HIS DEAR OLD MOTHER.

"My dear old mother, who is now eighty three years old, thrives on Electric Bitters," writes W. R. Brunson, of Dublin, Ga. "She has taken them for about two years and enjoys an excellent appetite, feels strong and sleeps well." That's the way Electric Bitters affect the aged, and the same happy results follow in all cases. Female weakness and general debility. Weak, puny, children too, are greatly strengthened by them. Guaranteed also for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, by A. M. Hughes, Druggist, etc.

IN MEMORY.

Death has again been in our midst and this time has taken the dear wife of Harvie Jordan. Aunt Jane was a kind and loving woman and was well liked by all who knew her. She had been a member of the church for many years. She leaves an aged husband, seven children and a host of friends to mourn their loss. Weep not, uncle Harvie, but keep faithful and meet Aunt Jane where there will be no more parting and no more good byes. Children, weep not for mother but be ready to meet her where parting never comes. The burial services was conducted by Rev. McKinster. The body was laid to rest in the Jordan grave-yard.

Camp Columbia, Havana Cuba.

Dear Editor: I have observed that men in general have reasons for what they do, and that one of the differences between men in general and men of marked ability is that the latter have better reasons for what they do than the others have. So it is with the Cuban question today. The class of Cubans who are trying to start revolutions, organizing into bands and committing deeds of outlawry of course have reasons for their actions, but what are they? Why does a nation of people presumably civilized indulge in such warlike actions? Not more than a month ago plans were made by a number of prominent leaders of the 1906 mix up to start a revolution and oust the Americans from the Island, but the affair was tipped in the bud by the provisional Government before it got into a good headway, resulting in the arrest of three Generals, who had proclaimed themselves leaders, and attitude of the inferior class of Cubans toward the Americans is anything but good. Not long ago an attempt was made to blow up our magazine here in Camp Columbia, which contained a thousand pounds of powder and two thousand rounds of shell and shrapnel for the field and mountain artillery. The attempt being unsuccessful our camp was saved from a terrible disaster. The revolutionist as we saw him upon our arrival here last year was anything but new in appearance. About his only comparison was that of a graduate of a military school by his age the boy reported that he was never but the revolutionist could believe him to be some one thought this a boy could not do so early in seven years.

On our first journey to Cuba we were informed by American boys in Havana that the revolutionist was a boy who had been in the army for some time and was wounded. The wounded man mentioned himself as a boy who was the only son of a man who had been a member of the military school. The revolutionary cause, however, he rated every word, for they have applied every ounce of their power to keep Cuba out of the clutches of anarchy.

THE SIOVEN.

She came to the breakfast table in a torn, dirty dress, with half combed hair. The table was without a cloth, the breakfast badly cooked. The children were dirty and quarrelsome, and she saw them slip away to school without attempting to wash their faces or change their soiled aprons. Her husband had hastily swallowed a cup of coffee and left the house without a word to wife or children.

She sat for a while gazing indifferently at the untidy table and disorderly room, and then began lazily to set things in order. She dawdled over her work without spirit or system, and the children were home from school before the beds had been touched. The two oldest girls hurried up the stairs with scowling face at her scowling command to them to make up the beds. Dinner was half an hour late and her husband stormed up and down the untidy house, ate an ill-cooked dinner in sullen silence and hurried from the unpleasant home. The children followed, scattering to the neighbors, to the barn, anywhere away from home and mother. The darkness drove the various members of the family into the house again, but they came unwillingly, and slipped away to bed uncared for, cross and wretched with their badly nourished bodies, and hearts that hungered for the peace and comforts of home.

Do you think this is an exaggerated picture? It is not. There are homes just like this, and the dirt and disorder and discomfort and heartache lie at some woman's door.

For the overworked wife and mother, for the invalid, for the penniless who are trying to learn, who are doing their level best to bear a heavy burden, we offer pity, sympathy and help, but for the indolent woman we have only scorn.

There is no place in the universe for a lazy woman. We will care for the sick woman, we will tolerate a cross woman—but what shall we do to the lazy woman. Because the home is the very center of life, the home-kept must be active, orderly and conscientious—these qualifications she must have, and if she can add to these, thrift, intelligence and tenderness we find wherever she is, that most blessed and beautiful of all earthly delights, a happy home.

ETERNAL DISH WASHING.

We may in this item be repeating to our lady readers a tiresome truth, but it will show them at least one editor appreciates their real condition in life. The quiet fidelity with which "she" will dish-wash her life away for "him" is a marvel of endurance and grace. Just here is the servitude of woman the greatest. No sooner is her work done than it requires to be done again. Man works up jobs, ends them, and takes his pay. This pay can be translated into something else desirable. A man works all day and draws pay for his day's work. This pay allures him, as oats a horse, homeward bound. Thus men work by terms and jobs; and although work is endless as to quantity, yet when cut up thus into terms and jobs, we men go heartily on our journey and count our milestones. Not so with our mate, if we are so fortunate as to have one. She mends our socks, and we put our irrepressible toe upon the darned spot and she darns it again. "She" washes for the family and the family makes haste to send back the same garments to be washed again. "She" puts the room in order and we get ready to be "rid up" again. The same rocks, the same washing, the same room every time. She has no successive jobs, no terms, no pay day, no tally-stick of life. She washes the same dishes three hundred and sixty-five—yes, three times three hundred and sixty-five times every year. No wonder she breaks it and is glad of it. What a relief it must be when she can say "I have done with that dish."

GO TO FARMING.

A good living is what comparatively few men succeed in making in village or city life, and yet nothing is more easy of accomplishment on the farm. Besides, there is a pleasure in cultivating and embellishing the earth, improving and increasing its products, and thus adding to the aggregate of human happiness. Why, then, should young men hesitate to be farmers? It is both profitable and honorable. It is the nearest approximation to independence that a man as a member of society, can make. A gentleman farmer—and all farmers are, or should be, gentlemen—belongs to an order of nobility that is not indebted to place-holders for installation, and may, if he chooses, be ranked among the greatest benefactors of the human race. Let the idle young men go to work on farms, and quit seeking third and fourth rate clerkships. In short, go to farming and quit begging. THE IRON BAR.

A bar of iron worth $5, worked into horse shoes, is worth $10.50; made into needles, is worth $255; made into pen knives blades is worth $3,265; made into balance springs of watches, it is worth $250,000.

What a drilling the poor bar must undergo to reach all that. But hammered and beaten and pounded and rolled and polished, how its value was increased! It might well have quivered and complained under the hard knocks it got; but were they not all necessary to draw out its fine qualities, and fit it for higher offices?

So we say to the children and young people who weekly read this department, all the drilling and training you receive at home and at school and which seems so hard to you, is all necessary to bring out your nobler and finer qualities and qualify you for more responsible posts and greater usefulness in the world.

THE SPOKEN WORD.

Boys and girls, what is it you can never catch, though you chase after it on the wings or the wind? You can never catch the word that has once left your lips. Once spoken, it is out of your reach; do your best you can never recall it. Therefore, take care what you say. Never speak an unkind word, an impure word or a profane word.

How much would neighbors rise in value, and how much would neighbors rise in beauty, if all should lay aside habits of criticism, and neighborhood scandal, and petty feuds, and ridicule. And if men should study the things that make for peace, and the things that make for happiness, every body trying to make everybody else happy, what a revolution there would be.

Memory presides over the past; action over the present. The first lives in a rich temple hung with glorious trophies, and lined with tombs; the other has no shrine but duty, and it walks the earth like a spirit.

A good conscience is the best looking-glass of heaven; in which the soul may see God's thoughts and purposes concerning it reflected as so many shining stars.
