

Two Dollars per annum, strictly in advance—$2.50 if not so paid, and $3.00 if not paid within the year.

Those who expect to receive the CIVILIAN & TELEGRAPH for $2.00 must pay invariably in advance.

Those in mind that no paper will be discontinued until all arrears are paid.

THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS. If a subscriber enters the discontinuance of their newspaper, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.

Those who expect to receive the CIVILIAN & TELEGRAPH for $2.00 must pay invariably in advance.

Those in mind that no paper will be discontinued until all arrears are paid.

THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS. If a subscriber enters the discontinuance of their newspaper, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.

Those who expect to receive the CIVILIAN & TELEGRAPH for $2.00 must pay invariably in advance.

Those in mind that no paper will be discontinued until all arrears are paid.

THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS. If a subscriber enters the discontinuance of their newspaper, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.

Those who expect to receive the CIVILIAN & TELEGRAPH for $2.00 must pay invariably in advance.

Those in mind that no paper will be discontinued until all arrears are paid.

THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS. If a subscriber enters the discontinuance of their newspaper, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.

Those who expect to receive the CIVILIAN & TELEGRAPH for $2.00 must pay invariably in advance.

Those in mind that no paper will be discontinued until all arrears are paid.

THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS. If a subscriber enters the discontinuance of their newspaper, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.

Those who expect to receive the CIVILIAN & TELEGRAPH for $2.00 must pay invariably in advance.

Those in mind that no paper will be discontinued until all arrears are paid.

THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS. If a subscriber enters the discontinuance of their newspaper, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.

Those who expect to receive the CIVILIAN & TELEGRAPH for $2.00 must pay invariably in advance.

Those in mind that no paper will be discontinued until all arrears are paid.

THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS. If a subscriber enters the discontinuance of their newspaper, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.

Those who expect to receive the CIVILIAN & TELEGRAPH for $2.00 must pay invariably in advance.

Civilian & Telegraph.

MINERS' AND MANUFACTURERS' JOURNAL.

VOLUME XXXIV.

CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 23, 1861.

NUMBER 21.

Religious Services.

Presbyterian—Liberty Street. Services in the morning at 10 o'clock, and evening at 7 o'clock. Pastor—Rev. J. H. Symmes.

Methodist Episcopal—Centre Street. Services in the morning at 10 o'clock, and in the evening at 7 o'clock. Pastor—Rev. M. Barnhart.

Episcopal—Washington Street. Services in the morning at 10 o'clock, and in the evening at 7 o'clock. Pastor—Rev. G. W. Burns.

German Lutheran—Belmont Street. Services in the morning at 10 o'clock, and in the evening at 7 o'clock. Pastor—Rev. F. Vaasler.

St. Patrick's—Centre Street. Services in the morning at 10 o'clock, and vespers at 4 o'clock. Pastor—Rev. Edward Brennan.

St. Peter and St. Paul—Payette Street. Services in the morning at 10 o'clock, and vespers at 4 o'clock. Pastor—Father Scelos.

St. Joseph's—Baltimore Street. Services in the morning at 10 o'clock. Pastor—Rev. A. Lasser.

Second German Lutheran Church—Centre Street. Services in the morning at 10 o'clock, and afternoon at 2 o'clock. Pastor—Rev. Louis Blitz.

Iron and Brass Founders, George's street, CUMBERLAND, MD.

James S. Robinson, Paper Warehouse, No. 21 South Charles St., Baltimore.

Do you want to buy a good watch, clock, or jewelry, etc.?

S. T. Little's. Have you ever desired to buy an inferior article elsewhere?—If so, go to S. T. Little's.

Cheap for Cash. If you want your watch or clock put in good order, go to S. T. Little's.

Silver and Plated Ware. A fine assortment of silver and plated ware.

J. H. Kelebeck's, Next to Post Office, Baltimore St. July 19, 1860.

Richardson's Irish Linens, Damaks, Diapers, &c.

Have you seen the Prince of Wales? In our call at S. T. Little's Jewellery Store.

Almanacs! Almanacs! English and German Hagerstown Almanacs for 1861.

Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Agency. New Style! $50.

Unrivalled Machines, at manufacturers prices. Full instructions in use of the machine given to all purchasers.

Tobacco and Segars. Just received and for sale a full assortment of the choice given to all purchasers.

Patent Lard Lamp. The subscriber is now manufacturing Patent Lard Lamps, which he offers for sale.

Medical House.

11 South Frederick St., Baltimore, Maryland. Established in order to afford Sound and Scientific Medical Aid.

DOCTOR SMITH. HAS for many years devoted his whole attention to the treatment of private complaints.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Let the unfortunate bear in mind when affliction overtakes him, that he should not lose his head.

Poetical.

The Old Wooden Church on the Green. BY HENRY MONFORD.

They are all laying hands on the things I loved best.

They are all closing up my dim past.

They are all heaping sorrow upon Memory's breast.

Till but little is left me at last.

And I think of the things that have been.

