IN MEMORY OF L. P. MAYO.

Mr. Lewis P. Mayo was born January 22, 1857, and departed this life October 4, 1922, his age being 65 years, 8 months and 12 days. Mr. Mayo was a member of one of the best known families of Floyd county, Kentucky. The name Mayo is a household word all along the Big Sandy valley. The Mayo family has always stood for fine citizenship, education and Christianity.

Lewis Mayo's father was one of the pioneers and ranked with the very best men of the county in which he lived. He was a Methodist and was one of the charter members of the First Methodist church that was built in his community, the old Johnson chapel, now Mayo Memorial, located on Beaver creek, Ky. The early training which Lewis received when a mere lad, gave him cast of character for his manhood. He was for several years Circuit Court Clerk of Floyd county, also practiced law in the county for a number of years. He was instrumental in the organization of the First National Bank of Prestonsburg and was its assistant cashier for a number of years. On account of falling weak 13 years ago, he purchased a farm and moved to Hoyd county, ten miles from the city of Ashland where he spent the remainder of his days.

Mr. Mayo's first marriage was to Miss Music, a daughter of the late William Music of Cannonsburg, Ky., to this union was born two daughters, Mrs. Babe Ross of Cannonsburg and Miss Cora Mayo, who lived with her father until his death. After the death of his first wife he married Miss Douglas May of Prestonsburg; to this union was born one daughter, Mrs. R. W. Taylor of Maxie, Texas. Mr. Taylor is at this time field manager of Lewis Oil Company. Besides a devoted wife and three daughters, Mr. Mayo leaves behind three brothers and two sisters, namely, Seymour and Joad Mayo, both of whom live at Beaver creek, Ky.; Mrs. Thomas Allen, Verdun, Okla.; Mrs. Ben Fairchild, Beaver creek, Ky., and Prof. Marion Mayo, St. Louis, Mo., who is at this time professor in Harris Teachers College of that city. He received his education in this country and spent some time in Germany in pursuit of further instruction.

Mr. Mayo won his way into the affection of many of the people of Hoyd county during the short remaining years of his life in their midst which was seen in the gathering of a large number to pay their respects to his memory on Sunday Oct. 8, when the funeral was held at his late home at 10 o'clock by the writer.

Mr. Mayo was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South for a number of years previous to his death. He was not a demonstrative man, but in a quiet way he gave testimony to his faith in Christ and but a few hours before his death he told his good wife that he was ready for the change at any time. He was a patient sufferer for the last ten years of his life. With him death seemed to be a welcome guest. But a short time before he passed into the unseen he said that he heard beautiful music. Who knows but that it was the Angelic choir whom God had sent to give assurance to his spirit as he crossed the mystic stream. After the short services conducted by the writer and beautiful music rendered by the male quartet of Catlettsburg the body was laid to rest in the beautiful Ashland cemetery to await the trumpet call at the last day. The following were the pallbearers: Honorary, Prof. W. M. Byington of Louisa; G. W. Calvin, John Mouch, Mr. Springer and W. M. Scott of Ashland, Active, A. J. May and H. L. Mayo of Prestonsburg and O. P. Powers, Frank Ross and Elijah May of Ashland and Green Ross of Catlettsburg, Ky. May the richest blessing of our Father rest upon the sorrowing ones. L. N. FANNIN.

Queer Feelings

"Some time ago, I was very irregular," writes Mrs. Cora Robie, of Pikeville, Ky. "I suffered a great deal, and knew I must do something for this condition. I suffered mostly with my back and a weakness in my limbs. I would have dreadful headaches. I had hot flashes and very queer feelings, and oh, how my head hurt! I read of
