Important News Gathered from Abroad for the Benefit of Our Readers.

During a fire which destroyed the Russell Hotel, at Wickliffe, Ky., A. T. Berrick, a lumber dealer, met his death by suffocation.

The work of rescue among the villages in the south of France which suffered from the earthquake continues, but owing to the fact that communications are the greater interrupted details of the disaster are few. There were slight seismic shocks again Saturday morning in various districts, but no damage was reported.

Capt. John L. Raymond, Second United States Cavalry, was shot and fatally wounded and First Sergt. Jas. E. Washburn and Corp. Elijah Smith were wounded by Corp. Lisie Crabtree, who afterward fatally wounded himself at Fort Des Moines following a reprimand. Crabtree asked for a transfer and when refused began firing.

If Governor Deneen, of Illinois, follows the opinion of Attorney General W. S. Stead he will veto the maximum price schoolbook bill which passed both houses of the General Assembly by practically unanimous votes. Because the bill does not fix maximum prices to be paid for all books that are used in the schools it is held by the Attorney General to be class legislation and therefore unconstitutional.

State Inspector M. L. Thatcher will send out a letter of instruction to all county clerks, informing them as to their duties in collecting taxes from circuses. The law provides that a circus shall pay $1 for each one hundred persons in the city where the show is exhibiting.

At that rate the tax on every circus exhibiting in this city should be twenty dollars. And the tax on shows like some which visited Louisa recently should be absolutely prohibitive.

The Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the United States Senate, died at his home in Roxbury, Mass., Thursday.

By an aye and no vote of 40 to 30 the Senate adopted the Finance Committee's recommendation restoring the Dingley rate of 30 cents a pound on wool top waste and other wastes. The House rate was 29 cents. Progressive Republicans generally voted with the Democrats against the increase.

A bronze tablet on the residence occupied by Jefferson Davis during the years from 1875 to 1878 was unveiled in Memphis by Miss Lucy White Hayes, granddaughter of the President of the Confederacy.

Mobile was selected as the next meeting place of the United Confederate Veterans. Only one ballot was necessary, Mobile receiving a majority over all competitors. Gen. Clement A. Evans, over his protest, was re-elected commander-in-chief. The election came after a stormy session.

The heroic statue of Gen. Stephen D. Lee was unveiled with impressive ceremonies at the National Military Park at Vicksburg, Miss. Henry Waterson presided and delivered an address on "The Reunited Sections." Gen. Clement A. Evans, Commander-in-Chief of the United Confederate Veterans, presented the statue to the Federal Government, and Gen. Frederick Dent Grant formally received it on behalf of the Government.

The United States postoffice inspectors are convinced that they have rounded up the ringleaders of the Black Hand who have been operating in Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and other cities in the same territory. The letters seized, they say, show that the society was known to its members as the "Order of the Banana" and was well organized with secret grips and passwords. Nine arrests have been made and more are to follow.

Wireless telegraphy played a prominent part in the saving of the crew and passengers of the Cunarder Shenandoah, which is a total wreck two miles southwest of Flores Island. The steamer Princess Irene was torn away when the call "C. Q. D." was picked up.

Frankfort, June 12—While playing "Wild West Show" in "Battle Alley" this morning, Anna Kennedy, aged 18, shot Campbell Johnson, same age, through the bowels and left side. Both are doctors and the shooting was entirely accidental. Johnson's mother dreamed last night that he would be shot and begged him to go to work this morning instead of playing around in the alley. He did not mind her and got shot this morning while the dream.

Winchester, Ky., June 12—While playing in "Battle Alley" this morning, two young men named Johnson, who lived near Varden, got into deep water, and, becoming entangled in the net in their efforts to save themselves, were drowned. The bodies were recovered. Another boy named McIntosh saved himself.

