AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

"Some years ago, I was in a terrible condition with a humor, or eruption, which broke out all over my face and body. Seeing the testimony of others as to the efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla in like cases, I concluded to give this medicine a trial, and the result was a thorough cure, no sign of the complaint making its appearance since. I have no hesitation in recommending Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best of all for such a kind of skin disease."—J. W. DEAN, Mass Point, Mass.

FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 1895.

The New Albany (Ind.) steam ferry works announces a fifteen per cent increase in the wages of its men.

Russia has gone to a gold basis. Chili has done so, too, after trying a silver and paper currency for seventeen years.

The first car of 1895 wheat to go on the market was sold at St. Louis last Saturday at 95 cents per bushel. How is that for prices, farmers?

The Ashland Daily News is the best daily paper published in any city in Kentucky the size of Ashland, or twice its size for that matter. It catches just about everything that is going, and deserves the hearty support it gets. We were not paid to say this, either.

The Republican State ticket is as follows: For Governor, W. O. Bradley; Lieut. Gov., W. S. Worthington; Auditor, S. H. Stone; Secretary of State, Chas. Finley; Treasurer, G. W. Long; Attorney General, W. S. Taylor; Supt. Public Instruction, W. J. Davidson; Register of the Land Office, Chas. O. Reynolds; Commissioner of Agriculture, Lucas Moore.

How would it do for Lawrence to send delegates to the Democratic State Convention unattached—at least as to the nomination for Governor—and send delegates who have no "axen to grind," and who hold the interests of the party above all other considerations? There is likely to be an opportunity to serve the party better in that way than by instructing for any of the candidates for Governor. We believe it to be the wisest plan.

The 16 to 1 advocates who think they are for bi-metalism should study the question deep enough to learn that their policy means silver monometalism. No point touching the money question is easier understood, or better established by experience and history, than that which proves that the free, unlimited coinage of silver, carried on independently by this country, means silver-monometalism.

Andrew Carnegie voluntarily increased the wages of his 25,000 men and gave as his reason the good, healthful condition of business and the bright prospects ahead. It will be remembered that he saw the panic coming early in 1892, as it was then that he made a reduction in wages. The judgment of such far-seeing men as Carnegie is worth a great deal to those who like to know the condition and prospects of business.

The News favors the free coinage of silver under an international agreement covering the great commercial countries, but is decidedly against independent free coinage by the United States. Until such an agreement can be reached we favor the gold standard, with as much silver as can be used without danger of shaking the confidence of the business world in the ability of our government to redeem the silver coin at their face value, regardless of real worth in the market of the world.

Winchester Convention.

The Democratic Convention which met at Winchester last week to nominate a candidate for Railroad Commissioner for this district adopted the following resolution: "As representatives of the Democracy of one-third of the Commonwealth met to nominate a candidate for a single office, we do not presume to believe that we are authorized to formulate a platform; but, as free men, with convictions we feel that it would not be amiss in us to express our views as to the policies that may be considered by the State convention, soon to assemble in Louisville.

We endorse the declaration of principles adopted by the National Democratic Convention at Chicago in 1892, and the conservative course of the party on financial questions which has restored confidence in the business future of our country. The reduction of the tariff has brought such relief to the people that even the Republican State Convention of Kentucky has not dared to demand the re-enactment of the McKinley act; the wiping from the statute book of the Force bill has brought the country nearer to free and fair elections than it could have hoped to be whilst under the control of partisan United States Deputy Marshals. The Republican party is responsible for laws which produced the recent business depression and those dangers which so seriously threatened our peace, happiness and prosperity have been happily removed by the firm and patriotic course of the Democratic party under the present Administration.

Even with the income tax eliminated by the action of a Supreme Court, which did not divide on political lines, and with the disturbance to business resulting from the commercial debacle into which we were led by vicious Republican policies, we find our Federal revenues almost sufficient to conduct the Government on the more economical lines enforced by the Democratic party. Capital is rapidly seeking investments in manufacturing enterprises, which will be more stable, because not unduly stimulated. Tens of thousands of laboring men have found in the substantial increase in wages that they have had this spring that the Republican policy of protection was not in their interest at all. The firm and healthy rise in the value of farm products has again demonstrated to our agricultural classes that freer markets will bring better prices to those who have a supply for sale. These and other conditions resulting from Democratic Administration of our national affairs are the answer that the Democratic party gives to the howls of the Republican press and speakers, and to all the charges that the agents of monopoly and class interests have used to prejudice the minds of the people during the period of financial depression, which was the logical consequence of Republican rule.

That we point with pride to that Democratic Administration at whose head is our matchless President, Grover Cleveland, and in whose councils is the great Kentuckian, John Griffith Carlisle, which has guided this Government from the abyss of financial ruin to the threshold of a prosperous future.

