

The South-Western. BY L. DILLARD & Co. OFFICE: CORNER OF TEXAS AND EDWARDS STREETS, OPPOSITE HITCHCOCK'S LIVELY STABLE.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 9, 1856. FOR PRESIDENT MILLARD FILLMORE, of New York.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT ANDREW JACKSON DONELSON, of Tennessee. AGENTS FOR THE SOUTH-WESTERN: COL. T. W. BROWN, Filmore, Boston, Mass.

Those of our town subscribers who do not receive their papers regularly, will please send word to the office.

Owing to the low stage of water the navigation of Red River is dangerous and difficult. The Camden reports only three feet water on Grand Ecure bar, and falling fast.

The cotton and corn in this parish suffer greatly from the drought. Unless we have rain in a few days the crops will be poor.

Explosion.—As Mr. Mereto was drawing whiskey from a barrel, Saturday night, a portion of the liquor by some means came in contact with a lighted candle, and the barrel instantly exploded with a loud report.

We learn that the corn in Bossier parish was seriously damaged by the wind on Sunday.

The attention of brick makers is solicited to the advertisement of Dr. Colburn.

We are indebted to Messrs. Don A. Totty and H. T. Stewart, for late N. Orleans papers.

We are indebted to captain Gibbes, of the C. Hays, and Mr. A. Rachal, of Alexandria, for their kindness in forwarding our New Orleans papers.

Thanks to Mr. Dames, of the Camden, Mr. McCullough, of the White Cliffs, and the clerk of the M. L. Daugherty, for their attentions.

We are indebted to captain John Graham, of the White Cliffs, for files of N. Orleans papers to the 26th ult.

G. M. Levy & Co., have on hand an extensive assortment of reasonable dry goods, ladies' dress goods, trimmings, clothing, gentlemen's furnishing articles, etc., all fresh and of the most fashionable styles.

Those desirous of obtaining a superb set of china, for almost nothing, are requested to read the notice of Mr. Engle.

THE FOURTH.—As we predicted, the oration delivered by Mr. G. A. Austin, on the 4th inst., afforded great satisfaction. It was elegant and chaste, and demonstrated that the author possesses talents of a very high order.

THE MATS.—Mr. Hunsicker requests us to rectify a slight error, which our cotemporary of the Gazette made on Saturday, in respect to the contract for conveying the mail between Alexandria and Natchitoches.

Friends Dillard—Will you be kind enough to give publicity to the fact that an examination of the pupils of the Female Select School, at Spring Ridge, will take place on Friday next, the 13th inst.

Our postmaster has received no information from the department of the forfeiture of Mr. Gibson's contract.

Since the above was in type we learn that Messrs. Reseide & Co., have despatched the necessary stock to this place, and will have their stages running in a few days.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser writes: "It is believed that our foreign relations are in a critical state. Even with regard to France we are not certain of the continuance of friendly relations."

Captain Lewis W. Broadwell, so favorably known on Red River as a careful and accommodating boatman, has purchased the magnificent steamer Eclipse, and will hereafter run her as a weekly packet, in connection with the Princess and Natchez, in the New Orleans, Vicksburg and Lake Providence trade.

The papers of Minden, Homer, and Washington report that heavy rains have fallen in the neighborhood of those towns.

AMERICAN STATE CONVENTION.—The American party of Louisiana held a state convention at Baton Rouge, on the 16th ult., which was called to order by Mr. Glendy Burke, of New Orleans, nominating Mr. I. D. Fuller as president pro tem., and Messrs. S. F. Bouth and J. Beggs, secretaries pro tem. On motion, the chairman Messrs. J. O. Nixon, R. G. Sterling, W. T. Haiffiche, M. Courtney, and W. H. Cooley, a committee on credentials, and Messrs. Glendy Burke, J. M. Elam, James Leake, J. Hawkins, S. B. Curry and T. H. Farrar, a committee on permanent officers.

The committee on credentials reported that duly qualified delegates were in attendance from the parishes of Ascension, Assumption, Catahoula, Concorde, East Baton Rouge, East Feliciana, Jefferson, Lafourche, Natchitoches, Orleans, Pointe Coupee, Saint Landry, St. Martin, St. Mary, Terbonne, Vermilion, West Baton Rouge, W. Feliciana and Winn. The committee on permanent officers nominated the following gentlemen, who were unanimously approved:

For president: John Waddill, of Natchitoches; for vice presidents: Messrs. G. C. McWhorter, G. L. Lawton, D. Vigneau, H. W. Allen, B. Marigny, J. S. Williams and W. J. Lyle; for secretaries: Messrs. J. C. White, James Beggs, R. G. Sterling and G. H. Mann.

The convention was again called to order at the appointed hour, when the committee on resolutions through their chairman, reported the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the president of this convention be authorized to appoint a state executive committee, consisting of one member from each parish, except the parish of Orleans, which shall be tested with full powers to conduct the approaching canvass and six members shall constitute a quorum.

Resolved, That each parish committee be requested to appoint a sub-electoral for the parish, said appointment to be reported as such made to the executive committee.

Resolved, That in political affiliation we reserve none, whether native or foreign, whose judgment and sympathies are with us upon the principles we seek to enforce.

Resolved, That in political affiliation we reserve none, whether native or foreign, whose judgment and sympathies are with us upon the principles we seek to enforce.

Resolved, That in political affiliation we reserve none, whether native or foreign, whose judgment and sympathies are with us upon the principles we seek to enforce.

Resolved, That in political affiliation we reserve none, whether native or foreign, whose judgment and sympathies are with us upon the principles we seek to enforce.

Resolved, That in political affiliation we reserve none, whether native or foreign, whose judgment and sympathies are with us upon the principles we seek to enforce.

Resolved, That in political affiliation we reserve none, whether native or foreign, whose judgment and sympathies are with us upon the principles we seek to enforce.

Resolved, That in political affiliation we reserve none, whether native or foreign, whose judgment and sympathies are with us upon the principles we seek to enforce.

Resolved, That in political affiliation we reserve none, whether native or foreign, whose judgment and sympathies are with us upon the principles we seek to enforce.

Resolved, That in political affiliation we reserve none, whether native or foreign, whose judgment and sympathies are with us upon the principles we seek to enforce.

Resolved, That in political affiliation we reserve none, whether native or foreign, whose judgment and sympathies are with us upon the principles we seek to enforce.

The breach between the Irish and the democracy is evidently widening and begins to create fear and anxiety among the "faithful" leaders of the "great-unterried." It may well do so, for without the "aid and comfort" and votes of the natives of the Emerald Isle the present democratic organization could not exist.

The Columbus (Georgia) Enquirer thinks that the south ought to be startled by the fact of the admission of a large delegation of the New York free freemasons to the Cincinnati democratic national convention, and the fraternal manner in which they were embraced by the balance of the delegates.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

The rebuke which the Maysville Eagle, in the following article, administers to sundry demagogues and tricksters, is sharp and just in itself, but it receives a still keener edge from the fact that the Eagle is the only remaining "old line whig" paper in Kentucky, that is, the only whig journal which has not, like nearly all its old associates, taken its position as an advocate of the American party.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.

General Intelligence. New York, June 27.—The British steamship market, 14th inst., has been active. The Fulton, 1000 tons, chartered by the British government, and the American ship, the Louisiana, 1000 tons, chartered by the American government, are the only vessels of the kind that have been ordered.