusted with the control of the government is now pledged to repeal the act of 1863, and to issue a new currency, the establishment of which will be put into circulation again, under such changed legislation as the states may require.

The president says that few subjects have elicited more discussion or excited more general interest than that of a recovery by the United States of the appropriate share of the American carrying trade. This subject touches not only our pockets but our national pride.

It is a matter of course, that the president declares that the democratic party has found no place in its platform for a renunciation of the important policy by refusing to expend an appropriation made by the last administration for ocean mail contracts with American lines.

The president makes a lengthy statement in regard to the reciprocity policy. It is now in practical operation, and with the nations of Central and South America, San Domingo, the Spanish and British West India Islands, with the United States, and with special trade arrangements with such as Hawaii.

We have never failed to realize the benefit of these trade arrangements. The work of re-establishing and of adapting our goods to new markets has necessarily taken time, but the results are now being realized. It is now in practical operation, and with the nations of Central and South America, San Domingo, the Spanish and British West India Islands, with the United States, and with special trade arrangements with such as Hawaii.

The declaration of the platform in favor of the American doctrine of protection for our own industry, is a policy which has been followed by the democratic party. It is a policy which has been followed by the democratic party.

Provision Made for Fifty Thousand at Washington—Free Quarters Will Be Furnished in Barracks Made of Wood.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Chairman John D. Edson, of the executive committee for the reception and entertainment of the G. A. R., has issued a statement which is of interest to the grand army men throughout the country.

Mr. Edson says that the Washington executive committee arranged early in the summer to provide free quarters for 50,000 men, in excess of the number provided with similar accommodations in other cities at previous encampments.

Believing that the extraordinary limit thus fixed would be entirely ample, but anxious to quarter all who applied, the committee in the early part of last month, notified every G. A. R. post in the United States to communicate by September 1, if it desired free accommodations. Up to date free quarters have been provided for 55,000 members of the G. A. R., but even at this late day, in disregard of the injunctions of the circular, dilatory posts are making applications.

The barracks which have been erected are of wood, commodious and comfortable, but the committee finds that it will be absolutely impossible to erect additional quarters in time for the encampment. The decision has been reached with regret, that the posts did not make known their desires before waiting until too late for the committee to provide for accommodations. There are ample accommodations in hotels, boarding houses and private residences in the city for as many additional posts or private individuals as may apply, which can be obtained at reasonable rates by applications to Col. L. P. Wright, chairman sub-committee on accommodations.

RUSSIA'S CHOLERA VICTIMS. Over Six Thousand New Cases in One Day—The Pestilence Growing.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 5.—The statistics of the cholera epidemic in this country show that throughout the whole of Russia on Thursday there were 6,673 new cases of the disease reported, and that 2,714 persons died from the pestilence. In this city Saturday 120 new cases and 31 deaths occurred.

These thirty-one deaths, however, only comprise the mortality given in the hospital returns. During the last few days the number of unregistered new cases and deaths, which are chiefly confined to the people of the well-to-do class, has increased, especially on the islands in the River Neva, where wealthy people reside in the summer.

Private dispatches received here report that twelve deaths from cholera have occurred in Riga, and that the disease has also made its appearance in Kiel, which up to Sunday has been spared a visitation of the plague. Up to Saturday forty-seven new cases and eight deaths were reported in the government of Kiel. On Thursday sixteen new cases and eight deaths occurred in Sataloff. On the same day six new cases and eight deaths, and on Friday 392 new cases and 187 deaths occurred in Kusan. On Thursday 176 new cases and seventy-four deaths occurred in Orenburg, and 296 new cases and 132 deaths in the Don district. On Wednesday 702 new cases and 250 deaths occurred in Voronezh.

THE DEATH LIST. A Big Day at Quarantine—Vessels Tied Up.

QUARANTINE, S. I., Sept. 3.—The following is the official list of new cases and new deaths:

KENTUCKY THE GENER.

FRANKFORT, Aug. 31.—The session of the Kentucky general assembly opened today at 10 o'clock.

HOUSE.—The majority of the friends of the veto, forced the voting on a motion by Mr. Powell, who moved to correct the journal of yesterday to show that he had been appointed as speaker in the event of the passage of the bill.

SENATE.—The session of the Kentucky general assembly opened today at 10 o'clock. The session was held in the senate chamber.

FRANKFORT, Aug. 31.—SENATE.—Mr. Anderson, from the committee on courts of justice reported favorably the bill to establish a judicial council. Senator Stewart offered a resolution declaring an emergency for the veto of the bill, and also for the veto of the election bill so as to give some apparent effect.

FRANKFORT, Aug. 31.—SENATE.—Mr. Anderson, from the committee on courts of justice reported favorably the bill to establish a judicial council. Senator Stewart offered a resolution declaring an emergency for the veto of the bill, and also for the veto of the election bill so as to give some apparent effect.

the Light Opinion.

Lighting Ever Seen in a Railroad Tunnel—Rapid Success—A Little Gets First Blood.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—Jack McAuliffe has the light-weight champion, and was victorious in the first round.

The light, though short, was of the light long order and the contest was seen in the Olympic gymnasium.

McAuliffe's terrible right did the work in the fourth round. He knocked the challenger down and he was down on the shoulders of his second.

To canvas the rounds in detail is needless. To analyze the cause of victory and defeat is more to the purpose.

Any close observer of man, any keen student of human nature, saw at the outset that in his head, Myer did not expect to defeat his opponent. There was in his stolid face no glint of hard resolve. He was there because the match was made; because he had been trained for the encounter; because others, if not himself, believed there was a chance for him to succeed.

The two men were scarcely to be compared to scientific forms. One shambled, the other trod firmly; one slouched loosely as he squared away, the other was alert, springy, confident.

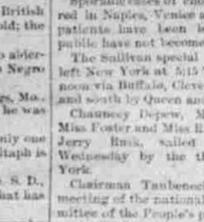

The offensive throughout the battle was assumed by McAuliffe. Myer to be sure, did occasionally. He could not know that his opponent was a scientific fighter. Myer's second, the other trod firmly; one slouched loosely as he squared away, the other was alert, springy, confident.

Physicians have been placed on duty at all railway stations and orders for the health officers have been issued. Intermittent Sunday have been 67, or thirty-six more than Saturday.
