HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE AT EVENING TIDE.

A Crowd of Children.

Out from under flaming chandeliers and off from imported carpets, and down the granite there is coming a great crowd of children in this day untraced, untraced, incompetent for all practical duties of life, ready to be caught in the first whirl of crime and sensuality. Indolent and unfaithful mothers will make indolent and unfaithful children. You cannot expect neatness and order in a house where the daughters see nothing but slatternliness and up-side-downness in their parents. Who are the industrious men in all our occupations and professions? Who are they building the wall, tiling the roof, weaving the carpets, making the laws, governing the nations, making the earth to quake, and heaven and roar and rattle with the tread of gigantic enterprises? Who are they? For the most part they are descended from industrious mothers, who in the old homestead used to spin their own yarn and weave their own carpets and plait their own door mats and flag their own chairs and do their own work. The stalwart men and the influential women of this day 99 out of a hundred of them came from such an illustrious ancestry of hard knuckles and homespun.

The Aged Christian Mother.

To us it is a beautiful sight to see an aged Christian mother basking in the sunset of a life that has been nobly lived. We visit her at her home. There she sits—the old Christian mother—ripe for heaven. Her eyesight is almost gone; but the splendors of the Celestial City kindle up her vision. The ray light of heaven's morn has struck through the gray locks which are folded back over the wrinkled temples. She atoops very much now under the burden of care she used to carry for her children. She sits at home today, too old to find her way to the house of God; but while she sits there, all the past comes back to her and the children that forty years ago trooped around her arm chair with their little griefs and joys and sorrows—those children are all gone now. Some caught up into the better realm, where they shall never die, and others out in the broad world, attesting the excellency of SCOTT'S EMULSION improves the quality of breast milk—it supplies the material for bone and muscle—if scanty or thin, it makes it rich and abundant.

For bottle babies a few drops of emulsion with every feeding produces marvelous effects—makes new, firm flesh and ruddy health.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is the cream of the purest cod liver oil delicately emulsified into tiny particles resembling maternal milk and each particle is coated with glycerine—no alcohol or stimulant—a wholesome, nourishing, strength-making food.

a Christian mother's doctrine. Her last days are full of peace, and calmer and sweeter will her spirit become until the gates of life shall lift and let the worn out pilgrim into eternal spring-tide and youth where the limbs never ache and the eyes never grow dim, and the staff of the exhausted and decrepit pilgrim shall become the palm of the immortal athlete.

Cultivate a habit of being interested in noble and beautiful things.

Ideals, aspirations, longings for the high and glorious things of life are the normal feeling of youth. Let us carry them with us through life and they will help to keep us young. Put away disagreeable things, put them out of your mind and life as soon as possible. If you lose the illusions of youth, replace them with the truths of life, which you will find as beautiful and more inspiring. Keep envy and malice out of your heart. Refuse to be gloomy, discontented and morbid. Be cheerful and insist upon it in others, or rather, it will be unnecessary to insist upon it. Nothing is so contagious as cheerfulness and hopefulness. One cheerful woman can leaven a whole household. Those about us reflect to a great degree our attitude toward them. If we believe in our children and friends we will find them becoming more worthy of our faith.

The prevailing idea of the time is to make everything as pleasant as possible for the children.

And the principle seems almost unquestionable. It would seem a little short of barbarous to be otherwise. But some good things are spoiled by overdoing, and it may be that we are overdoing the attempt to make everything pleasant and agreeable for the rising generation. In the home, in the school and in church our whole study may be to please the child and make the way easy. But when the household net passes into the business world, the way is not made easy. Grim difficulties confront it on every hand, and nothing but pluck, patience and perseverance will overcome them. But the child that has always been entertained and helped along an easy way is not likely to possess these important qualities. There is no surer way of making anarchists than to pet and pamper the rising generation until it must take care of itself.

How many Christmas days, how many June days, how many fair mornings, dewy, fresh and sweet with summer bloom does it take to make up the summer mornings of fifty years? How many snow falls, cold bleak mornings, of snow and ice and dreary midnights, does it take for half a century of years? How many births and how many deaths, how many proud hopes to rise up into grand results and totter over and bury the hopeful builder in the ruins? How many heart-throbs, how many heart-aches, how much joy, how much grief are crowded into fifty years? Reader, this is a beautiful thought for you.

