

VIRGINIA ELECTION.

The gain in the contested counties of Virginia...

In the 63 counties and Boroughs heard from...

In connection with this subject we would say...

Table with columns for 1833, 1839, 1840, and various counties like Albemarle, Amherst, etc.

TO THE ORIGINAL JACKSON AND STATE RIGHTS MEN.

I would say to you a few more words on Banks and Banking. We have said that the Specie Circular was issued...

The private and associated credit of these parties was not enough to cover their demands for money. A control over the Banks became an important part of their scheme.

Mr. S. Rights party, were his flatterers.

Triumphal arches were erected to honor him; and on them was inscribed "the doctrine of the Public Declaration is the doctrine of New England!"

Indeed, it was not enough, that this man-ship was carried so far that the only competition was which of the two great parties should go farthest to degrade themselves by exalting him.

It will be remembered with how much bitterness the government and the pensioned press throughout the country, denounced the panic of 1833, and that the local banks were instructed...

Instructions were given to the deposit banks in these words: "The deposits of the public money will enable you to afford increased facilities to commerce..."

Who could have believed that the party, who lauded the President for making the removal of the public money to the local banks, and who through them gave such a stimulus to speculation...

We have extended our remarks, but as the only merit of the present party is their assumed hostility to Banks and Banking, we must be excused for adding one other extract. In his annual message, the President, speaking of his local banks, says:

"These institutions have already shown themselves competent to purchase and furnish domestic exchanges, for the convenience of trade at a reasonable rate; and not a doubt is entertained that in a short time, all the wants of the country in bank accommodations and exchanges, will be supplied as promptly and as cheaply as they have heretofore been by the Bank of the United States."

It was not until the system had been driven so far, that suspension was the inevitable consequence, that Mr. Van Buren and his partisans changed their policy in relation to banks and banking. They felt that they were responsible for the condition into which they had plunged the country, and then, like the rogue who hopes to escape by uniting in the cry of "stop thief," they became most clamorous in denouncing the banks which they had seduced into their present condition.

"COMING EVENTS CAST THEIR SHADOWS BEFORE."—The August Chronicle has copied our article under the above title, referring to Mr. Benton's sentiments in relation to the officers of the government, in which that Senator declares, that if forty thousand were opposed to the administration, he would turn them all out; but has given credit for the same, to another paper.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

There's no luck about the house. Sly Matty's face was overcast, His hopes began to lower, His sudden cabinet he called, And then the awful four, And then the wailing tongue...

Then up steps Amos grin and thin, With sick and ghastly look; You never would have thought that he was scullion and chief cook...

About the outside quires and cash, You think the nation's broke, And fairly, and I and Calhoun think This time they do not joke.

"Come, Uncle Levi, tell us now What think you of Whig votes? Oh dear! I fear they can't be bought, With my sub-ter-fuge notes. I've figured out my long reports, Arrayed in solid column. But where's your CASH, the Whigs cry out, With faces long and solemn."

"Perdition catch you all," says Mat, "Come, Forsyth, you're true blue, And are so versed in p-litics, Can tell me what to do? 'Tis I wish I could, for I am sure You'd hear it very soon, But I will go and advise with My friend J. C. Calhoun."

For he's the man to jump Jim Crow, And prove that black is white, He will convince you it's no day, Whose dark and pitchy night."

Now Harry Clay was passing by, And hearing such a roar, With hasty strides he mounted up, And opened wide the door—"HALLO!" says he, "what means this noise Within this garison? You'd better all make tracks—here comes The Patriot HARRISON."

So off they ran with nimble legs, As fast as they could lean; And "Granny" he took up the broom And swept the White House clean.

THE LAST CABINET COUNCIL. "There's no luck about the house." Sly Matty's face was overcast, His hopes began to lower, His sudden cabinet he called, And then the awful four, And then the wailing tongue...

COMMERCIAL RECORD.

Correspondence of the Pilot. The cry is still the same. From the North and the South, the East and the West, by steamboat and railroad, and in every mode of vehicular conveyance, the delegates to the great Convention which is to meet in your city on Monday, are flocking into New York...

From the New York Courier and Enquirer. There are two Loco loco papers in New York, viz: the New Era and Truth Teller, conducted wholly or in part by British Tories, that is, men drawing salaries from the British government. These papers call the Whigs (American people) "British Whigs," and the Tories are copied by such American Tory papers as the Albany Argus and its satellites. Such is the alliance now existing between the British Tories and the American Tories, how do you like it!—Emira Kerp.

THE DELEGATES FROM THE STATE OF VIRGINIA. The delegates from the state met yesterday at National Hall, for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements for their meeting in Baltimore. Nearly every county in the state was represented. J. N. Reynolds, of this city, was appointed chairman, and John S. Porter, of Staunton, and Daniel Clark, of Roanoke, secretaries. A letter was received from the chairman of the committee on Invitations, for the celebration of the Battle of Fort Mifflin, inviting the delegates to the Baltimore Convention from the different states of the Union, to visit New York on that interesting occasion, and joining with their Whig brethren of the Empire State, in doing honor to one of the most brilliant achievements of our national arms. The members agreed to meet at the Eatwell House, Baltimore, on Monday morning.

THE DELEGATES FROM THE STATE OF VIRGINIA. I congratulate you upon the result of the election in Virginia. The "Old Dominion" is safe, beyond a question, and with her in our ranks, we feel every assurance of a glorious victory next fall. Van Burenism is at an end. The career of the destructives has been arrested. The ship Sarcophagus, arrived last night from Havre, bringing news four days later from Paris, is up to the 31st of March. The papers will give you the details, and to them I refer you. The Great Western has not yet arrived. She is looked for hourly, and with great anxiety, as it is expected the news by her will be of great importance. If she left Havre on the 16th, and her regular day of sailing, she has now been over 17 days, too long for this season of the year.

THE DELEGATES FROM THE STATE OF VIRGINIA. There is no stronger indication of the severity of the times, than the unusual number of removals at present taking place among householders; and the changes from large houses to small. Our citizens have been much occupied during the late war, that they may furnish little has been done in the way of business, and Wall street has been very quiet, although N. Am. Trust was broken.
