DEFERRED ARTICLES.

IMMIGRATION.—From the 1st of April to the first of May, there arrived at New York from Europe, 7,428 an average of two hundred and forty a day.

HILM PRATT Esq., President of the Buffalo Bank, and one of the most enterprising and useful citizens of that place, died at Utica on Tuesday morning, 20th April.

LIFE ON THE FRONTIERS.—A Mrs. Webster recently returned to San Antonio, in Texas, having left Austin, August, in company with eighteen men and several women and children, designing to make a settlement about thirty miles to the north.

MADAME VESPUCCI.—The New York Herald alluding to an article in the Star, in reference to this lady, observes:

Madame Vespucci came to this country with the personal recommendations of the Queen of France, one of the most pious ladies of the age. She was no more a descendant of Vespucci, than Noah is—the latter having privately married to the Duke of Orleans, whom, for state reasons, it was necessary to separate from, repudiate or divorce her, in order to have a regular line heir to the throne, who will probably never sit thereon.

The letter from which we make the foregoing extract, contains glowing accounts of the farewell performance of Miss Fanny Estler, previous to her departure for this country in the Great Western, in which she has arrived. After the performance, she came forward, at the express command of the Queen, and appeared, in the signal for one overwhelming shout of welcome, accompanied with waving of handkerchiefs, and the tossing of bouquets.

GEN. HARRISON.—We take great pleasure in copying the following article from the Cincinnati Republican of the 25th inst. The following communication, elicited by the unwarrantable attack of Governor Carroll upon the character of General Harrison, is from Capt. Story, too well known in this community, to require any corroboration of the truth of his statements or the accuracy of his opinions, here. To those, however, in search of truth, and have not the advantage of a personal acquaintance with Captain Story, we will say that he is a gentleman of unblemished character, who is incapable of representing facts and transactions, in which he participated, and about which therefore, he cannot be mistaken. In November, 1811, Governor Carroll was probably not within 500 miles of Tippecanoe; Captain Storer was enveloped in its smoke; the Indian's tomahawk flashing in his eyes, and their yell ringing in his ears. Carroll condemns, Story vindicates Gen. Harrison. Let the candid decide between them.

Mr. Editor.—Having seen some service in the campaigns under General Harrison, and not having philosophy enough to remain quiet while slanders in the "high places" of the land are venting their party spleen upon one of the most deserving of our country's patriots, I take pleasure in stating that I am perfectly and intimately acquainted with the incidents of the late war, from 1811 to 1813. I joined General Harrison at Vincennes and belonged to that gallant corps, the 4th Regiment of U. S. Infantry.

The immediate vicinity of my situation to Gen. Harrison, gave me a fair opportunity to see and bear witness to his brave and gallant demeanor during the campaigns in which I served under him. And I now voluntarily offer this unsolicited tribute to my admiration of his bravery and military skill, and unhesitatingly declare that I will rather fight under his banner than any other General, and confidently believe that such is the feeling of every survivor of those "days of danger," that there were in the western campaigns as skillful tacticians and as brave soldiers as General Carroll, the author of a base libel upon the military fame of General Harrison, who all give it as their "unthought" opinion that Gen. H. showed more tact, skill and bravery in the Indian wars than any other military chief. And I do earnestly deprecate that General Carroll should endeavor to twine a laurel around his own brow, plucked from the wreath that the nation's gratitude has encircled that of the hero of Tippecanoe. I unhesitatingly pronounce the allegations charged by General Carroll, as slanderous patriot and the statesman, as also the citizen in private life, to refer back to the counsels and remonstrances of Washington, and to learn from him to better understand the causes and the remedies of the political difficulties in which our nation may be involved.

Pursuing this line of conduct; seeking from this pure fountain that wisdom which is essential at this period of general distress and of political throilment, to guide our people aright, we have been forcibly arrested by the following passage which occurs in a letter of Gen. Washington to John Armstrong, dated April 25, 1788, (vol. 3, Sparks Washington, p. 253).

"In a country like this, where equal liberty is enjoyed, where every man may reap his own harvest, which, by proper attention will afford him much more than is necessary for his own consumption, and where there is ample a field for every mercantile and mechanical exertion, if there cannot be money found to answer the common purposes of education, not to mention the necessary commercial circulation, it is evident that there is something amiss in the ruling political power, which requires a steady, regulating, and energetic hand to correct and control it. That money is not to be had, every man's experience tells him, and the great fall in the price of property is an unequivocal and melancholy proof of it."

