The last Echo from Point Coupee, has not a word, about the weather. We conclude that it must be, far beneath his notice on account of its fickleness; because he tells us, he is "firm and immovable in his principles," and no politician who is; and to do himself justice, notice a thing, so shifting as the weather just now.

The carriage in which the queen of England proceeded to Boulogne is of considerable size, and consists of three compartments. The first and last compartments comprise a vestibule a cabinet de toilette; while the centre one is a handsome saloon with divans, capable of accommodating about twenty persons. The whole is hung with pearl grey figured silk; the ceiling is of the same material, and the three compartments are ornamented with Venetian glass. The body of the vehicle is painted pale green, and is decorated with arabesques.

Albert Bri-bane, the socialist, who first introduced the ideas of Charles Fourier into this country, some fifteen years ago, and who has since devoted himself to some extent to the propagation of Fourier's theory of association or attractive industry, is about to commence the publication, in the city of New York, of a weekly journal mainly devoted to the advocacy of his peculiar views. He has engaged the services of a corps of the ablest socialist writers in the country, and is himself a bold and vigorous writer, so we may rely on having in this journal Fourierism "pure and simple." Bri-bane is a man of great wealth, and can therefore afford to keep up his paper without reference to the pecuniary aspect of the enterprise.

REVIVAL OF AN OLD TRICK.—An "exiled Hungarian count," who was recently lionized at the Montgomery white sulphur springs, in Virginia, and who created a tremendous sensation among the unmarried young ladies, turns out have been a journeyman barber of New York!

EVIL EFFECTS OF SNUFF.—Absence of Mind. A young lady of our acquaintance, who is somewhat given to using the mop, (not the housewife's) bought a couple of Sloss & Allen's ten dollar handkerchiefs the other day, and while busily engaged in embroidering her name upon them, a beau called in, and in the flurry of the moment she threw her mop in her work box and the costly fabrics into the fire.

To the Citizens OF EAST BATON ROUGE.

At a meeting of the "Benevolent Association of Baton Rouge," held Monday the 17th inst., the following appeal to the citizens of East Baton Rouge, was adopted and ordered to be published in the daily papers:

The Benevolent Association although authorized to draw on the City Treasury, for relief of the sick and distressed among us, wishing to extend their operations beyond the strict construction of the city appropriation; hereby call on their friends to contribute such sums as they may be disposed to place at our disposal, for the relief of those left in destitute circumstances by sickness and death. Our books will always be open to the inspection of donors to see the manner their charities are disposed of. Any donations sent to the Secretary of the Association will be thankfully received at the present time, as we have no funds in our treasury, to meet present demands.

W. F. TUNNARD, Pres't.