And the memory comes like a nursery rhyme.

Of the Old Wooden Church on the green.

It is little and old in this plentiful age.

It has neither a steeple or bell.

It is bowing its roof to the pitiless rage.

Of the storms it has battled so well.

It is guileless of glass, and the paint's washed away.

In the storm and the sunshine I swear.

For no kind hand attends, for this many a day.

To the Old Wooden Church on the Green.

Beneath the mossed roof the small swallow nests hang.

And the bees live and swarm in the eaves.

And the loveliest swains with a sorrowful clang.

When the wind through the Church-yard grieves.

Neglect and decay are around the old walls.

Dark ruin looks over the scene.

Oh, sad is the sound of the lone foot that falls.

Poetical.

The Old Wooden Church on the Green. BY HENRY MONFORD.

They are all laying hands on the things I loved best.

They are all closing up my dim past.

They are all heaping sorrow upon Memory's breast.

Till but little is left me at last.

And I think of the things that have been.

And the memory comes like a nursery rhyme.

Of the Old Wooden Church on the green.

It is little and old in this plentiful age.

It has neither a steeple or bell.

It is bowing its roof to the pitiless rage.

Of the storms it has battled so well.

It is guileless of glass, and the paint's washed away.

In the storm and the sunshine I swear.

For no kind hand attends, for this many a day.

To the Old Wooden Church on the Green.

Beneath the mossed roof the small swallow nests hang.

And the bees live and swarm in the eaves.

And the loveliest swains with a sorrowful clang.

When the wind through the Church-yard grieves.

Neglect and decay are around the old walls.

Dark ruin looks over the scene.

Oh, sad is the sound of the lone foot that falls.

Poetical.

The Old Wooden Church on the Green. BY HENRY MONFORD.

They are all laying hands on the things I loved best.

They are all closing up my dim past.

They are all heaping sorrow upon Memory's breast.

Till but little is left me at last.

And I think of the things that have been.

And the memory comes like a nursery rhyme.

Of the Old Wooden Church on the green.

It is little and old in this plentiful age.

It has neither a steeple or bell.

It is bowing its roof to the pitiless rage.

Of the storms it has battled so well.

It is guileless of glass, and the paint's washed away.

In the storm and the sunshine I swear.

For no kind hand attends, for this many a day.

To the Old Wooden Church on the Green.

Beneath the mossed roof the small swallow nests hang.

And the bees live and swarm in the eaves.

And the loveliest swains with a sorrowful clang.

When the wind through the Church-yard grieves.

Neglect and decay are around the old walls.

Dark ruin looks over the scene.

Oh, sad is the sound of the lone foot that falls.

Poetical.

The Old Wooden Church on the Green. BY HENRY MONFORD.

They are all laying hands on the things I loved best.

They are all closing up my dim past.

They are all heaping sorrow upon Memory's breast.

Till but little is left me at last.

And I think of the things that have been.

And the memory comes like a nursery rhyme.

Of the Old Wooden Church on the green.

It is little and old in this plentiful age.

It has neither a steeple or bell.

It is bowing its roof to the pitiless rage.

Of the storms it has battled so well.

It is guileless of glass, and the paint's washed away.

In the storm and the sunshine I swear.

For no kind hand attends, for this many a day.

To the Old Wooden Church on the Green.

Beneath the mossed roof the small swallow nests hang.

And the bees live and swarm in the eaves.

And the loveliest swains with a sorrowful clang.

When the wind through the Church-yard grieves.

Neglect and decay are around the old walls.

Dark ruin looks over the scene.

Oh, sad is the sound of the lone foot that falls.

Poetical.

The Old Wooden Church on the Green. BY HENRY MONFORD.

They are all laying hands on the things I loved best.

They are all closing up my dim past.

They are all heaping sorrow upon Memory's breast.

Till but little is left me at last.

And I think of the things that have been.

And the memory comes like a nursery rhyme.

Of the Old Wooden Church on the green.

It is little and old in this plentiful age.

It has neither a steeple or bell.

It is bowing its roof to the pitiless rage.

Of the storms it has battled so well.

It is guileless of glass, and the paint's washed away.

In the storm and the sunshine I swear.

For no kind hand attends, for this many a day.

To the Old Wooden Church on the Green.

Beneath the mossed roof the small swallow nests hang.

And the bees live and swarm in the eaves.

And the loveliest swains with a sorrowful clang.

When the wind through the Church-yard grieves.

Neglect and decay are around the old walls.

Dark ruin looks over the scene.

Oh, sad is the sound of the lone foot that falls.

Book & Job Printing

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION—SUCH AS BOOKS, PAMPHLETS, MANIFESTS

BILL-HEADS, PAT-ROLLS, CHECK-ROLLS.

BLANK FORMS, BUSINESS CARDS, BALL TICKETS, &c.

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH

AT THE OFFICE OF The Civilian and Telegraph.

A supply of Magistrates' and Constables' BLANKS—Deeds and Declarations—Negotiable and Promissory Notes, &c., always on hand.