We would have the convention at Louisville boldly and defiantly accept the challenge made by the Republican convention just adjourned; to discuss before the people in the coming campaign the management of our State affairs since the Democratic party came into power in 1867. We venture to affirm that no Republican State has had its affairs conducted in a manner so clean, so economical, so honest, and yet so progressive.

We denounce the hypocritical and mendacious efforts of the recent Republican State convention to prejudice the minds of the people by demanding a "rigid inspection of the books" of our State Government, when it knew that they have ever been open as the day to all men.

To that great body whose course will not be dominated by the single will of an ambitious leader, but which will be composed of representatives of the free thought of every element of Kentucky's population we submit these suggestions with a confident trust that it will select honest, faithful and capable candidates for the various State offices, and that it will, in harmony, adopt a platform in keeping with the traditions of the party, and in furtherance of those policies that will be for the highest good of the greatest number of all our people."

The price of wheat is still climbing.

Dun's last review of trade declares that the tide of business is now rising as rapidly as it fell two years ago. Labor is finding employment, wages are increasing, and the farmer who has products to sell is "in clover."

That Banner Man.

There appears to be a renegade Democrat in Hopkinsville who poses as the editor of the Republican Banner; a man whom the Courier-Journal says was a delegate to the last Democratic State Convention held in California and was at that time running a staunch Democratic paper.

I understand through a Republican leader of this county that W. O. Bradley sent this man to Hopkinsville to run the Banner, which, coupled with the fact that he is a renegade Democrat, explains fully the partisan editorials in his paper.

I suppose he printed some "little innocent articles" in his Democratic paper while he was disgracing the party by being a member of it. I am glad he left the party and imagine he did so because he was sore over something, but I cannot conscientiously congratulate the Republican party on catching him, only so far as it is generally understood that both parties must have henchmen to "cuss" the other party, start up the campaign lies, and do the general dirty work; and it is evident that the G. O. P. has a fit disciple for such in the person of this J. Edmondson, and a nice record of it in the Banner.

What is one party's loss is another's gain. The Democrats lost nothing and the Republicans gained nothing—one party became purer by his leaving it; the other more corrupt by his coming to it.

He sent the Picket one of his editorials as a letter, which by slight-of-hand and the use of double leads they managed to use as a whole column of "fill-up matter."

In this article he undertook to criticize my "English," chew up the Democratic party, put the golden slippers on Bill Bradley, and work off one of his miserable campaign lies as "an innocent little article" which he did not have the gall to assert was true.

I admit that articles of that class are as innocent as they are untrue, in the vicinity where the people know the author to be a renegade ex-Democratic editor and a partisan of the bitterest type, who is running the paper under orders of the other political party, but this article was copied in the Picket and I thought possibly some one might read it and think the author of it had some foundation for it, hence my other article saying the author was a professional liar or an ignoramus.

Although I do not think Mr. E. knows as much as a frog about the purpose and workings of the State Board of Equalization, I have concluded that he did not write his little innocent article through ignorance, but partly from the uncontrollable habit and desire to say something rotten whether it is true or not, that other papers might use it as political news through the state; and he wrote it in such a deliberate and wilful manner that it is entitled to the name of a political lie, even if he did not know any better when he wrote it.

If he tells the truth (but he does not) when he says that both parties are agreed that the Board is a bad thing, why does he depend wholly on the Republicans to repeal it?

He virtually says that several counties kicked about the rulings of the Board. They did not do it in the presence of the Board or at the proper time, but all the committees expressed themselves to the Board as satisfied that justice would be done.

There's no doubt but what some sore-headed partisan Republican (like the Banner man) who was on some county committee wanted an excuse to offer his people for his being unable to influence the Board to make an unjust ruling in favor of his county and thought that cursing the whole Democratic party was the proper remedy.

Any one who is willing to accept justice is willing to accept an equalization board. Every county in the Big Sandy Valley was raised and not one of them sent a committee before the Board and not one has yet raised a howl, although their property as a rule is listed at as near 100% as any part of the state.

Mr. E. misconstrued what I wrote as maliciously as he misrepresented the whole affair.

He knew at the time he wrote his "little innocent article" that he wasn't trying to tell the truth when he said the Board was composed of a set of dead-beat politicians, sent there to do as they pleased. The Board is composed of four members, all decent, fair Democrats and not a dead-beat among them. They were sent there to do as the law directs and all of them Mr. E.'s equals for sense, and his superior for voracity and fairness.

As to their being politicians, one of them is a farmer, one a saw-log man, one a real estate man, and the other an editor who finds facts enough to run a decent paper and doesn't find it necessary to manufacture wilful "little innocent" campaign articles for filling.

