DENNIS

Several from this place are attending the revival at Brammer Gap. Diphtheria is, at present, a prevalent disease in our vicinity. However, no new cases have developed within the past few days and we hope it is now subdued. The children of John Compton and Jake Arrington have been its victims but we are informed that all are now on the road to recovery. Schools in this locality are progressing with good attendance and much interest being manifested. Kentucky schools are coming to the front and we all heartily endorse the movement of better qualifications for teachers. We think our children are entitled to the best that can be obtained for them and to do honor to "Old Kentucky" they must have a good stock of this world's knowledge. We also think the compulsory attendance law a great thing and many older ones find themselves wishing there had been measures to this effect enforced in our own school days. If this had been done we probably to day would find more people all over Kentucky engaged in profitable business and a less number in moonshining, gambling and other notorious habits which can only lead to crime and destruction. Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bradley passed through here Sunday. Reba N. Cooksey was at Dennis Friday. Neva Blankenship spent Friday night with friends here. Leonard and Webb Watson were visitors at Dennis school Tuesday afternoon. George McGuire of Louisa was a caller at J. A. Rice's Saturday. McCHORD TO LEND AID IN SHIPPING ROAD MATERIAL

Washington, Aug. 19.—Accompanied by Senator Richard P. Ernst, Joe S. Boggs, Kentucky State Highway Engineer, and Green Garrett of Winchester, chairman of the State Highway Commission, called on Charles C. McChord, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, today and discussed the problem of getting road materials shipped to Kentucky. They explained that some 5,000 men now employed on highway construction and repair in the Bluegrass State would have to be dismissed within the next thirty days unless additional shipments of materials could be obtained. Mr. McChord assured his fellow-Kentuckians that he would be glad to assist as far as possible, and that he would advise them if anything can be done to expedite the shipment of road materials.

Humphreys Uncovers New Oil Pool in Texas

The following refers to Mr. Humphreys, of Charleston, W. Va., known to a number of people in this region: Discovery of an important new oil pool is indicated by a wild cat drilled by the Humphreys Oil Company near Kosse, Texas, and which is producing oil at a rate estimated between 5,000 and 6,000 barrels a day, according to reports just received by the Pure Oil Company. The development is regarded by the company as the most important and significant since the discovery of Mexia by these same interests. The well began spraying oil at a depth of 2,750 feet, and when drillers began to pull the tools, the pressure of oil blew them out of the hole with a gusher flow of oil. The location is entirely new with no other drillings in the vicinity. Drilling was started September 1, 1921, and the first showing of oil was noticed on May 1 at a depth of 3,896 feet. On May 8 3,400 feet of five-inch casing dropped 300 feet and the work was held up by fishing, which was not completed and the hole cleaned out until August 12, when at a depth of 3,700 feet drilling was resumed. Pure Oil-Humphreys interests have 2,200 acres in this locality, making a solid block of leaseholds, and the discovery well is located on the Jones lease, slightly west of the center of their holdings and a mile and a half northwest of the town of Kosse. The oil produced is clean, with a gravity of 29.4 degrees, and a color similar to a dark green lubricant. Some idea of the significance of this new pool discovery is suggested by the fact that the discovery well in the Mexia pool made only 299 barrels a day initial. This production was from the Woodbine sand at 2,065 feet. As in the case of the Mexia development, the Humphreys Oil Company in which the Pure Oil Company has a 25 per cent interest, has the advantage that accrues to the successful wild cat in the new pool near Kosse, by reason of practically uncontented choice of acreage in the area which has been mapped by the company's geologist as having oil possibilities. In Mexia field the Pure Oil-Humphreys interests are now producing an output equal to over 50 per cent of the total in the Mexia district. The producing properties of these interests have been consistently averaging considerably over 30,000 barrels daily for the last several months.

Institutions Cost State $1,742,289

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 18.—Total expenditures of the Department of Charities and Corrections for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, amounted to $2,042,651.23, according to the annual report made public by J. P. Byers, commissioner. This amount included the expenses for the central office and for the seven public institutions under the department's control, the three State hospitals, feeble-minded institute, house of reform, State reformatory and State penitentiary. Earnings of the institutions totaled $320,371.31, making the department's net cost to the State $1,742,289.92. Expenditures at each of the institutions were as follows: Eastern State Hospital, $325,266.59; Central State Hospital, $443,771.78; Western State Hospital, $284,610.33; Feeble-minded Institute, $169,636.04; State House of Reform, $187,721.35; State Reformatory, $453,592.95; and State Penitentiary, $352,479.94. Expenses of the central office were $54,532.26. The average per capita cost for the year of all institutions was $265.25 as compared with $281.50 for the preceding year, a reduction of 11.65 per cent. The report shows that the total daily average number of inmates for the seven institutions for the year was 7,016.

IN MEMORY

Mrs. Eliza Kimbler died at her son's home, E. S. West, Blaine, Ky., Aug. 20, 1922, age 68 years. She leaves a loving husband, son and daughter-in-law, three grand-daughters and seven grandsons, two brothers, Enoch and Ervin Herd, and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

"Aunt-Liza" is she was called had been a consistent christian for years. She was fully reconciled during her last days and had no fear of the future. We will miss her in our neighborhood, but we believe our loss has been her great gain.

A good citizen, a fine neighbor and a devoted mother has gone to be with Him who said "Well done, good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things; enter thou into the joy of the Lord." This again the gates of heaven have opened to receive a redeemed soul with work all done and suffering ended.

By the passing of our dear neighbor the world becomes more lonely and less attractive and heaven sweeter and more to be desired. She is now in the presence of her Master while we are longing for the reunion.

Let us work and pray that soon he will come again to receive us unto himself and that where he is we may be also. A FRIEND.

SELLING PENNIES BY WEIGHT PROVES TO BE LOSING STUNT

An amusing incident was witnessed yesterday by a Daily News reporter while on one of his regular trips to a near-by town. Happening to stop in a small general store, he found there, besides the proprietor and clerks, a traveling man who seemed to have a peculiar fondness for pennies. The owner of the store was well blessed with copper pieces and was engaged in weighing them on the scales. He figured they weighed eighty cents to the pound, and as he had five pounds, he offered them to the traveling salesman, sack and all, for four dollars. The salesman took the offer, gave the owner four dollars and walked out with the coppers. The News man accompanied him to the station where they proceeded to count the pennies, and found that he had received seven dollars and forty cents and a good canvas sack for four dollars. The moral to this story is: "Always count your pennies" before giving them "a weigh."—Williamson News.

SAVINGS CERTIFICATES.

Columbus, Ohio.—As an evidence of the increasing popularity of Treasury Savings Certificates with the general public, the Savings Division of the Fourth Federal Reserve District announces that the sales of these certificates for the seven months ending July 31 exceeded $95,000,000, as compared with sales of less than $20,000,000 during the same period of 1921. Sales during the month of July exceeded those during any previous month of the year. Of the $95,000,000 sold, over 16 per cent were purchased by investors in the Fourth Federal Reserve District.

With all issues of Liberty bonds and Victory notes selling above par, Treasury Savings Certificates, paying 4 1/2 per cent interest compounded semi-annually, and subject to no market fluctuation, yield a higher return to the investor than any other government obligation. These certificates can be purchased at practically all post offices in denominations of $1000, $100 and $25. They mature in five years and are exempt from all state and local taxes and the normal Federal income tax.