NO NEED TO STOP WORK

When the doctor orders you to stop work it staggers you. I can't say you say. You know you are weak, run down and falling in health day by day, but you must work as long as you can stand. What you need is Electric Bitters to give tone, strength and vigor to your system, to prevent break down and build you up. Don't be weak, sickly or ailing when Electric Bitters will benedict you from the first dose. Thousands bless them for their glorious health and strength. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. ONLY 50c at all Druggists.

Several Southern Senators have declared that any reorganization of the Republican party that would eliminate the negro from the party would be a move for the better.

WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

DOINGS OF PEOPLE WHO LIVE JUST ACROSS THE RIVER.

West Virginia's highest mountain is located in Pendleton-co. and is known as Spruce Knob. Its altitude according to the United States Geological Survey, is 4,860 feet. The lowest point in the state is on Potomac river—240 feet above sea level. The average elevation of the state is about 1,500 feet.

Speedy justice was meted out to Walter Tucker, the hobo who assaulted and almost killed William Suits at Kenova a few days since. Tucker was indicted for assault with intent to kill and was tried by the circuit court last week. He was found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary at hard labor for ten years.

While riding a freight near his home this morning, Carl Pratt, of Chatteroy, fell under the wheels and had his left leg mashed. He was brought to the Williamson hospital on No. 18 by Dr. Price, of Chatteroy, where together with Dr. Harris and Dr. Nunamaker they amputated his leg just above the ankle.

Carl is 16 years old and is a brother of the agent at Chatteroy. He was apparently jumping on and off the cars just for the fun of it, but jumped once too often. Dr. Harris stated this evening that his chances for a rapid recovery were good.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 17.—Because of failure of the plaintiff, Delegate S. V. G. Rhodes, to appear in Squire Gilchrist's court this morning, his charges of bribery preferred against William Seymour Edwards, which resulted in the arrest of Mr. Edwards one day last week, failed, and the case was dismissed by Squire Gilchrist.

The charges made by Rhodes were stated as founded upon the evidence of Delegate John M. Smith of Tyler-co., and Mr. Smith, who was present in Justice Gilchrist's court this morning, took the stand and stated that Edwards had never talked to him (Smith) but once, and asked him to vote for him, and never offered him money, bribe or other valuable things.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 21.—Federal Judge Nathan Goff was elected United States Senator from West Virginia by the Legislature in joint session to-day. It was stated this afternoon that Judge Goff would resign from the Federal bench immediately upon his election.

Judge Goff received all the Republican votes cast and all the Democratic with the exception of some who voted for Senator Clarence Watson. None of the six members of the Legislature against whom charges of bribery are pending took part in the session.

Judge Goff will succeed Clarence W. Watson for the six year term beginning March 4, 1913.

A deal of vast magnitude, involving $500,000 and the transfer of a tract of immensely valuable coal and timber lands in Logan-co. was closed last week, when the deed to a tract of 6,600 acres on Buffalo creek in Logan-co., was made by Huntington and Charleston capitalists to the Buffalo Creek and Coke company, a newly organized corporation.

The principals in the deal are the Buffalo Creek Coal and Coke Co., promoted by Sydney B. Robertson, of Logan, on the one side, and J. L. Caldwell, of Huntington, Crawford & Ashby and J. G. Porter, of Charleston, and Jno. McClintock of Lexington, Ky., the owners of the property.

The Buffalo Creek Coal & Coke company is said to be backed by almost unlimited capital. Prominent coal operators of Atlanta, Georgia, are financing the company, represented in the deal by Messrs. Alston & Alston, attorneys of Atlanta. The Buffalo Creek Coal and Coke company was originally the Buffalo Coal Co. This corporation was the principal owner of the lands involved, and some time ago sold its holdings to the Hector Coal and Coke company. This company was reorganized by Mr. Robertson and became the Buffalo Creek Coal and Coke Co.

HOW ONE WOMAN WON

Her Health and Strength Back Again by the Use of Cardui.

Tampa, Fla.—In a letter from this city, Mrs. E. C. Corum writes: "I was all weakened and worn out with womanly troubles. My husband brought me some Cardui as a tonic, and, from the first day, it seemed to help."