Mr. E. has plainly shown the inside of his head and it shows him to be a jackass. I feel sure that a view of his ears would confirm this conviction. He will please print a picture of them at the head of the next column of "fill-up matter" which he furnishes to the hungry columns of the Picket.

J. J. JOHNSON.

The Democratic convention which assembled at Winchester last Friday to nominate a candidate for Railroad Commissioner was almost unanimously for sound money, there being but one county in forty-eight which had declared for free silver. Notwithstanding this fact, and that they were enthusiastic in their belief, their action was in commendable contrast to the rampant course of the free silver men at the convention in the first railroad district. Instead of a disorderly, howling crowd, it was a deliberate, reasonable gathering. They adopted resolutions indorsing the financial policy of Cleveland and Carlisle and reaffirming the Democratic National platform of 1892.

We are in favor of adopting the Bell county Democrats' financial platform. They demanded that the Government start a silver mine in every county, the mine to be located not over two miles from the county seat, and that every one be allowed a free and unlimited pick.—E. K. Democrat.

The Mt. Vernon Eagle publishes a very sensible and pointed article in regard to the race for the Governorship. He wants to dismiss all the present candidates and give the place to James B. McCreary. There are lots of other people just like him.

The Republicans did not succeed in making a nomination for Railroad Commissioner for this, the Third district, and adjourned to meet again on July 16th at Richmond.

The Allegheny Iron works has increased the wages of its men without the asking. It is working a full force over-time.

Hon. G. R. Keller was nominated for Railroad Commissioner on the first ballot at the Winchester convention last Friday.

Notice to Surveyors of Roads.

The following order was made at the special June term of the Lawrence Circuit Court:

It is ordered that each Surveyor of Roads of Lawrence Co., be compelled to make an official report to the Supervisor of Roads of Lawrence Co., on the first day of July and first day of October in each year, showing the number of hands in his district and the days worked by each, and the number falling to work. He shall also be required, under penalty, to work six days in each year with all his hands allotted to him and the Supervisor is directed to deliver a copy of this order to the Surveyors of Roads.

The road year ends on the last day of June, and the overseers shall see that the work is all in by that time. Overseers should warn all who have not put in full time. Report may be sent by mail, if sworn to.

4th of July Celebration.

Ed. News: There is something said of a proposed celebration on the 4th of July, in Louisville. This is right; patriotic celebration of our independence is one responsibility of citizenship. But how shall this be done? The manner depends on the object of the celebration. If it is to display the freaks of nature as manifested in large feet, ugly or pretty physiques, small hands or coxy progeny, then nothing very unusual needs to be looked for on posters. If it is to show which of our citizens have least regard for their personal safety, then a blind-wheelbarrow or sack race may be indulged. If it is to determine who most craves swine or pelf, then a greased pig or pole may be the center of attraction. If it thought that the public are in doubt as to who can step farthest and fastest, then a race around the public square may decide that perplexing question. Or it is thought that the public generally crave frivolity, let the usual program, with little exception, be carried out and the end will be sufficiently attained. But is this genuine patriotism? Is this the way to thank the Lord for liberty? Such procedure is not worthy of the heroes who secured (under providence) the liberty we enjoy. If the patriots of 1776 were to witness a 4th of July celebration in this country, we hardly think they would recognize this as the land for which they lived, fought, bled and died. The writer dictates to none, but suggests to all that there should be more real American patriotism displayed on the 4th of July. There should be a stirring speech describing the times and circumstances under which the declaration was adopted. Patrick Henry's great speech, Webster's supposed speech of John Adams, and other similar orations and articles should be read. Then the Declaration of Independence should be read in a manner and spirit worthy of it and its author and its signers, and its defenders. A patriotic sermon should be preached, showing the hand and providence of God in history. Also a speech on the rise and progress of our country. Of course the exercises would be interspersed throughout with suitable music, vocal and instrumental. Such other exercises as would be desirable, should be added, but these should be indispensible.

A Remarkable Cure
BY THE
Electropoise.

"A most remarkable case came under my observation a short while ago. A lady of high social standing became a slave of opium, and together with other troubles, had brought her to such a state of mind that she attempted suicide. For more than two years she was unable to sleep scarcely any at all. Other remedies having failed to do any good the Electropoise was used with almost magical results. She slept like a babe all night the first time treatment was applied (now over a month ago), and has improved wonderfully, sleeps well and has a good appetite. Has not taken a particle of morphine or any other drug. It is wonderful!"

These and all other statements regarding the Electropoise are vouched for by good men. Mr. Meek will verify this and has written and said a great deal more. Unless about ten thousand men, mainly professional men—lawyers, doctors, editors, preachers and all other classes including the writer—are very much mistaken, the Electropoise effects cures and gives relief where all other known remedies have failed. Especially is it efficacious in cases of feeble women and delicate children. I have used the Electropoise for the past two years and find it invaluable as a curative agent.