Augusta, Ky., June 12—In making excavations for a foundation in the heart of Augusta a large number of human bones were found, which were in a fair state of preservation, but soon crumbled when exposed to the air. The bones were evidently those of Indians, killed in battle, as all kinds of war utensils, etc., used by the Indians were found beside them. One skull in perfect condition was found with a stone spear thrust through the temple. It has developed that the site of Augusta must have been the battle ground for the Indians in the early days, as the bones have been found in a number of sections of the town, showing plainly that the bodies were never buried, but were left where they had fallen in battle. Augusta was settled by the whites in 1797, consequently the bones have lain from since long before that time.

The appeal of Beach Hargis, convicted of the murder of his father and given a life sentence in the penitentiary, was filed in the Court of Appeals by his attorney, Judge D. B. Redwine. The papers were put to record and it is expected that a decision will be handed down before the court adjourns for the summer vacation, although the time is short. The court will adjourn in about a week.

While working in the slaughter house of his father, Taylor Collins, a butcher of Frankfort, Earl Collins, aged 28 years, slipped on the floor, foot, landing on the point of a piece of wire and in his hand. The wire pierced the young man's heart, killing him instantly.

Reports from Central Kentucky show that the damage done by recent rains will reach $2,000,000. Dams along the river were swept away with many bridges, bridges on the Louisville and Nashville railroad were damaged and the city of Louisville was inundated. It is estimated that a single day's work would be necessary to rebuild the city.

Frankfort, June 12—That the next state senate will be dominated by a wide majority seems to be a certainty, judging from the returns on the counties to be read this fall. The fact that the county officers in a great majority of the counties are democrats and that they are to be voted for this fall means that the Democrats will have an extra strong campaign committee in each county to bring out the vote. It is figured that the majority of the counties in the State will go Democratic this fall, with the county officers to help and that means Democratic success in the legislative and senatorial campaigns.

Beattyville, Ky., June 12—Deputy United States Marshal William May accidentally shot and killed Daniel Beard today while trying to arrest him in Oades county on a charge of moonshining. May, with General Conner and Arthur Bryant went to the still last night and stayed all day, who with W. Wilson, was completing the still, same this morning. May demanded that Beard surrender. Wilson gave up, but Beard ran and May ran after him, firing one shot at the side of the hill away from Beard for the purpose of stopping him, and could have caught him. Beard's horse fell and his gun was discharged, killing Beard almost instantly. After seeing that the dead man was properly taken care of, May brought Wilson to Beattyville for trial.

Shocking! Miss Hilda Clarke, of Chynville, Posttattan county, was swinging in a hammock on the veranda of her home watching the darkening of the storm clouds, when a playful bolt of lightning struck her sweater close to the gutter, tipped the sickle horse from her limb and shattered a high heeled flipper.

That other disease than that of typhoid water supply must be found to explain the continued prevalence of typhoid fever in different communities appeared to be the general sentiment of the Hygienic Conference at Washington, while the subject was under discussion. Dr. Lunsden, of the hygienic laboratory, stated that approximately 10 per cent. of all cases of the disease in Washington during a period of investigation were believed to have been due to milk. The necessity of a thorough study of the disease throughout the country was emphasized.

Consistency, Thou Art a Scarce Article.

A negro who shot into a crowd at a circus in Frankfort last week and wounded a man was taken from jail early the next morning and hanged by a mob. Governor Wilson has expressed a vast amount of what the press terms "righteous indignation" over the affair, particularly as it occurred almost in the shadow of the Capitol and the Executive Mansion. Well, the NEWS also condemns the act of the mob, and is justly indignant, but some years ago a mob assembled in that same Frankfort, thirsting for the blood of William Goebel. Too cowardly to attack him bodily a member of the mob, with Taylor's pardon in his pocket, shot him from a window in the Executive building. No one heard Mr. Wilson express any "righteous indignation" over that foul crime, and the chief conspirators in the plot today carry pardons signed by the Governor.

WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

The Wyoming (W. Va.) Tribune gives a two column account of a ridiculous revival in the town of Pineville and a column and a half of applications for license to carry revolvers or other pistols.

The Tribune gives its space free gratis for nothing to the church, but it comes out even by charging the usual legal rates for publishing the applications of the would-be pistol totes.

