

THE TESTAMENT TIMES BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

THE WISDOM FROM ABOVE

Daniel 1, 19-20—Sept. 10
"It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby the brother should be drunken."—Romans 14, 21.

AMONGST the earlier captives brought by Nebuchadnezzar from Jerusalem some twenty years before its destruction, were four young men of evidently noble birth and religious training, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah. These captives were not maltreated nor enslaved, in the ordinary sense of the term. Their intellectual qualities were discerned, and they were put into a superior school that they, with others, might be fitted to constitute a board of wise men, counselors of the king. So different is all this from the nepotism, "graft" and "pull" of our day that it seems almost incomprehensible.

We may here learn a lesson of how God is able to make even the disasters of life work out blessings for those who are truly loyal to Him, even as faithful Daniel and his companions were blessed and prospered in the enemy's land.

Advantages of Abstemiousness

The young Hebrews were attached to the king's household and were provided with extraordinary delicacies, including spirituous liquors. The policy of the king in providing sumptuously for all the students was that, being well nourished, they might be their best physical and mental condition. This lesson shows that it is a mistake to suppose that high living is specially conducive to intellectual activity. From the beginning, under God's providence, the department of Daniel brought him into special favor with the prince of the eunuchs, who had in charge the temporalities of these students. There is something in a meek and quiet spirit that is impressive; and as a rule such a spirit comes only from a proper, religious training. To

... appealed, requesting that the fine food and liquors might have a plain vegetable request was granted. An informant of the period of their time in the king's household with Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, and in the wisdom and understanding which the king accorded them he found them to be better than all the magicians and enchanters that were in his kingdom.

The Secret of Daniel's Success

What was the secret of this wisdom and understanding? Did not the secret lie in the blessing of God and in the fact that these young men sought to devote their lives to the doing of the will—of the doing of righteousness? Such minds anywhere, at any time, are scarce. Such minds always are wisdom. On the other hand, near to selfishness, the grinding of axes, always becloud the mind and his companions—men—of whose will give the service of their fellow-men in whatever sphere their lives are to be a Daniel of our day can be his position and opportunity, and though spirits as was Daniel, the same spirit of righteousness will be tested, unflinchingly, step by step, as they go on their way, as they follow the footsteps of Him who is our Lord Jesus. Let all who have named the name of Christ be faithful. What is really needed is the Daniel spirit; and that is a quality with every man and every woman, young or old. "Dare to be a Daniel." Alas! how few appreciate the privilege, how few are emulating the spirit!

... throughout this Age, are very similar to that of the great King of Glory who is the School of Christ. He selects a few to be joint-heirs in the Kingdom when it is established. The test of excellence will be found in the lives of the truth-followers in the world. Of these the Lord says, "They shall be Mine." "That Day when I will be glorified."—1 Thess. 1, 10.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE.

A man thinks he knows it all, until a woman begins to enlighten him.

Consider that your visitors come to see you, not your pantry.

Let the children have a good time—childhood does not last long. Age is incapable of the fine enthusiasm of youth.

A hotel is often more a home than a palace. If the spirit of congenial friendship links not the hearts of the inmates of a dwelling it is not home.

There are too many fathers who will tie up the dog at night and let the boy run loose.

The woman who has a home and keeps it well has no narrow sphere in life. In the home is the hope of the nation and the church.

This world is but the stepping stone of an immortal life. Every action of our life touches on some chord that will vibrate in eternity.

Times are not near so hard with some men when they want a plug of tobacco as when their wives ask for a pair of shoes.

Better appreciate your mother before your appreciation of her will be no kindness to her, and the post mortem regrets will be more and more of an agony as the years pass on. Big headaches of polished Aberdeen and the best epitaphs which the family put together could compose and a garland of whitest roses from the conservatory are often the attempt to atone for the thanks we ought to have uttered in living ears and the kind words that would have done more good than all the calligraphies ever piled up on the silent mounds of the cemeteries.

Let us all remember that the higher and happier our home life, the more wisely and better we may hope to do the work that lies waiting for us beyond it. A pleasant place to "come home to" is the greatest energizer a man can have. Then let us strive with an earnest and constant purpose to make and keep the home cheerful, inviting and pleasant.

We often find farmers who lose no chance of securing machinery for saving labor on the farm, but who don't think anything about the machines that save labor in the house. That is out of their province and they don't seem to care enough about it to give the matter any attention whatever. Such treatment is calculated to discourage the woman. It is the worst kind of selfishness.

In the ideal home the ruling principle will be love. Love to the Supreme Ruler of the universe and love for each member of the family. Here the golden rule will be followed in all intercourse of one with another. Perfect harmony exists between parents in regard to the management of household affairs and the training of the children. The same rules of courtesy will be observed that we expect to find in society.

A girl who is gentle, brave and spirited; who is unselfish, high-minded and intelligent; who has sweetness and depth of character; who does not think of herself, but works for the happiness of others; who is merry and dainty and wholesome, as a girl should be, will never lack either lovers or friends. She is the light of the home, a good friend to her sisters and brother, and the sunshine of old folks. God bless her.

Home is a magic word, and we seldom fail to analyze it. A little Polish girl in a public school was asked recently to write a definition of "home." "A home," she wrote, "is where people live, and where a man or somebody comes home and finds people there, and then eats!" "And then eats!" To how many thousands of men that is the end and aim of coming home! To how many thousands of women the preparation of the food to be eaten is the chief business of home-making!

There are two ways of spending a dollar bill. You can spend it at home, gain an easy conscience, make another friend and perhaps get the dollar back tomorrow or you send it away, feel that you have sinned, offend the home merchant and forever lose the dollar and the blessed influence for good to yourself and neighbor.

When a man in search of a home or business location goes to a town and finds everybody full of hope and enthusiasm over the prospects of the place he, too, soon becomes imbued with the same spirit, drives down his stakes and goes to work with equal interest.

Every school boy knows that a kite would not fly unless it had a string tying it down. It is just so in life. The man who is tied down by half a dozen blooming responsibilities and their mother, will make a higher and stronger fight than the bachelor, who having nothing to keep him steady is always floundering in the mud. If you want to ascend in the world tie yourself to somebody.