Had Washington written for our own day—had he essayed to describe the condition of our people at this moment—to have stated the fact, that money is not to be had to conduct the commercial and mechanical pursuits of men, had he pointed to proofs in confirmation of it—viz. what "every man's experience tells him," and to the "unequivocal and melancholy proof" which is to be seen in "the great fall in the price of property;" had he, moreover, essayed to have pointed out the cause of all this—viz. "that there is something amiss in the ruling political power"—and had he essayed to have pointed out likewise the remedy of all this, viz. "a steady, regulating and energetic hand to correct and control it?" no language could have been more appropriate, more accurately descriptive, more applicable and true to his purpose, than the language we have quoted from him above.

Yes, as an axiom founded in living and eternal principles, we may proclaim, that when a people find themselves destitute of the money requisite to furnish them a circulating medium for the pursuits of their enterprise, industry, commercial and mechanical pursuits, "it is evident that there is something amiss in the ruling political power, which requires a steady, regulating energetic hand to correct and control it."

BANKING CAPITAL AND MANUFACTURES.—A friend informs us, that the bank located at Norrisstown, has a capital of two hundred thousand dollars, a large portion of which is loaned to the manufacturers of cotton, iron, lime, and marble, for the purpose of paying their workmen. The consequences resulting from "this judicious arrangement is, that the population has more than doubled, and land is worth more than three times its cost six years ago. If, then, $200,000, properly managed, can make a Norrisstown, what ought $64,000,000 to do in Pennsylvania?—Penn. Intq.

and untrue, unworthy of their distinguished source, and another and humiliating evidence of the desperate and extravagant length that party phrenzy has driven the well-nigh disinclined administration to support its expiring strength.

Gen. Carroll premises, that "the friends of Gen. Harrison found his claims principally upon his military services." Did the friends of the General rely only upon the distinguished military services of this veteran hero, the "unconquered leader of many battles," no fear need be felt of the issue before a grateful and unprejudiced public.

But the claims of General Harrison as a citizen, through a long life of arduous and responsible civil duties, are too well remembered by the whole western people, too well authenticated by the commendations of every President, from the immortal Washington to Jackson, by the people through the legislative branches of all the western states, by the unanimous and spontaneous acknowledgements of his brave companions in arms, by the indelible records of history, to need the contradiction of a slander. The charge, oft-repeated and hacknied as it is, "that at the battle of Tippecanoe he encamped upon ground selected by the enemy," has long since been put to rest by the faithful historian and by the testimony of as brave soldiers as ever distinguished themselves in any battle, and circulated at the time only by those low and grovelling spirits who hung about the camp for prey, like the vulture, after victory, and renewed only by the time-servers of a "hero" whose distinction has never had an advocate. As for the charges of negligence in regard to picket guards and breastworks, they are too idle and insignificant to merit notice. In fact, all the charges are so directly opposed to the developments of history, that they could have emanated only from gross ignorance or excessive partisan dishonesty.

LOSS OF TEETH SUPPLIED.—The best artificial teeth, manufactured in this city, are inserted at No. 7 Sharp street, on lower terms than at any other office, and on the most elegant and natural manner.—The advertiser has for 15 years past been constantly engaged in constructing for other dentists most difficult cases of teeth, and trusting to his own ingenuity and mechanical skill, he challenges any one in the city to produce of their make, teeth equal to his, either as single teeth, partial or complete sets, or with artificial gold, in point of beauty, workmanship, and the imitability of natural teeth. Complete sets fixed by atmospheric pressure at half the charges made by other dentists, and warranted on way inferior to any in the profession.