I had almost lost my reason, but, thanks to Cardui, I did not. Soon, I felt and looked like a new woman. I think the remedy is wonderful. I recommend it to my friends, for I have received great benefit from it."

Cardui acts specifically on the weakened womanly organs, strengthening the muscles and nerves, and building them up to health.

It helps to refresh the worn-out nervous system and relieves the effects of overwork, both mental and physical.

Fifty years' successful use fully prove the merit of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

In every community, there live some who have been benefited by Cardui. The beneficial effects of this time tested woman's remedy, soon show themselves in many different ways.

Write for Ladies' Advice Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "How to Treat Women's Diseases," sent in plain wrapper on request.

been made by former owners of the property, but the new owners expect to open up the entire Buffalo creek field to development as soon as possible.

A verdict of not guilty in the Edwards case was returned by the jury at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon after half an hour's deliberation. The jury was given the case at 1:30, the morning session having been taken up by the arguments of counsel.—Mingo Republican.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 22.—Just before the Legislature adjourned finally this morning at daybreak, it passed the bill which provides for the construction of a system of state roads by convict labor. All male persons sentenced to terms of imprisonment within the State, even though the sentence is imposed by a justice of the peace, for a short period, are liable for duty on the road gang.

After a trial lasting three full days, John Dingess, accused of the murder of Amos Barker at Dingess last fall, was acquitted Wednesday in the Circuit Court. A verdict was reached by the jury a short time after the arguments by counsel had been concluded.

Judge James Damron was disqualified from sitting upon the trial of this case and Attorney Charles H. Jones was selected as special judge. Prosecutor Stafford represented the State and Attorneys F. H. Evans and Wade Bronson were appointed by Judge Jones to conduct the defense.—Mingo Republican.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 22.—Incendiaries in the strike region, forestalled by the presence of State troops from making attacks upon mining towns, again applied the torch to property in the district at an early hour this morning and burned the home of Major Jno. B. Payne at Desota.

When Major Payne and his bride two months were awakened by the fire at 4:30 o'clock this morning the entire first story of their residence was ablaze. Sheets were knotted into a rope and the young bride was lowered from the second story window.

To save his own life Major Payne was required to jump from the same window while tongues of fire swept the bedroom. He escaped with a few bruises.

In another fire at Belle Claire, on Cabin creek, Edward McConihay narrowly escaped. Major Payne, who has charge of the mine watches, is the commander of a battalion in the West Virginia National Guard, but with many other members of the guard remained on duty in the strike field in the employ of the coal operators after the troops were withdrawn from the strike district several months ago.

The two Parkersburg companies of the National Guard who have been guarding the Capitol at Charleston for several days were ordered home to-day.

A century old book, mellowed with age, long dormant in the archives of the Cabell county court house tells a romantic story of the area, once roamed by Indians, on which Huntington now stands.

King George III. of England, in December 15, 1772, gave to Captain John Savage, and the soldiers which he commanded in the French-Indian war a tract of land extending from the Big Sandy river to the Guyan river and bordering along the Ohio. There was a total of 28,627 acres of land in the royal grant. The land was parceled among the soldiers with little regard to topography and this fact led to a suit entered in the Staunton superior court, of Virginia.

This action at law was due to the fact that some of Captain Savage's troopers had "bottom" lands, while the tracts of others were composed entirely of hills. The suit was styled William Coleman and others against Simon Morgan and others.

The court ordered a survey of the land and General Edward W. Tupper, who was described as "an expert mathematician" was selected for the job. General Tupper divided the land so that each soldier might have some "hill" land and some "bottom" land.

Years passed and gradually most of the land owned by the soldiers was sold to the state for taxes. Extremely low prices were paid for what has since become highly valuable real estate.

Then with the arrival of Collis P. Huntington came the actual start of the city. The entire tract was bought by Huntington, and later sold to the old Central Land company much of the holdings of which have since been acquired by the Huntington Land company.

The city of Huntington starting from a village now has 40,000 people and prospects for 100,000 within a few years.

The book at the court house containing the entire procedure that surrounded the gift of George III. to Captain Savage and his troopers and has been worn and frayed by frequent inspection. The story of the early history of Huntington is still legible, however.