Dr. N. B. Ferguson, a Huntington physician, formerly of Wayne county, and quite well known in this city, is now facing a grave charge. The Huntington Advertiser says:

"Chief of Police Ross and Officer O'Connell arrested Dr. N. B. Ferguson on a warrant charging him with having performed a criminal operation on a 17-year-old girl, whose home is at St. Albans. The complaint was made before Magistrate Gregory by the girl's uncle, J. E. Phillips, of Hurricane, and G. C. Patton, of St. Albans, with whom the girl had made her home for several years. Warrants were issued against the other two men, both of whom live outside of this section of the county with conscripts in the alleged case. Ferguson went from Wayne county to Louisa, where he is said to have performed a similar operation on a girl.

There is no doubt about it, there is enough oil in Wayne county to make every man, woman and child in it rich. Scarcely a day goes by without a man being found who is rich and that is a rich county, indeed.

The first of the many phantoms, young ladies of the town of Wayne, to be claimed this year as a duppette was Miss Bessie Adams, daughter of Chapman Adams. The fortunate man and successful wooer was William Johnson Napier, son of P. H. Napier, and the time and place of the happy occurrence was Wednesday, June 9, at the home of the bride in Wayne.

The oil well at the forks of Bear creek in Cabell county, just across the Wayne line, was brought in Sunday and was a 10-barrel producer. The well belongs to Giffey and Galley, a Pennsylvania firm.

Wednesday afternoon near Nantawatch, on the Twelve Mile division, at the N. & W. railroad, Capt. Dan K. Alvis, of Cordele, was fatally shot by a miner, whom the conductor had put off of the train. According to reports, Wednesday afternoon five men sat on Capt. Alvis' train at Nantawatch, which was the local freight running from Kenova to Williamson.

When their presence on the train was noticed by Capt. Alvis they told him they were going to ride from that place to Walnut Hill mines, a mining camp which has been recently opened on Pigeon creek about two miles from Nantawatch. The conductor told the men it was against his orders to allow such passengers and that they would have to get off. At first they refused, but finally left the train and as they did so, one of them, said to be Cain Munsey, shot at Capt. Alvis. At first it was thought the wound was fatal, and the wounded man was taken on an engine to Williamson, twelve miles beyond where the shooting occurred. The doctors were unable to determine the full extent of the injury but expressed the hope that the wound was not necessarily fatal.

Six men were killed and fourteen seriously injured in an explosion of a blast furnace at the Wheeling Steel and Iron Company, Wheeling, W. Va.

Charleson, W. Va., June 9—Judge Parlett in the Circuit Court 2001 of the prison of the Coal & Coke railroad and enjoined Attorney General Conley and Prosecuting Attorney Davis, of Kanawha county, from enforcing the 2 cent fare law as to that road. In the division Judge Parlett declared the 2 cent fare not was unreasonable and discriminatory.

In the Circuit Court of Fayette county, Judge Bennett questioned the applicants for license to carry pistols very closely. In connection he says the "others" the following warning: "I have a lot of you young fellows, a gambling lot will get a good deal to appear before me and demand an action to break the same license. A drunk man is a dangerous man and I will revoke a license just as soon as I can. I will not give a license to a drunk or gambler. I want you all to be sober and law-abiding."

William Weaver, aged 17, and his sister, aged 15, were arrested at their home in a suburban town in Wayne county, W. Va., and locked up in the jail. They had been caught by the police for carrying a gun. The police found a gun in the house. The boys were charged with carrying a gun. The girls were charged with harboring a criminal. The boys were charged with carrying a gun. The girls were charged with harboring a criminal.

Slide Shows.

We are a team of K. Z. Slides, or at least we must be in the estimation of some of the "slane" people who have visited Louisa recently. During the Slane's career the presentations which have carried away so much of our time, and which have been the cause of the Slane's popularity, are the people brought to them through the Slane and are the Slane's most beautiful to see and hear. Slane's neither appearing nor interesting. The story that Louisa is a well kept will be credited to the various outlets, and we may look for similar visitations in the future.