Wit and Humor.

Why must we conclude, when seeing a pretty little female foot, that it belongs to a handsome woman? Because—'All's well that ends well.'

'My lad,' said a lady to a boy carrying a mail bag, 'are you a mail boy?' 'Yes, ma'am, but I'm a female boy, does you?'

Wanted Popping.—A lover, vainly trying to explain some scientific theory to his fair innamorata, said: 'The question is difficult, and I don't see what I can do to make it clear.'

'Suppose you pop it,' whispered the blushing damsel.

'A contemporary' states that Mr. Tait was run over and killed on the Cleveland road the other day, and adds that a 'similar misfortune' occurred to him about two years ago!

The chairman of a political meeting, seeing a rowdy who was raising his arm to throw a stone at him, bawled out—'Sir, your motion is out of order.'

An Irish Palooze.—A contractor overheard one of his party lamenting his hard-ship since coming to America; drawing, for contrast, a bright sketch of his life in the 'old country.'

'Oh, said the complainer, with a sigh, 'I was only back again to me father's palish.'

'Your father's palish is it?' responded a fellow-workman, with a jolly squint of his eye at the distressed 'noble seion.'

'Sure, an av ye wor there, ye moight shan' on the groun' an' reach yer han' down the chimney an' open the door av it.'

Hit or Miss.—In a town not far distant from the eastern border of this city an attendant upon the public sabbath worship there, was accustomed to make re-quests so frequently, loudly, and often so ineffectually, that the pastor of the parish at length suggested to him that it would be well to observe more caution in his out ward manifestations of fervor.

For a time he was so guarded in his exclamations, but on Sunday on hearing something from the pulpit of more than usual interest to him, he electrified the audience by shouting forth, 'Amen! Hit or Miss!'

Trying its Color.—I had stopped at a store in Missouri to purchase some little article, when my attention was directed to an old lady who was examining a piece of calico. She pulled it this way and that, as if she would tear it to pieces, held it up to the light in different positions, spat on a corner and rubbed it between her fingers to try if the colors were good. She then stood still a while, seeming not entirely satisfied.

At last she cut off a piece with the clerk's scissors, and handing it to a tall, gawky-looking girl, of about sixteen, standing beside her, said:—'Here, Liz Jane, you 'se clear that, 'n see it fade.'—

— Liz Jane put it into her mouth, and dutifully went to work.

An Irishwoman appeared in the court-room of Louisville, recently, to be pointed guardian for her child, and following colloquy occurred:

'What estate has your child?'

'Plaze your honor, I don't understand y'

'What has he fever?'

'Chills and fever.'

A gentleman employing a porter named Russell, asked him jocularly:

'Pray, is your coat of arms the same the Duke of Bedford's? (the house of Russell).'

'Our arms,' answered the porter, 'are suppose, pretty much alike; but there, a great difference in our coats.'

Scandal, like the Nile, is fed by innumerable streams; but it is extremely fault to trace it to its source.

Useful Receipts.

How to Boil Rice.—Put one quart of rice in a pot, boil it, wash half a pound rice, and throw it into the boiling water; boil for ten minutes, or until each grain is rather soft, but separate; drain in a colander, put it back in a pot, which you have slightly greased with butter, let it swell slowly near the fire, in the oven, until wanted. A little terry may be added; each grain will then swell up, and be well separated.

Veal Stuffing.—Chop half a pound of fat, cut in a basin with three quarters of a pound of bread crumbs, a teaspoon of salt, a quarter of pepper, a little yolk, or lemon peel chopped, three yolks, mix well, and use where directed. A pound of bread crumbs and a egg more may be used; it will make cut firmer.

Boiled Rabbit.—Stuff a rabbit as in all stuffs, put in pot ten or twelve eggs onions, with four quarts of water; fill them till tender, then add the rabbit, simmering slowly for one hour, if ripe, dish it up, keeping it warm; take the onions, chop them, and put into a pan or the pot with two ounces of butter, half a teaspoonful of pepper, four flour; mix all well, to form a purée, ring now and then; pour over the rabbit and serve; little pieces of pickled rad boiled with it is an improvement.—Use the broth as above.

Sweety Rice.—Take six pounds of sugar, broken small, boil in eight quarts water for three hours, having added three tablespoonful of salt, a bunch of thyme, bay-leaf, and sarsary if you have any. When done, pour it into earthen pan and remove the bones; the fat will do for puddings; or put the fat or two ounces of tarris, half a pound of either carrots, turnips, or celery cut thin; two teaspoonful of sugar; put it on the fire for fifteen minutes, stirring it continually, add half a pound of oat meal, and mix well; then pour over the stock that has come from the bones. Add one pound of rice previously washed; boil till tender, and serve. This will be found both cheap and nutritious.—See the Country for the People.

Put in the most conservative element in society and one to be cherished and encouraged by all lawful means. People never plot mischief when they are merry;—Laughter is an enemy of malice, a fool to sensual, and a friend to every virtue. It promotes good