If you would revel among the most beautiful of shade trees, the monarchs of the South, the Live Oaks, go to Ocean Springs, Mississippi. Drink from its Mineral Springs and enjoy the ozone from the stretch of wheel road along the sound.

Live simply among its plain but hospitable small hotels or private boarding houses; you will never forget the view of the Gulf you have had, or the rejuvenating atmosphere that you have enjoyed during your stay.

Biloxi might be called the Riviera of the Gulf Coast. It was settled by Iberians in 1659. It was part of the Louisiana possessions and was the first colony planted by the French in the south.

As it is true that you will find there the old civilization and the new. Truthfully we may also say that it is one of the most restful, healthful and charming resorts on the North American continent.

We have found it most delightful just following the Christmas holidays in mid-winter; but it is also most agreeable in the summer time, as the breezes from the Gulf of Mexico fan the shore at some time of each day.

Many legends have been centered at Biloxi, which doubtless had their origin from the time of the Indian to later civilization. A grand old oak with gnarled and twisted branches and hanging moss, stands in the churchyard of the picturesque church of the Redeemer—it has been the basis of many a legend and verse.

How beautiful are those homes along the beach where nature has been undisturbed. Beyond the narrow streets of Old Biloxi one can sit again the shell road, pass the "home for guests" and the lighthouse and be a welcome guest also at one or more of the beautiful private villas lined along the shell road. Several of these have their own private piers with boat-house or bathing-house at the end of the pier, way out on the water. Boating, bathing and fishing are recreations that belong to the out-of-door life of Biloxi nearly all the year round.

Biloxi is not wholly dependent upon tourists. It has an all-the-year round population. A Tourist Club is sustained during the winter months from a colony largely of middle states northern people who center there yearly from mid-winter to early spring. It is an attractive adjunct to Biloxi during that time. Never has the writer seen more glorious sunsets or more beautiful moonlights. What more fascinating than the silvery sheen in the wake of a white sailboat as she silently glides along. Her hold may be filled with oysters which she may be carrying to be unloaded at some oyster houses a mile or so around the bend of the bay, or it may be that with scrimp from deeper waters she is laden. If you happen to be the next morning, where the boat is being unloaded you will find it a process worth seeing. Inside of a long building all is activity, men, women and children are employed by the hundreds in opening the oyster shells. The oysters are first dropped into tubs of water and the last process is when they are placed in cases which are sealed and neatly labeled and then are ready for the market.

There are homes for the workers and their families who live near the plants or oyster factories. There is also a Settlement House not far away with beautiful trees about it with kindergartens and playgrounds for the children, who are thus cared for while their mothers are at work at the oyster houses. The season is short and consequently the earnings are for only a short time of the year.

Again and again from the cold rigid winters of the north we shall seek the shore of Beautiful Biloxi and perhaps now and then for a respite in the summer, also.

So when you make up your route for trips South henceforth, we advise you by all means to include Biloxi or Ocean Springs.—Carlyle Porter.

These are two of the popular and attractive resorts in the beautiful Gulf Coast and reached by the modern steel passenger trains of the

Louisville & Nashville Railroad