READ AND REFLECT. PECTORAL HONEY OF LIVERWORT. A season like the present, when, in consequence of the rapidly varying changes of the weather, alternating from dry to moist, from hot to cold, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, &c. are daily becoming more prevalent, a remedy universally effectual in removing such complaints, and deserving of special attention and recommendation. Such a remedy, prepared solely of vegetable ingredients, composing (in addition to the herb from which it derives its name) several other equally valuable and restorative in its effects, offered to the community in the PECTORAL HONEY OF LIVERWORT, which since it was first presented to the public by its inventor, has attracted the attention of thousands of his countrymen, who, by the leave of the parties, may be examined by all interested, at the store of the proprietor, in fact, the evidence of its efficacy, in the most distressing cases of Croup, Asthma, Influenza, Croup, Whooping Cough, and every inflammatory affection of the Chest and Lungs, the Pectoral Honey of Liverwort stands unrivalled, having in every instance, even when the disease has been of the most aggravated and virulent kind, effected a permanent cure, if it was used copiously, or at least afforded a partial benefit to the sufferer, which only required his own perseverance to become a perfect cure. Many of our most respectable citizens have authorized the proprietor to communicate their names, as evidence of the truth of the above statements, to all interested persons. (Prepared by JAMES D. OLDRIDGE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA. FOR THE HAIR. Its positive qualities are as follows: 1st—For infants keeping the head free from scurf, and causing a luxuriant growth of hair. 2d—For ladies after child-birth, restoring the hair to its natural strength and firmness, and preventing the falling out of the hair. 3d—For persons recovering from any debility, the same effect is produced. 4th—If used in infancy till a good growth is started, it may be preserved by attention to the following directions: 5th—It frees the head from dandruff, strengthens the roots, imparts health and vigor to the circulation, and prevents the hair from changing color and getting gray. 6th—It causes the hair to curl beautifully when done up in its coverings. 7th—No ladies' toilet should ever be without it. 8th—Children who have by any means contracted vermin in the head, are immediately and perfectly cured of them by its use. It is infallible. For sale by nearly all respectable druggists. Apply to CORNELL & CO. 25 N. 2nd Street, New York, or to ROBERTS & ATKINSON, Druggists, Corner of Hanover and Market streets.

BALDNESS.—A BEAUTIFUL HEAD OF HAIR, is the greatest ornament belonging to the human face. How strangely the loss of it changes the countenance, and prematurely brings on the appearance of old age, which causes many to recoil at being uncovered, and sometimes even shun society to avoid the jeers and aspersions of their acquaintance; the remainder of their lives are consequently spent in retirement.—In short, not even the loss of property fails the generous thinking youth with that heavy sinking gloom as does the loss of his hair. To avert all these unpleasant circumstances, OLD RIDGE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA, stops the hair from falling out on the first application, and a few bottles restores it again. It likewise produces eyebrows and eyelashes, prevents the hair from turning gray, makes it curl beautifully, and frees it from scurf. Numerous certificates of the first respectability in support of the virtues of Oldridge's Balm, are given by the proprietor.

ROBERT WHARTON, Esq., late Mayor of Philadelphia, has certified, as may be seen below, to the high character of the following preparation, in the citizen's name: The undersigned do hereby certify that we have used Oldridge's Balm of Columbia discovered by J. Oldridge, and have found it highly serviceable, not only as a preventive against the falling out of hair, but also a certain restorative. WM. THATCHER, Esq. COLONADE BATHS & READING ROOM, Saratoga Street, near the Culvert Street Spring. THE proprietors of the above Baths, and Reading Room, respectfully inform that the Baths having been refitted at considerable expense, are now re-opened for the Summer Season. The SALOON is enriched with the productions of many eminent artists, where the amateur of fine paintings may gratify his taste, and while away a pleasant hour. The regulations of the establishment in every department are such as to insure the approval of the most fastidious visitor. The Ladies' Department is contiguous to the Gentlemen's—the entrance to which is on a different street. The most scrupulous care has been taken to insure the privacy of these Baths, which are also refitted and repaired for the season.

The warm and tepid Bath has furnished a theme for many excellent articles, from the pens of our accomplished writers. Without wishing to enlarge on this subject, the Proprietor will merely refer to the recommendations of Dr. Docton, in his valuable work on Hygiene—to Dr. Darwin's popular work on Health, and to the impressive remarks on this subject by our illustrious fellow-countryman Dr. FRANKLIN: "Let all remember that cleanliness is health." THE READING ROOM is furnished with the principal newspapers of the different States of the Union, and the standard Periodicals of the day.

The SALOON is enriched with the productions of many eminent artists, where the amateur of fine paintings may gratify his taste, and while away a pleasant hour. The proprietor cannot permit the present occasion to pass without an expression of his unfeigned acknowledgments for past patronage, and an assurance of his determination to leave nothing untidied to merit and secure its continuance. ap 21 dly L.
